Ordeal Begins Saturday In Cleveland; Groom Also Shot

COMBINED AP & UPI

CLEVELAND — A twice-rejected suitor today critically wounded a teen-aged bride he held hostage at gun-point in his attic bedroom for nearly two days and then killed himself with a bullet in the heart.

The girl, Mrs. Lida Caldwell, 19, was shot at least once in the chest with a .32 caliber pistol.

Although "all covered with blood," she was able to walk down a flight of steps to a second-floor landing where a policeman lifted her in his arms and carried her to an ambulance.

CONDITION CRITICAL

She was rushed to Doctors Hospital where her condition was reported critical.

Batch abducted the girl and shot and wounded her new husband, Charles Caldwell, 18, at about 3 p.m. Saturday shortly after the couple had returned from Detroit where they were married earlier in the day. Caldwell was hospitalized with a cheek wound.

SHOTS FIRED

Police said they broke into the bedroom of Batch's three-room attic apartment shortly after 12:10 p.m. after two shots were fired about 20 seconds apart.

Prior to the last two shots, Batch fired at police eight times while using the girl as a shield.

University Heights Police Sgt. Chris Schoupt said Batch's mother, Martha Smith of Johnstown, Pa., talked to the boy from his kitchen and told him she loved him and would protect him.

Cleveland detective Capt. Patrick L. Garrity said when he entered the bedroom, the girl was still standing, although wounded.

GUN IN HAND

Garrity said Batch was lying on the floor, the gun in his hand.

Police said Batch had refused to talk to his mother.

"Go away and leave us alone," Mrs. Caldwell said from the bedroom before the shooting.

Mrs. Smith had flown to Cleveland from her home in

COMBINED AP & UPI

Damascus Radio reported that four Israeli planes flew over Syria today and that one of them was shot down in a brief air battle with Syrian planes south of Damascus.

It was the first incident reported on the Israeli-Syrian front in days although Israel troops have exchanged fire repeatedly with Egyptian and Jordanian forces.

SPLIT IN U.N.

Israeli and and Arabs clashed in a series of incidents last night in the Beitshean Valley 20 miles south of the Sea of Galilee, Israeli officials reported in Damascus. No casualties were reported in one skirmish but seven Israelis were wounded by grenades in a second.

Today a Syrian military communique said four Israeli planes violated Syrian air space in the Jebel Al-Sheikh area south of Damascus and in a brief dogfight "we shot down one enemy plane and our aircraft returned to their bases safely."

In Beirut the pro-Egyptian newspaper Al Moharrer called today for resumption of the war with Israel since the United Nations Security Council had failed to find a "fair and honorable solution" to the Mideast crisis.

SERIES OF CLASHES

Meanwhile at the U.N., the 10 nonpermanent members of the U.N. Security Council, split between two proposals, tried today to agree on a plan the council could adopt to send a peacemaker to the Arabs and Israelis.

One major difference was over wording of instructions to the proposed U.N. special representative concerning withdraw-

Kuchel's View On Nominee

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel says he will support the Republican presidential candidate next year providing the party's platform "reflects traditional Republican policies."

Kuchel told the California Republican League convention in San Diego Saturday night that that he is confident the platform will be based on the party's traditional philosophy.

"I would support any Republican presidential nominee standing on that platform," he said.

He also said that he would support Gov. Reagan's favorite son candidacy in the California presidential primary next June Kuchel repeated his position in support of present U.S. policy in Vietnam. He said he hopes the Republicans will not make a campaign issue out of the policy.

The league elected Leonard Ware, a Palo Alto attorney as president at its closing session yesterday.

Thailand Plans More Viet Aid

BANGKOK (UPI)—Prime Minister Thanam Kittikachorn today said Thailand would boost its fighting manpower in South Vietnam from 2,800 to 12,000 troops.

He told newsmen the United States will train the additional soldiers and finance the "small division's" equipment for fighting in Vietnam next year, probably in about seven months.

Bay Transit Area Woes To Be Aired

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Senate Transportation Committee will probe "the troubles and woes of the San Francisco Bay Area Rapid Transit District" during hearings Nov. 8-9, its chairman announced today.

Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, said the hearings would be held in Sacramento.

The three-county district "is fast running out of the construction money provided for it by the voters," Collier noted. "The committee members and I will want to know just how BARTD got into this fix, how much money will be needed to bail it out, and what steps can be taken to insure that completion costs stay within whatever additional money may be made available."

Brush Fire Destroys Home, Pump Station

SAN JOSE (UPI) — A 10-acre brush fire destroyed a home, a pumping station and came only within 50 yards of the Alum Rock branch of the San Jose Hospital last night before being brought under control.

The fire, tentatively, was believed caused by a high wind which snapped a power line in an eucalyptus grove near the home of Dr. John Cochrane, administrative resident physician.

Brush Fires Forcing Thousands From Southern California Homes

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Searing flames fed by winds up to 70 miles an hour whipped through tinder dry Southern California today, sending thousands fleeing from their home as five brush fires engulfed close to 40,000 acres.

More than 50 homes, some of them valued at more than $100,000 were reported destroyed by a fire in Orange County, a fire spokesman said. Four of the five fires blazing in Southern California were designated "major."

Temperatures climbing toward highs in the 90s plagued firefighters, and high Santa Ana winds grounded aerial tankers that firemen had counted on to drop chemical retardants on the advancing flames.

The worst fire, near the city of Orange in Orange County had swept over 15,000 acres and driven an estimated 4,000 persons from their homes, a number of which were reported destroyed.

Residents of the area sought refuge with friends, but no public shelters were established.

A second fire, dubbed the "Bailiff fire" by the State Division of Forestry, broke out in Riverside County late yesterday and burned through 20,000 acres of mountain brushland by early today.

A spokesman said the blaze was burning between the towns of San Jacinto and Beaumont, although neither community was considered to be in danger.

However, flames were advancing on the Gilman and Soboba Hot Springs resorts in the Mount San Jacinto foothills.

Three non-residential farm structures were destroyed, and evacuations of the hot springs resorts were under consideration.

Indian crews were flown in from New Mexico to help with the Bailiff fire.

Humphrey Reaches Vietnam, Praises 'Frank' Discussion

COMBINED AP & UPI

SAIGON — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey made a whirlwind visit to South Vietnam's embattled countryside today and praised a Vietnamese official who told him corruption is hurting one of the major government programs aimed at winning the war.

"Here's a man that can talk frankly and openly, which is exactly why Americans are here, so that the Vietnamese people can speak freely," said Humphrey of Maj. Nguyen Be, the commandant of the Revolutionary Development Training Center at the seaside resort city of Vung Tau.

Humphrey expressed confidence South Vietnam "will persevere in the face of aggression" and said he brought "a reaffirmation of the solemn pledge of American support for the Vietnamese people and their new government."

Maj. Be, a former Communist battalion commander who came over to the Saigon government, told Humphrey that the biggest problem that the massive, expensive Revolutionary Development program faces is lack of understanding at the provincial and district levels.

Corruption at these levels "is hurting our program," he told the vice president. The U.S. Central Intelligence Agency subsidizes the program, whose specially trained teams try to cater to the needs of contested villages and develop loyalty in them to the Saigon government.

Meanwhile, Militant Buddhists today hinted they might stage mass fierly suicides to coincide with the inauguration unless Thieu agrees to their demands.

The militant leaders said South Vietnamese police committed a "crime before history" yesterday by refusing to let the march to the moderate Buddhist faction's pagoda and "reoccupy" it.

Club-swinging police broke up the march almost before it began. The militants retreated back into their own pagoda, vowing to hold their march at a later time.

They said today they might answer the police charge against them with a wave of self-immolations unless Thieu meets their demands and withdraws his recognition of the moderate faction as the official Buddhist church in South Vietnam.

War Mission End Is Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thurston B. Morton has called anew for an end to U.S. search and destroy missions in Vietnam, saying they "have been frightful in their casualty cost."

The Kentucky Republican, a former GOP national chairman and a longtime party spokesman in the foreign affairs field, said yesterday the United States also should cut down the scope of its military operations and turn over more of the fighting to the South Vietnamese.

He suggested that what he called U.S. control of the war effort was seriously undermining South Vietnamese morale.

"We're having to undertake more and more of the jobs they should be doing and that they have apparently lost all heart for," said Morton.

"We must re-establish, if it's possible to do, a desire on the part of the South Vietnamese people to succeed in this effort, and in the pacification program," he added.

Soviets Dock 2 Satellites —Space First

Normal Function Reported In An Automatic Linking

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union announced it launched an earth satellite today that carried out an automatic docking procedure with another satellite sent up Friday.

It was the first automatic docking procedure ever carried out although the United States has carried out manned docking experiments.

The Tass news agency said satellite Cosmos 188 was launched today and made a successful rendezvous with Cosmos 186, launched last Friday.

The announcement said the "rigidly coupled" satellites are continuing their joint orbital flight according to telemetry radioed from the project. It reported all equipment functioning normally.

The spectacular docking achievement followed only by a few hours an official denial from Russia's top scientific expert that the Russians planned a space spectacular involving passengers.

RASH OF LAUNCHINGS

There were widespread rumors the Russians would pull off a major space achievement involving cosmonauts in time for the 50th anniversary celebrations of the Bolshevik revolution Nov. 7.

Mstislav Keldysh, the space head, said Western observatories were wrong in speculating the recent rash of Cosmos launchings — five in the past week alone—were dress rehearsals for manned flights.

"We have other objectives in mind," he said.

As he spoke the Russians carried out one of those objectives—the docking procedure which is a must for future manned flights in space. The announcement gave the Russians another jump in the race for the moon.

At 12:20 p.m. (4:20 a.m. EST) as Keldysh spoke to reporters the two Cosmos satellites linked, Tass said.

'SPECIAL DEVICES'

It said the docking was achieved through "special devices for approaching and linking by special radio means."

After the docking the two sputniks continued to fly together around the earth at altitudes ranging between 124 and 171 miles, Tass said. They circled the earth once every 88 to 97 minutes at an angle to the earth of 51.7 degrees.

They were following roughly the same orbit as that of Soyuz1, Russia's last manned spaceship, which ended in disaster last April when it crash-landed, killing its cosmonaut, Vladimir Komraov.

Tass said the dockings cleared the way for the building of space platforms in orbits.

The linkup gave the Russians a new 50th anniversary present to go with another unmanned triumph Oct. 18—the soft landing of a space station on the surface of the planet Venus.

Infantry Traps Guerrillas In Wall Of Fire

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. troops pursuing a guerrilla band that attacked a U.S. advisers camp near the Cambodian border yesterday trapped the fleeing Communists today between walls of fire and killed 80 of them with napalm and fragmentation bombs.

The American revenge ran the Communist toll in two days of savage fighting to 228. The Americans and Vietnamese troops smashed the human wave assault by 1,200 Viet Cong yesterday and killed 148 during a seesaw battle.

RED BANNER

At one point in fighting the Viet Cong reached the center of one of two American camps under attack and ran their Red banner up a flagpole, but the defenders drove them off, seized the flag and chased the Communists into the jungle.

A military spokesman said two companies of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division caught up today with the fleeing guerrillas, surrounded them with a ring of fire and called in warplanes which dropped napalm and high explosive antipersonnel bombs which erupt into thousands of deadly pellets.

U.S. troops reported four killed and four wounded today.

AIR WAR

In yesterday's battle 2 Americans and 14 South Vietnamese were killed and 10 U.S. soldiers and 37 South Vietnamese wounded. The battle scene was 70 miles north of Saigon in the old Iron Triangle sector.

In the air war U.S. Air Force, Navy and Marine pilots flew 111 missions against North Vietnam yesterday in the sixth consecutive day of attacks against the Hanoi-Haiphong area. A spokesman said they swept past Communist MIGs in bloodless dogfights to hit the Communist war complex.

In Saigon U.S. and Vietnamese authorities began taking strict security precautions to head off a possible Viet Cong attack tomorrow when Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey attends the inauguration of President Nguyen Van Thieu.

In the air war, the North Vietnamese claimed they shot down four U.S. jets yesterday, including a B52. U.S. spokesmen reported no losses. Despite Communist reports, U.S. spokesmen have denied all claims of any B52's being shot down.

Romney Stiffens Attacks On LBJ

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Michigan Gov. George Romney, seemingly picking up the tempo and stiffening the tenor of his attacks on President Johnson, continues today his five-day swing through New England.

The Republican governor, who has said he'll enter the New Hampshire primary March 12 if he decides to seek the presidency, rested in that state Sunday after launching two strong verbal assaults on Johnson.

In a speech at Burlington, V., Romney told an audience of 1,500 Saturday night that Johnson's administration is "distrusted and discredited at home and its lack of credibility at home is eroding America's credibility abroad."

Earlier Romney told a meeting of GOP officials in Manchester, N.H., the nation is headed for trouble because it has "a leader who doesn't tell the truth."

Meanwhile Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, who described Johnson as a "deep personal friend," nevertheless said he couldn't pledge right now to back Johnson for re-election.

"That depends on who is running against him," Church said Sunday when asked at a meeting of the Idaho Press Club in Boise about backing Johnson in 1968.

But Church, a persistent war critic, ruled out one GOP candidate.

"I can tell you what I'd do if they nominated Nixon," Church said of the former Republican vice president. "He'd just get us in deeper."

George Wallace, the ex-Alabama governor who says he'll run for president on a third party ticket if neither major party builds a conservative platform, talked on national television of being threatened.

He didn't go into detail about the threats but said he's received them from "revolutionaries, activists and Communists—the same people who want us to lose the war in Vietnam."

Wallace blamed the nation's riots on Communists, anarchists and activists. "There are no underlying causes to burn down a city unless you don't love your country," he said. "Slums and unemployment have nothing to do with it."

He was interviewed in Portland, Ore., for the CBS television program "Face the Nation."

Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, suggested meanwhile a national law cracking down on antidraft, antiwar demonstrators.

There are plenty of laws to cover them if we were technically in a state of war," said Reagan. "Perhaps there would be a possibility of legislation to implement the same rules regarding giving aid and comfort to the enemy."

Reagan spoke to newsmen in Sacramento after returning home from a GOP fund-raising tour to the Midwest and South.

Nobel Prize For Physics To Bethe

STOCKHOLM (AP) — The Swedish Academy of Science awarded the 1967 Nobel Prize in physics today to Prof. Hans A. Bethe of Cornell University for his contributions to the theory of nuclear reactions and especially his discoveries concerning the energy production in stars.

Bethe, 61, was born in Alsace while it was German territory and started his academic career in Germany. Forced to leave when Hitler came to power, he spent two years in England and went to Cornell, in Ithaca, N.Y., in 1935.

Since 1937 he has held the chair of theoretical physics at Cornell.

The physics prize is the third of the 1967 Nobel awards to be announced.

The prize for literature went to Guatemalan novelist-diplomat Miguel Angel Asturias Oct. 19 for his epic novels about the troubles of the poor in his Central American country.

The previous day three medical researchers shared the prize for physiology or medicine. They were Haldan Keffer Hartline of New York, George Wald of Cambridge, Mass., and Ragnar Granit of Seden.

Still to be awarded is the 1967 Nobel Peace Prize, scheduled to be announced in Oslo, Norway, before Nov. 15, but there has been speculation that this will not be awarded this year.

Nearly 60 per cent of the world's passenger cars are in the United States.

Sound Wave Photography For Medicine

HUNTINGTON BEACH (AP) — Three dimensional pictures made with sound waves instead of light have been produced by a team of scientists.

Dr. Alexander Metherell of McDonnell Douglas Aircraft Corp.'s Advanced Research Laboratories says the technique eventually could replace X-rays in medical diagnosis and may lead to photography at long distances under water.

Research by a group headed by Metherell, reported in the current issue of the Journal of the Acoustical Society of America, indicates the pictures can be made in color by using three different frequencies of sound to correspond with the three primary colors.

Metherell predicts the technique will permit identification of submarines at distances of 20 miles or more, three dimensional maps of the ocean floor at any depth, and a three-D look into any part of the human body without danger of tissue damage from radiation.

Metherell says the process will be especially valuable in taking pictures under water, where light penetrates only 100 feet or so but sound travels for miles. He plans to "photograph" distant objects under water by converting sonar-type waves into visible images.

He also sees great benefit in medical diagnosis.

The parents, Victor and Mary Leon, had arrived at the Mikwuk Indian Reservation in Tuolumne County with their children only a few days before the Saturday fire.

Authorities said the Leons left a lighted candle in the trailer when they went to visit another family in a trailer 50 feet away about 11 p.m.

Viet Fight Immoral: Pike; Follow Conscience: Myers

WESTMINISTER, Md. (AP) —Controversial Episcopal Bishop James A. Pike has told a college audience that it is immoral to fight in Vietnam just "because LBJ says so."

Pike, in an address yesterday at Western Maryland College, said it is immoral for a young man to allow his draft board, his President or anyone else to decide whether he will fight in Vietnam.

"If you believe that this slaughter is right, then get in there and kill, kill, kill," said the former bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of California.

In San Francisco, Bishop C. Kilmer Myers, head of the Episcopal Diocese of California, is offering to help youth avert service in the Vietnam war.

He said yesterday the aid would be provided "even if the officers of the church are attacked and jailed."

The bishop told the annual youth vesper services that young men should obey their consciences in regard to war and violence.

"The church will defend the right of any man to obey his conscience even if he does not believe in God," he said.

Pair Thrown From Auto; Both Serious

Two San Francisco men were seriously injured when they were thrown from a car as it toppled 1,000 feet down an embankment off Ridgecrest Boulevard, two miles south of Fairfax-Bolinas Road Saturday afternoon.

The California Highway Patrol reported that the Southbound car went broadside over a cliff while rounding a curve, at 4:40 p.m.

Charles Wayne Dowling, 20 of 1425 Chestnut St., listed as the driver, was discovered 150 feet below the roadway. His 4207 24th Street, was discovered 200 feet below the roadway, and passenger, Rolf Selitsch, 21, of the car 1,000 feet from the roadway.

Dowling, who suffered a cerebral concussion and loin strain, was examined at Marin General Hospital and transferred to Letterman General Hospital in San Francisco, where no report on his condition was available.

Selitsch, who suffered a fractured hip, was admitted to Marin General Hospital where he was reported in good condition today.

Officers said Dowling was listed as the driver, but that it was possible that Selitsch, owner of the car, could have been driving.

Marin Players Out Of Tourney

Cleone Myers of Kentfield and Violet Mercer of Peacock Gap, leading California contenders in the Las Vegas Rubber Bridge Tournament through Saturday, were knocked out yesterday by the Tobias Stone and Phil Fledsman of New York.

The two Marin players won 10 of the first 12 rounds Friday and Saturday. Of the 97 pairs in the $10,000 tournament, only two teams had won 11 at that point, and Mrs. Myers and Mrs. Mercer were tied for third place until yesterday's knockout.

Legislature To Face Same Money Issues

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—When the legislature returns to renew its battle with the dollar sign in January, it will find all of the problems it found a year ago, despite some economies in government and the passage of a tax increase of nearly $1 billion a year.

This is the careful forecast of A. Alan Post, legislative analyst who is hired by the legislature to advise the members on money matters. Post, with a sizable staff, provides the lawmakers with their own figures on government costs, to give them something to compare with the statistics of the state department of finance.

CLOSE-MOUTHED

Post, who is close-mouthed and supposed to be that way, points out alternatives to the legislature and leaves the decision up to them.

In the case of 1968, Post said there will have to be some big political decisions made by the legislature.

The fact of the matter is, there will be enough money from tax revenues in 1968 to balance a rock-bottom budget and do one of two other things. These other alternatives are: 1) provide for capital outlay for state construction, primarily buildings for higher education; or 2) provide tax relief for the property owners. But not both.

"The way it looks now, the legislature will have to finance the capital outlay out of increased tax revenues or from a bond issue," Post said. "Considering the fact that presently, by law, the legislature is committed to additional tax relief, it then seems clear that the legislature will either have to provide additional tax revenues or go into the bond issue."

NOTHING NEW

The rock-bottom budget that could be financed by current revenues, along with either state building or tax relief, would not include any new programs, but could not include more than a normal salary increase for state employees, of about 5 per cent.

The legislature will have a tough time deciding whether it wishes to float another bond issue of $200 million or so to finance state construction—when it adopted a policy resolution several years ago declaring that such construction must be put on a pay-as-you-go basis.

But it will have even a tougher time in postponing property tax relief. It will be tougher because the legislature made it that way.

When the big education finance bill of 1967 was approved, which increased state support to the public schools by $145 million a year, the legislature put some hooks into the bill. These hooks provided that, if this full amount of school support money was not provided and, if another $155 million was not provided for property tax relief by June 15, 1968, the sales tax would drop back by one-half cent.

Youth Listed As A Runaway

Sam Lee Ferry Jr., 17, was reported today by Novato police as a runaway from his home at 47 Washington Street since Oct. 22.

Sam was described as five feet, 10 inches tall, of slim build, weighing 130 pounds with brown hair and eyes. He was wearing a white T-shirt and brown pants when last seen.

Still missing is Robert Lee Folsom, 15, of 141 San Carlos Way, Novato, according to Novato police.

Pair Thrown From Auto; Both Serious

Two San Francisco men were seriously injured when they were thrown from a car as it toppled 1,000 feet down an embankment off Ridgecrest Boulevard, two miles south of Fairfax-Bolinas Road Saturday afternoon.

The California Highway Patrol reported that the Southbound car went broadside over a cliff while rounding a curve, at 4:40 p.m.

Charles Wayne Dowling, 20 of 1425 Chestnut St., listed as the driver, was discovered 150 feet below the roadway. His 4207 24th Street, was discovered 200 feet below the roadway, and passenger, Rolf Selitsch, 21, of the car 1,000 feet from the roadway.

Dowling, who suffered a cerebral concussion and loin strain, was examined at Marin General Hospital and transferred to Letterman General Hospital in San Francisco, where no report on his condition was available.

Selitsch, who suffered a fractured hip, was admitted to Marin General Hospital where he was reported in good condition today.

Officers said Dowling was listed as the driver, but that it was possible that Selitsch, owner of the car, could have been driving.

Marin Players Out Of Tourney

Cleone Myers of Kentfield and Violet Mercer of Peacock Gap, leading California contenders in the Las Vegas Rubber Bridge Tournament through Saturday, were knocked out yesterday by the Tobias Stone and Phil Fledsman of New York.

The two Marin players won 10 of the first 12 rounds Friday and Saturday. Of the 97 pairs in the $10,000 tournament, only two teams had won 11 at that point, and Mrs. Myers and Mrs. Mercer were tied for third place until yesterday's knockout.

Legislature To Face Same Money Issues

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—When the legislature returns to renew its battle with the dollar sign in January, it will find all of the problems it found a year ago, despite some economies in government and the passage of a tax increase of nearly $1 billion a year.

This is the careful forecast of A. Alan Post, legislative analyst who is hired by the legislature to advise the members on money matters. Post, with a sizable staff, provides the lawmakers with their own figures on government costs, to give them something to compare with the statistics of the state department of finance.

CLOSE-MOUTHED

Post, who is close-mouthed and supposed to be that way, points out alternatives to the legislature and leaves the decision up to them.

In the case of 1968, Post said there will have to be some big political decisions made by the legislature.

The fact of the matter is, there will be enough money from tax revenues in 1968 to balance a rock-bottom budget and do one of two other things. These other alternatives are: 1) provide for capital outlay for state construction, primarily buildings for higher education; or 2) provide tax relief for the property owners. But not both.

"The way it looks now, the legislature will have to finance the capital outlay out of increased tax revenues or from a bond issue," Post said. "Considering the fact that presently, by law, the legislature is committed to additional tax relief, it then seems clear that the legislature will either have to provide additional tax revenues or go into the bond issue."

NOTHING NEW

The rock-bottom budget that could be financed by current revenues, along with either state building or tax relief, would not include any new programs, but could not include more than a normal salary increase for state employees, of about 5 per cent.

The legislature will have a tough time deciding whether it wishes to float another bond issue of $200 million or so to finance state construction—when it adopted a policy resolution several years ago declaring that such construction must be put on a pay-as-you-go basis.

But it will have even a tougher time in postponing property tax relief. It will be tougher because the legislature made it that way.

When the big education finance bill of 1967 was approved, which increased state support to the public schools by $145 million a year, the legislature put some hooks into the bill. These hooks provided that, if this full amount of school support money was not provided and, if another $155 million was not provided for property tax relief by June 15, 1968, the sales tax would drop back by one-half cent.

Theft, Knife Possession Trials To Start Tomorrow

Jury trials for two men jointly accused of burglary and for a San Quentin inmate charged with illegal knife possession have been scheduled on the Marin Superior Court master calendar to begin tomorrow.

Trial of Henry Earl Crutchfield, 18, and Morlin Smith, 20, charged with the June 16 burglary of the home of Andrew S. Cowie, 1135 Meadowsweet Drive, Corte Madera, will start before Judge Thomas F. Keating at 10 a.m.

Trial for Rudolph A. Cadena, serving time for second degree murder in Kern County in 1959, was scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. before Judge Joseph G. Wilson.

Cadena allegedly had the knife May 6.

Jury trial for Hazel Mae Oliver, charged with welfare chiseling and scheduled for this week, was continued for the week of Nov. 27. The defendant, a 43-year-old unemployed nurse residing at 7 Woodland Avenue, San Rafael, is accused of drawing welfare funds from January of 1965 through last March, but not reporting baby-sitting income and other money received.

Setting of a new trial for John Thomas Norton, 25, whose trial for felony assault on an officer and marijuana possession ended in a hung jury Wednesday, was scheduled for 9:30 a.m. Dec. 11.

The jury convicted Thomas, of Muir Beach, of a third count of possession of an illegal sawed-off rifle, however. Judgment for that is scheduled for Nov. 27.

Batch, a slim sandy-haired man described by neighbors as a "clean-cut college type," abducted the girl before 3 p.m. Saturday from a room in the Parmly Hotel in Cleveland after shooting her husband, Charles Caldwell, 18, and wounding him in the cheek.

Batch was waiting in the hotel room when the young couple returned from Detroit where they were married Saturday.

It was not until 8:40 a.m. yesterday when police finally found Batch and the girl in his attic apartment in a rambling three-story frame house in the residential suburb of University Heights.

About 20 policemen surrounded the gray, shingled, two-family dwelling but made no move to enter a bedroom where Batch was forcing the girl to lie on a bed with the pistol at her temple.

Throughout the night the police and four priests attempted to persuade Batch to release the girl and give himself up. Batch chased one priest down the stairs at gunpoint.

A Canadian-Danish draft said no state in the area should "persist in refusing to withdraw" troops that are on another's territory against its will.

A resolution submitted by Argentina, Brazil, Ethiopia, India, Mali and Nigeria said the Israelis should withdraw either "to positions they held on June 4"—the day before the war began—or "from all the territories occupied as a result of the recent conflict." The phrase to be used depended on final instructions some of the delegates receive from their governments.

Some diplomats said they expected a compromise by tomorrow or Wednesday and a meeting of the 15-nation council a day later to adopt the resolution.

away from the facility, and only a small tool shed was destroyed. Flames burned around the plant, and then moved into other areas.

Another big fire in the Topanga Canyon of Los Angeles County was near containment today. It had blackened 650 acres and destroyed three buildings, one of them a vacant farm house.

Firemen said it was "looking better all the time," although large sections of fire line remained to be laid.

At Julian in San Diego County, a brush fire fanned by hot desert winds burned about 7,000 acres today threatened resort homes and a YMCA camp.

The fire, in the Pine Hills area south of Julian, was burning out of control despite the efforts of hundreds of men and dozens of pieces of equipment.

The State Forestry Division, which released the acreage figure, said that one home may have been burned. Residents were moving out of the area as the flames continued to advance.

Hot Santa Ana winds up to 62 knots were recorded at nearby Mount Laguna this morning. Clouds of smoke from the fire were visible throughout the county. Low humidity from the Santa Ana condition added to the fire danger.

Another blaze broke out this morning southwest of the town of Ramona and burned out of control. At least 400 acres were consumed and one house was believed to have burned, officials said.

Moon Eyed As Source For Raw Materials

By SCIENCE SERVICE

ANAHEIM — The moon could be an ideal source of raw materials for use by earth-orbiting factories, as well as being a natural observatory site for huge radio telescopes made literally of lunar craters, according to scientists gathered here at the largest U.S. conference on space.

In addition, the moon may well be able to provide its visitors orygen to breathe, water to drink, power for machinery, fuel for scapeships, and material for building.

Tiny microelectric circuits, which often must be manufactured in a super-clean environment, or vacuum or both, could be easily and inexpensively produced in earth orbit using materials mined on the lunar surface, according to Alfred M. Mayo, a California engineering consultant.

Raw materials could be sent from the moon to an earth-orbiting factory with only one-fourteenth of the energy needed to fire them up from earth, Mayo told the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics. It is "very probable," he said, that the moon contains the right kind of material. Meteorites that have reached earth, similar to those that bombard the moon, have been found to contain, nickel, iron, precious metals and even diamond.

Another use for the moon would take advantage of its craters. Those with the appropriate parabolic shape could be easily adapted into giant telescopes for use with low frequency radio waves, said John M. Greiner, a physicist with General Electric Co.'s missile and space division in Philadelphia.

At least 30 suitable craters have already been found, he said, ranging in diameter from 8 to 18 miles. Besides, being much less costly than conventional telescopes, since the main part — the parabolic reflector or "dish" — already exists, the crater telescopes would not be covered by earth's blanket of atmosphere.

A variety of techniques were described for production of oxygen, water and other usable materials from the moon's harsh substance by Peter E. Glaser of Arthur D. Little Inc., Cambridge, Mass.

Controlled underground explosion of a one kiloton nuclear device would vaporize 10,000 pounds of water from rock containing only one per cent moisture, Glaser said. A process of breaking down silicate rock with methane gas could produce 72,000 pounds of oxygen per year using a 93 kilowatt power plant, possibly a nuclear reactor.

Basalt, the material found by the Surveyor spacecraft to be a common rock on the lunar surface, might serve as a casting material for pipes and other structures.

Rocket propellants such as liquid hydrogen, liquid oxygen, fluorine, methane and others might be produced from gas and liquid deposits forced up by the volcanic activity from the moon's core, according to three scientists from the U.S. Naval Weapons Center in China Lake, Calif. and the University of California at Los Angeles.

Pipes sunk below the surface, mines to extract water-absorbent mineral salts, and even mines for ice or permafrost (if there is any) could all provide fuel and life support for round-trip space flights or interplanetary stopovers, the investigators reported.

At least 10 researchers at the conference delivered papers concerned with the practical uses of the moon, above and beyond its pure research value. With the future of post-Apolo space activity becoming more and more uncertain, economic leverage may be the only way to keep man on the moon.

As Peter Glaser pointed out, "expanded lunar exploration will be feasible only when the long-range benefits . . . receive . . . the support of individuals and institutions with no direct stake in the space program."

A Canadian-Danish draft said no state in the area should "persist in refusing to withdraw" troops that are on another's territory against its will.

A resolution submitted by Argentina, Brazil, Ethiopia, India, Mali and Nigeria said the Israelis should withdraw either "to positions they held on June 4"—the day before the war began—or "from all the territories occupied as a result of the recent conflict." The phrase to be used depended on final instructions some of the delegates receive from their governments.

Some diplomats said they expected a compromise by tomorrow or Wednesday and a meeting of the 15-nation council a day later to adopt the resolution.

away from the facility, and only a small tool shed was destroyed. Flames burned around the plant, and then moved into other areas.

Another big fire in the Topanga Canyon of Los Angeles County was near containment today. It had blackened 650 acres and destroyed three buildings, one of them a vacant farm house.

Firemen said it was "looking better all the time," although large sections of fire line remained to be laid.

At Julian in San Diego County, a brush fire fanned by hot desert winds burned about 7,000 acres today threatened resort homes and a YMCA camp.

The fire, in the Pine Hills area south of Julian, was burning out of control despite the efforts of hundreds of men and dozens of pieces of equipment.

The State Forestry Division, which released the acreage figure, said that one home may have been burned. Residents were moving out of the area as the flames continued to advance.

Hot Santa Ana winds up to 62 knots were recorded at nearby Mount Laguna this morning. Clouds of smoke from the fire were visible throughout the county. Low humidity from the Santa Ana condition added to the fire danger.

Another blaze broke out this morning southwest of the town of Ramona and burned out of control. At least 400 acres were consumed and one house was believed to have burned, officials said.

Moon Eyed As Source For Raw Materials

By SCIENCE SERVICE

ANAHEIM — The moon could be an ideal source of raw materials for use by earth-orbiting factories, as well as being a natural observatory site for huge radio telescopes made literally of lunar craters, according to scientists gathered here at the largest U.S. conference on space.

In addition, the moon may well be able to provide its visitors orygen to breathe, water to drink, power for machinery, fuel for scapeships, and material for building.

Tiny microelectric circuits, which often must be manufactured in a super-clean environment, or vacuum or both, could be easily and inexpensively produced in earth orbit using materials mined on the lunar surface, according to Alfred M. Mayo, a California engineering consultant.

Raw materials could be sent from the moon to an earth-orbiting factory with only one-fourteenth of the energy needed to fire them up from earth, Mayo told the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics. It is "very probable," he said, that the moon contains the right kind of material. Meteorites that have reached earth, similar to those that bombard the moon, have been found to contain, nickel, iron, precious metals and even diamond.

Another use for the moon would take advantage of its craters. Those with the appropriate parabolic shape could be easily adapted into giant telescopes for use with low frequency radio waves, said John M. Greiner, a physicist with General Electric Co.'s missile and space division in Philadelphia.

At least 30 suitable craters have already been found, he said, ranging in diameter from 8 to 18 miles. Besides, being much less costly than conventional telescopes, since the main part — the parabolic reflector or "dish" — already exists, the crater telescopes would not be covered by earth's blanket of atmosphere.

A variety of techniques were described for production of oxygen, water and other usable materials from the moon's harsh substance by Peter E. Glaser of Arthur D. Little Inc., Cambridge, Mass.

Controlled underground explosion of a one kiloton nuclear device would vaporize 10,000 pounds of water from rock containing only one per cent moisture, Glaser said. A process of breaking down silicate rock with methane gas could produce 72,000 pounds of oxygen per year using a 93 kilowatt power plant, possibly a nuclear reactor.

Basalt, the material found by the Surveyor spacecraft to be a common rock on the lunar surface, might serve as a casting material for pipes and other structures.

Rocket propellants such as liquid hydrogen, liquid oxygen, fluorine, methane and others might be produced from gas and liquid deposits forced up by the volcanic activity from the moon's core, according to three scientists from the U.S. Naval Weapons Center in China Lake, Calif. and the University of California at Los Angeles.

Pipes sunk below the surface, mines to extract water-absorbent mineral salts, and even mines for ice or permafrost (if there is any) could all provide fuel and life support for round-trip space flights or interplanetary stop-overs, the investigators reported.

At least 10 researchers at the conference delivered papers concerned with the practical uses of the moon, above and beyond its pure research value. With the future of post-Apolo space activity becoming more and more uncertain, economic leverage may be the only way to keep man on the moon.

As Peter Glaser pointed out, "expanded lunar exploration will be feasible only when the long-range benefits . . . receive . . . the support of individuals and institutions with no direct stake in the space program."

Gold Supply Climbs Last Month; First Since April

The Federal Reserve Board said today the total gold supply rose by $2 million during the month to $13.08 billion, the first increase since a $50 million advance last April.

Since that time gold has been drained from the U.S. stockpile mainly because of the Middle East crisis and sales to domestic users.

September marked the end of these heavy foreign drains and completed a year in which France bought no American gold. It had been French policy in recent years to convert at least $34 million of her excess dollar holdings into gold each month.

Treatment Of Deaf Tots Up

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Epidemics of rubella, commonly known as German measles, have overcrowded facilities of the San Francisco Hearing and Speech Center, its executive director said today.

Runaway Reports Beating, Attack

A 13-year-old girl, a runaway from the Family Rehabilitation Center, was beaten early yesterday and possibly raped by two youths in Marin City, sheriff's deputies reported today.

The girl told deputies she was raped at 1:30 a.m. in the 100 block on Cole Drive by two Negro youths she said were 17 or 18 years old, weighed 200 pounds and were 6 feet 6 inches tall. She had a black eye and other indications she had been beaten. The girl was taken to Juvenile Hall.

Gold Supply Climbs Last Month; First Since April

The Federal Reserve Board said today the total gold supply rose by $2 million during the month to $13.08 billion, the first increase since a $50 million advance last April.

Since that time gold has been drained from the U.S. stockpile mainly because of the Middle East crisis and sales to domestic users.

September marked the end of these heavy foreign drains and completed a year in which France bought no American gold. It had been French policy in recent years to convert at least $34 million of her excess dollar holdings into gold each month.

Treatment Of Deaf Tots Up

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Epidemics of rubella, commonly known as German measles, have overcrowded facilities of the San Francisco Hearing and Speech Center, its executive director said today.

Dr. Donald R. Calvret said the 1964 and 1965 epidemics have boosted enrollment of preschool deaf babies from 15 to 100.

Two Bodies May Be Missing Businessmen

DAYTON, Nev. (AP) — The bodies of two men have been found in a shallow grave on the wind-blown desert near here, and there is speculation they are the remains of two Wyoming businessmen.

Robert F. Stucker, 30, and Larry W. Olinger, 33, both of Jackson, checked out of the Continental Lodge Motel in Reno on Aug. 22 "and have never been heard from or seen since," say police reports.

Lyon County Sheriff George Allen said there were no papers or any other means of identification on the bodies. He said an autopsy and pathological studies will be made to identify the men and determine how they died.

The bodies were discovered by four unidentified sailors based at Fallon Naval Air Station, who were rock and bottle hunting near Dayton about 35 miles southeast of Reno.

The grave apparently was opened by prowling animals, the sheriff said, and the sailors spotted part of one of the uncovered bodies.

Racial Leader Is Named Queen

SAN JOSE (UPI) — Valerie Dickerson, one of the Negro leaders in last month's racial dispute at San Jose State College, has been voted the school's homecoming queen.

Miss Dickerson, 20, Riverside, one of about 100 Negroes at the 23,000 - student college, was chosen Saturday by student vote. She is a senior majoring in radio-television news journalism.

The 5-foot-3 Miss Dickerson was active in the campus crisis which resulted in the cancellation of San Jose's Sept. 23 football game here with the University of Texas at El Paso.

Auditorium On Agenda For Board

The supervisors will also receive a Marin Grand Jury interim report recommending changes in penalties on marijuana possession.

County Administrator Alan Bruce will report on revenues that the county and various cities can get if the county adopts a "property transfer tax," a 55-cent tax per $500 of value on real property transfers. Such a tax would replace the federal excise levy due to expire at the end of this year.

The agenda also includes a hearing on a proposed amendment to the county zoning code, to replace "architectural supervision" with "design review," and a discussion of flood problems in the College Park area of Larkspur.

Ribicoff Calls Hippies 'Dime-Store Mystics'

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff says the hippie movement in America is "a self-deluding flight from reality based on drugs, dope and dime-store mysticism."

Addressing a B'Nai B'Rith dinner, the "Connecticut Democrat said yesterday the movement is a "cruel hoax" that is destined to collapse "because it contributes nothing to society or self."

He said the hippies assume that "wisdom and insight are instantly available from a hypodermic needle or a psychedelic pill."

"Seeking bliss," he said, the hippies "have found instead death, drug addiction, disease and mental illness."

He told his youthful audience that Americans could not back away from reality but must, instead, face up to their responsibilities in the United States and in the world.

"Diligence, discipline and service to humanity must form the basis for any meaningful philosophy of life," he said.

Ross Center Blooms For A Garden Show

About 50 Marinites exhibited at the show, said Mrs. Calvin Rossi of San Rafael, publicity director for the show, who made the crowd estimate. Mrs. Rossi was one of the winners in the horticultural division, taking an award with a plant judged best chrysanthemum.

Other winners in the show, with the theme "Gardens Are for People" were, in the horticultural division, Homer F. Crowell of San Anselmo for three chrysanthemum cut specimens, and Mrs. Clifford J. Flack of Kentfield for a Pteris fern plant.

In the flower arrangement division, top awards went to Thelma Jones of Kentfield, Le-Roi Dowdell of Grenbrae and Marcella Murphy of San Rafael. In the men's arrangement division, George Buchanan of San Anselmo, John Mladzianowski of Fairfax and Hammond Thomson of Corte Madera won blue ribbons.

Awards of appreciation were given to Marin Bonsai Club, the Orchid Socity of Marin and Eugene Cable of Sausalito for special exhibits.

Wright, who suffered a cerebral concussion and cut forearm, was in Marin General Hospital until released yesterday.

His passenger, Jean C. Lezzeni, 18, of 3 Deer Park Drive, Fairfax, who suffered a sprained left ankle and fractured knee, was admitted to Marin General Hospiltal where she was reported in good condition today. The accident occurred at 9:50 p.m.

23 Marinites To Take Tax Examinations

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Twenty-three applicants from Marin County will take an interitance tax appraiser qualifying examination on Saturday in San Francisco, State Controller Houston I. Flournoy reported today.

State-wide, 1,126 will take the exam, which will be administered by the State Personnel Board.

Marin County, which formerly had two appraisers, has only one at present, Ralph T. McGrath of Novato. McGrath, a real estate broker, was appointed by Flournoy last spring. He is among those to take the examination.

Flournoy said incumbent appraisers, which include Democrats and Republicans, will be replaced if they do not take the examination or fail to pass it.

The tests were ordered by Flournoy when the legislature failed to pass a bill by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, to abolish the system of appointing appraisers.

Wallet Is Lost

Flag Waver In Convertible Held As Drinking Suspect

A passenger in a convertible, who stood up, yelling and waving a red flag while passing through Tiburon yesterday was arrested on suspicion of being drunk in and about a vehicle at Trestle Glenn and Tiburon Boulevard.

The unusual behavoir of James Kenneth Battaglia, 25, of Oakland, was first noticed about 6:30 p.m. near Tiburon Lodge, where he was seen standing up in the right seat, waving and yelling at passersby. At the entry to Del Mar School at Avenida Miraflores and Tiburon Boulevard he was seen waving a red flag, as though starting an imaginary speedway race.

The Oakland man could not pass the standard roadside sobriety test, according to Sheriff's Deputy John O. Goff, who said he smelled a strong odor of alcohol on the suspect's breath. When asked where he obtained the red flag, Battaglia told the officer that it was from Pacific Gas and Electric Co.'s construction project on Main Street in Tiburon.

The driver of the automobile, Lorn Thomas Dreitzler, of 882 Patricia Way, San Rafael, and another passenger, George Frederick Powers of 28 Oak Knoll Road, San Rafael, were not cited.

The Emporium Curtains and Ensembles: All seven Big E's

Come to Florida and see Greece, Spain, Venice, the Amazon and the Wild West.

There is in Florida the Florida you already know.

The sun. The beaches. The glamorous hotels.

And that's something worth seeing in itself.

But there is also the Florida you don't know.

The little town of Tarpon Springs, where just about everybody speaks Greek. Because just about everybody is Greek. Where you can get a lunch of goat cheese and ouzo, and while you eat dessert watch the young Greek skin divers dive for sponge.

There is Spain's contribution, St. Augustine. The oldest city in the country. Where after a day's looking at the Spanish architecture, you can refresh yourself at the Fountain of Youth.

There is also a place made famous every year by boys and girls flocking to it. Fort Lauderdale. But a more deserving reason for fame is its 135 miles of canals and waterways—making it some kind of romantic, tropical Venice.

And Florida's answer to the Amazon—the famous Everglades. Along with a little place outside of West Palm Beach where you can drive right through the jungle and stare out at all kinds of wild beasts.

And then there's the most unlikely of all places—Florida's Wild West. Immokalee. With its Seminole Indian reservation, and ranch land. Where every Saturday night, like the old Wild West, the ranch hands, Indians, farmers and oilmen keep the town rip-roaring until dawn.

So come to Florida. And see all these different Floridas.

We'll make it easy for you. Because only National Airlines can jet you direct to Miami (you have to start somewhere, don't you?) 5 times a day.

HUNDREDS ATTEND

Ross Center Blooms For A Garden Show

About 50 Marinites exhibited at the show, said Mrs. Calvin Rossi of San Rafael, publicity director for the show, who made the crowd estimate. Mrs. Rossi was one of the winners in the horticultural division, taking an award with a plant judged best chrysanthemum.

Other winners in the show, with the theme "Gardens Are for People" were, in the horticultural division, Homer F. Crowell of San Anselmo for three chrysanthemum cut specimens, and Mrs. Clifford J. Flack of Kentfield for a Pteris fern plant.

In the flower arrangement division, top awards went to Thelma Jones of Kentfield, Le-Roi Dowdell of Grenbrae and Marcella Murphy of San Rafael. In the men's arrangement division, George Buchanan of San Anselmo, John Mladzianowski of Fairfax and Hammond Thomson of Corte Madera won blue ribbons.

Awards of appreciation were given to Marin Bonsai Club, the Orchid Socity of Marin and Eugene Cable of Sausalito for special exhibits.

Marinite Winner Of Chess Tourney

James E. Mathis of 539 Midvale Way, Mill Valley, won a $150 prize and a trophy for taking first place in the Monterey Peninsula Chess Club tournament Saturday and yesterday.

Mathis, 20, a College of Marin student, won all five of the games he played in Monterery. Donald Ackeman of Corte Madera tied for second place in the tournament. Both are members of the Mill Valley Chess Club.

Two Marin youths were injured when their car veered into a redwood tree off Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, just west of Lagunitas Saturday night.

The California Highway Patrol reported that a westbound car driven by Stephen Charles Wright Jr., 25, of 1822 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Fairfax, left the roadway and struck a tree.

Wright, who suffered a cerebral concussion and cut forearm, was in Marin General Hospital until released yesterday.

His passenger, Jean C. Lezzeni, 18, of 3 Deer Park Drive, Fairfax, who suffered a sprained left ankle and fractured knee, was admitted to Marin General Hospitalwhere she was reported in good condition today. The accident occurred at 9:50 p.m.

23 Marinites To Take Tax Examinations

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Twenty-three applicants from Marin County will take an interitance tax appraiser qualifying examination on Saturday in San Francisco, State Controller Houston I. Flournoy reported today.

State-wide, 1,126 will take the exam, which will be administered by the State Personnel Board.

Marin County, which formerly had two appraisers, has only one at present, Ralph T. McGrath of Novato. McGrath, a real estate broker, was appointed by Flournoy last spring. He is among those to take the examination.

Flournoy said incumbent appraisers, which include Democrats and Republicans, will be replaced if they do not take the examination or fail to pass it.

The tests were ordered by Flournoy when the legislature failed to pass a bill by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, to abolish the system of appointing appraisers.

Wallet Is Lost

Flag Waver In Convertible Held As Drinking Suspect

A passenger in a convertible, who stood up, yelling and waving a red flag while passing through Tiburon yesterday was arrested on suspicion of being drunk in and about a vehicle at Trestle Glenn and Tiburon Boulevard.

The unusual behavoir of James Kenneth Battaglia, 25, of Oakland, was first noticed about 6:30 p.m. near Tiburon Lodge, where he was seen standing up in the right seat, waving and yelling at passersby. At the entry to Del Mar School at Avenida Miraflores and Tiburon Boulevard he was seen waving a red flag, as though starting an imaginary speedway race.

The Oakland man could not pass the standard roadside sobriety test, according to Sheriff's Deputy John O. Goff, who said he smelled a strong odor of alcohol on the suspect's breath. When asked where he obtained the red flag, Battaglia told the officer that it was from Pacific Gas and Electric Co.'s construction project on Main Street in Tiburon.

The driver of the automobile, Lorn Thomas Dreitzler, of 882 Patricia Way, San Rafael, and another passenger, George Frederick Powers of 28 Oak Knoll Road, San Rafael, were not cited.

Runaway Is Booked On Drug Charge

A 17-year-old runaway girl from Kentfield was booked on suspicion of possession of marijuana after she dropped a paper towel at the sheriff's office Saturday morning.

Deputies said that the girl and Richard E. Grant, 18, of no known address, were apprehended while hitchiking on San Pedro Road, east of Lowrie's Yacht Harbor at 9:22 a.m.

When the girl reached the sheriff's office she asked if she could get a drink of water, Deputy Kenneth Froberg reported. On the way back to her chair she dropped a blue paper towel, containing a celophane packet with enough marijuana for two cigarettes, Froberg said.

Then she voluntarily surrended a "partly consumed joint and some matter which appeared to be marijuana," from her purse, he said.

Grant was booked on suspicion of contributing to the delinquency of a minor and released under $550 bail to appear for arraignment in Marin Municipal Court at 1:30 p.m. today.

The girl was booked at Juvenile Hall as a runaway and on suspicion of possession of marijuana.

Black Muslim's Death Date Set

Parul Eugene LaVergne, 23-year-old Black Muslim who beat and strangled a cab driver, has been sentenced to die on Nov. 29 in the gas chamber at San Quentin Prison.

LaVergne was originally scheduled to die March 15, but was granted a stay by Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas. His petition for a hearing was denied last week by the U.S. Supreme Court and the order pronouncing judgment of death was received at San Quentin from Superior Court Judge Gerald C. Thomas, San Diego.

LaVergne was convicted of killing an Imperial Beach cab driver, Peter Giacolone, 25. An accomplice, Cecil Larry Walters, was tried separately for murder and sentenced to life imprisonment without chance of parole.

Fever Beds Pope Again

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Doctors today plied ailing Pope Paul VI with antibiotics to cure a fever that has delayed an already postponed operation.

Vatican sources said the doctors hope the medicine can bring down the fever quickly so they can begin preparing the 70-year-old Roman Catholic pontiff for surgery to correct an enlarged prostate gland.

Once scheduled for early next month, the operation now is expected in mid-November, the sources said.

San Franciscans Injured In Wreck

Two San Francisco residents were injured when their pickup truck veered off San Pedro Road yesterday and struck a utility pole, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Officers said the crash knocked down a "hot" wire that started a minor grass fire.

Hurley, hauling a load of goods to McNear's Beach, was talking to his passenger, Emma Edwards, 44, of 1174 McAllister Avenue, just before the accident at 10:20 a.m., officers reported.

Officers said Mrs. Edwards suffered facial cuts and Hurley a leg injury, but there was no report that either were treated at Marin General Hospital.

Most homes in Reykjavik, the capital city of Iceland, are heated by natural hot water holes drilled into the ground at a depth of 1,500 to 7,000 feet.

Russ Complete Rocket Testing In The Pacific

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union today announced completion of a "successful" series of space rocket tests into the Pacific Ocean northwest of America's Midway Island.

The tests were held to check out new types of carrier rockets for space launchings, possibly including a powerful new missile that will carry Russia's first men to the moon.

Unlike most previous tests, this one lasted as long as scheduled. It began Sept 2. In earlier series, a group of launchings scheduled to last two months had been completed in less than a month.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, announced the completion of the series. It said the "launchings were successful," but gave no details.

Child Molesting Report Is Probed

Sheriff's deputies are investigating a report that a five-year-old girl was molested while playing at the Bernard Hoffman School grounds Friday afternoon.

The girl's parents reported that the incident occurred between 5 and 5:10 p.m. Deputies said the girl was approached by a male, between 16 and 20, who offered her candy.

Wallace Begins A Ballot Drive

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Former Alabama Governor George C. Wallace today began the task of getting his name on the 1968 ballot in California as a third-party candidate.

Wallace, currently on a 10-day West Coast speech-making tour, agreed the job will be "very difficult." In order to qualify for the November election, he needs affidavits from more than 66,000 registered voters saying they have joined his American Independent Party.

The husband of current Alabama Gov. Lurleen Wallace announced his California plans in a speech before the Commonwealth Club in San Francisco last Friday.

He then spoke in Seattle, Wash., and Portland, Ore., before returning to San Francisco for an open forum address tonight.

Daughter Born To Actress, Eddie Fisher

BURBANK (UPI) — Singer-actress Connie Stevens and a 6-pound, 10-ounce girl born to her and singer Eddie Fisher were reported in good condition today in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Miss Stevens, 30, gave birth to the baby, named Joely, early yesterday. Fisher flew to her bedside for a 90-minute visit and then returned to Las Vegas where he was appearing at the Frontier Hotel.

"Connie is fine and the baby is fine and I am very happy," Fisher said as he stepped off a jet flight from Los Angeles. He said he and Miss Stevens were married recently but refused to elaborate.

Fisher, 38, is the former husband of actresses Debbie Reynolds and Elizabeth Taylor. A spokesman said he gave a diamond engagement ring to Miss Stevens last January.

"Connie named the baby Joely, she liked the name," Fisher said. "I first thought it was Joley, but it's not."

The pixieish actress, who starred in the television series "Hawaiian Eye" and "Wendy and Me," formerly was married to Jim Stacy.

Body Is Found On Camel Rock

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The body of a man has been found on Camel Rock, a wave-swept ledge jutting out from the base of a cliff at Ocean Beach.

Ten firemen, roped together like mountain climbers, worked for more than an hour to recover the body of Ernest W. Armstrong, Jr., 21.

Inspector Walter Kracke said Armstrong had been shot once through the head by a gun that was found at the scene. No notes were found.

Ramstad Inaugurated As Fourth President

A plea for education to move forward and respond to the "winds of change" was made yesterday as the College of Marin inaugurated its fourth president, William K. Ramstad.

Education cannot stand still, said Cecil J. Hannan, assistant executive secretary of the National Education Association, in the inaugural address.

Today education has failed to "respond adequately to change," and "we seem to be failing youth," Hannan asserted.

YOUNGER POPULATION

He spoke of the coming changes when the average age of the population will be younger, and the "shifting political" scene that will be shaped by new voters.

People accept the technological changes that aid them, "but resist other kind of change," he said. There were people opposed to the Declaration of Independence, Hannan noted. "The status-quo mentality is not wise."

He said that education has the responsibility of leadership, and "we're not in a popularity contest."

Hannan spoke briefly of the "teacher in revolt" in other states, and noted the conditions under which these teachers have to work. In one case with 1909 textbooks, and in another without bathroom facilities.

"Why bring this up in the affluent West?" he asked. "Because its the responsibility of every citizen in the United States. We need to confront these issues so each youngster has opportunity."

BETTER SOCIETY

The dream of creating a better society and "the destiny of the United States depend on education," Hannan declared.

Ramstad, who serves as president of the college and superintendent of the Marin Junior College District, said, "I believe very strongly that a community college has a role in the community."

He told the audience of about 350 at the fine arts complex "It's your college." During his brief remarks, Ramstad introduced his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Ramstad of Tacoma, Wash., and joined the audience in applauding them.

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Deedy, resident of the college board, officially welcomed Ramstad, who has been on the job since July. Gerald Burroni, president of the Academic Senate, and Harry V. Lehman, president of Associated Students, also greeted the new president.

RECEPTION HELD

The Rev. Bliss W. Bellinger, pastor of Faith Lutheran Church, San Rafael, gave the benediction, and the College of Marin Community Band, conducted by John H. Myers, played two selections.

After the ceremony, there was a reception honoring Mr. and Mrs. Ramstad at the college center.

Ramstad succeeded Stephen E. Epler, who resigned in August, 1966, to become president of Newark-Fremont Junior College in Alameda County.

Bridge Traffic In August New High

A record high of 506,023 vehicles used the Richmond - San Rafael bridge in August this year, according to E. R. Foley, chief engineer of the bridge.

This was an average of 16,323 vehicles per day, an increase of 3.3 per cent above the same month last year, according to Foley.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Widow With Four Children Asks To Move In With Fiance's Mother

DEAR HELEN:

My son thinks he is in love with a woman who lost her husband in Vietnam. She has four children, the baby only a few months old. Her first and only letter to me has me worried. She didn't want my friendship. She seemed to be challenging me. She wrote that no one and nothing can stop her from marrying him, and she expects to live here in my home—evidently with the four kids—until her man gets a job. (He's now in the Army.)

I haven't heard from my son. He'll be discharged in a month. My little house won't hold six extra people. I don't want to seem like a "managing mama" but I think he should wait until he knows her better . . . and can support her. How do I get this across tactfully?

—DISCOURAGED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER:

Why not send him her letter, with a note saying, "Can't do. My house isn't big enough." This woman's plans may surprise your son as much as they surprised you. —H.

DEAR HELEN:

This amazes me. I have friends who look sloppy all the time, don't keep the house or the kids up, even forget their lipstick around home; yet their men put them on pedestals, telling them all the time how much they love them.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Widow With Four Children Asks To Move In With Fiance's Mother

DEAR HELEN:

My son thinks he is in love with a woman who lost her husband in Vietnam. She has four children, the baby only a few months old. Her first and only letter to me has me worried. She didn't want my friendship. She seemed to be challenging me. She wrote that no one and nothing can stop her from marrying him, and she expects to live here in my home—evidently with the four kids—until her man gets a job. (He's now in the Army.)

I haven't heard from my son. He'll be discharged in a month. My little house won't hold six extra people. I don't want to seem like a "managing mama" but I think he should wait until he knows her better . . . and can support her. How do I get this across tactfully?

—DISCOURAGED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER:

Why not send him her letter, with a note saying, "Can't do. My house isn't big enough." This woman's plans may surprise your son as much as they surprised you. —H.

DEAR HELEN:

This amazes me. I have friends who look sloppy all the time, don't keep the house or the kids up, even forget their lipstick around home; yet their men put them on pedestals, telling them all the time how much they love them.

I try to be neat, look my best for my man's homecoming, am always eager for his love yet all I get is a pat on the back and an occasional "Good girl!" How come? —H.H.

DEAR H.:

Your husband's pat and "Good girl!" probably mean more than a hundred "I love you's" from the expressive fellows. He who says it most often means it least. —H.

DEAR HELEN:

I don't ask advice. I simply state the facts.

Three years ago my wife informed me that 25 years was "enough of this foolishness," and from now on it was separate bedrooms. I was 47, she was 44.

A year later I met and fell in love with a wonderful woman. I offered my wife our home, debt free, our car, an an annuity to meet her needs the rest of her life. She refused. Her price for my freedom: my business firm. She won't be my wife, but she won't let another woman be.

In a few months my child will be born and there will be a blank space where "father" should be. I know living in adultery is wrong, but I am still a man with normal desires.

The women among your readers who wonder why husbands accept what other women offer should consider that they accept what the legal wife refuses. —SAM

DEAR HELEN:

We have a 19-year-old daughter we can't even talk to. If we say anything she doesn't like, she throws a fit, screams, kicks, raves, and locks herself in her room. She hasn't always been like this, and she's getting worse. If our younger daughter even touches anything of hers, you can hear her yelling a mile away.

Don't say all girls go through this stage. Our other three didn't. We fear for her, but can't send her to a doctor: she wouldn't go.—PLEASE HELP

DEAR P.H.:

Of course you can't send a distraught girl to the doctor—but you can take her there yourself. She may be heading for a nervous breakdown. On the other hand, she may simply need to get away from her family. Let the doctor be the judge. —H

SHOOTING FOR a big auction Saturday are members of the Units of Marin Foundation, who've staked their big fund-raiser on a country auction again this year. Marin Foundation Units Plan 'Country Auction' On Saturday

The Corte Madera Recreation Center will be the setting for a "Country Auction" on Saturday when the eight units of Marin Foundation, Friends of Arequipa, combine efforts for their county-wide fund raising.

Some 200 Marin women are working on the project, under the direction of Mrs. Harry Luchesa of Greenbrae, ways and means chairman. The group held a similar affair last year and the success of that event led to the adoption of the "Country Auction" as an annual fund raiser for Marin Foundation. Proceeds go to the foundation's Group Home for Girls in San Rafael, now in its fourth year.

Members have been ransacking attics, basements and garages; badgering friends and relatives and soliciting contributions from local merchants. The result is a wide variety of items that will go on the block promptly at noon on Saturday. Doors open at 11 a.m. and there will be an hour of preview before bidding opens.

THE ARTICLES to be offered range from sterling silver antique pieces to plumbing supplies, and include such items as a four-foot plush hobby horse used in the Ice Follies, two mink stoles, a freezer, a steamer trunk, oil paintings, television sets, three original Bastian cartoons and a mahogany Seth Thomas clock. Many new and used pieces of furniture and electrical appliances will be up for sale.

Among the services offered are beauty treatments, a deep sea fishing trip, a termite inspection, theater tickets and a champagne dinner cruise. Many Marin County restaurants have donated luncheons and dinners. Each item offered will go to the highest bidder.

Assisting Mrs. Lucheta are Mrs. Richard McConnell of Belvedere, decorations chairman, and Mrs. Edward Littooy of Greenbrae, publicity. Other committee members are Mesdames George Keeler and Leo Gorman, San Rafael; J. D. Worthington, Larkspur; Ralph Tierney, Mill Valley; Merall Roth of Greenbrae and Christian Gronbeck of Kentfield.

CARRYING OUT the country theme, Mrs. McConnell's committee has made red and white aprons and head scarves for members who will be assisting. Red and white cloths will cover the long picnic tables on which refreshments will be sold throughout the day. In addition to the auction, a General Store flea market will be in operation, as well as booths selling records and books, homemade candy and baked goods. Free parking and free baby sitting are offered.

Butterfield and Butterfield, San Francisco auctioneers, are acting as technical advisors and are supplying two professional auctioneers, Frank Gallo and John McKenzie, who will conduct the bidding.

San Rafael Nursery School Is Now Marking 20th Year

This year is an important one for the San Rafael Co-operative Nursery School, as it marks 20 years of nursery education for San Rafael youngsters.

This year the parent members of the school are putting forth an all-out effort to raise funds to move out of the present building and into new quarters. During the past 20 years $7,000 has been raised from rummage and bake sales. This year, a cookbook of favorite recipes of alumni and members will go on sale and a luncheon and bazaar will be held Dec. 18.

The nursery school is hoping to mark its 21st year with dedication of a new building for itself.

The school, founded in 1947, held its first session during the summer at Coleman Elementary School. Among the founders were Mesdames Herbert Austin, Peter Anderson, Noble Owings and E. B. Spiller.

When the elementary classes resumed in the fall, the co-op nursery school moved from Coleman School to the home of the Sylvio Ruffinos, where it remained for two years. Then it was located at the American Legion Hall until 1952. It became part of the Adult Education Program sponsored by the San Rafael Board of Education in 1949.

The co-operative nursery school found a semi-permanent home in a temporary building on the San Rafael High School campus and has remained there for 15 years.

The adult education class offers parents an opportunity to increase skills in meeting the emotional, physical, social and intellectual needs of their children with latest methods.

'Bash' In Novato Is Laugh Loaded

By KARL BARRON

The abundance of good talent in the Novato area shines in "Burlesque Bash", Novato Community Club's fall production which will play again Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in the Community House.

It is not a burlesque show, aside from a few off-color gags that might be related distantly to that dead art form. It is rather a cabaret show, consisting of songs, dances, skits and quick jokes strung into an evening for those who like beer and popcorn with their entertainment.

SHOW MOVES

Lois Wright, as writer and director, has managed to keep things moving by use of simple settings and fast-paced performers. Musical bridges by pianist Lorayne Crozier and drummer Sam Shafer (who do a bangup job) might ease the pauses that exist. Shortening of some verbose material might also help. But all in all, it's an amusing show which holds together and provides a lot of laughs.

On a stage full of people, some stand out, and Miss Wright has used them well. Musical director Jean Teague and choreographer Jeanne Hall have wisely used as chorus a small group of fairly expert and good looking dancers, so that we are spared the trial of watching half the chorus watching the other half to see what they're supposed to be doing.

As to the individuals, I was struck by the comedic talent of Stacy Brennan in "Forgotten Sonata"; Rose Michaelson's singing and dancing; a very funny rendition of "One For My Baby" by Art Bliss; and Don Leaf and Miss Wright, clowning two liners between scenes.

Marilyn Casady as a laughing joke teller was ingratiating and then proved her versatility with a Mae West impersonation during which her wig fell off unscheduledly, and she covered with great aplomb and an assist from Max Keeler.

Marie Bliss is a standout vocalist, bringing a blend of sweetness and fire to her songs, and then playing an Italian dialect in an amusing airline skit. Good vocals also come from Miss Teague, Dawn Scheiern, and Keeler.

COLORFUL COSTUMES

Costumes by Lei Mann are richly colorful. Especially effective is the fiery fan and torso covering in which Jeanne Hall dances "The Girl From Ipanema."

The most ambitious setting (designed by Scott Wright and executed by Shari Leaf) is the one for "Alice in Blunderland." Unfortunately, the material doesn't live up to the set, aside from Ron Reinart's casual Caterpillar, who becomes psychotic after Alice reveals to him that he has an identity. Vince McGovern and Shirley Nilsen are intermittently funny in a Dragnet takeoff, but it's drawn out.

Add to all this a colored light show number, an excellent chorus which never got to take a bow, and Joe Jacobs hawking beer during intermissions with raucous humor, and you have an evening of fun.

Club To Seek Permit Again

The Sausalito Yacht Club will be back before the Sausalito Planning Commission Wednesday for round three in its fight to enlarge its waterfront clubhouse by 15 per cent.

The commission, which will meet at 8 p.m. in the city council chamber, had deadlocked on the issue twice in the past two months.

The commissin also will consider use permit and variance applications by Madden and Lewis, Inc., to build a 94-seat restaurant at Humboldt Avenue and Johnson Street with 13 parking spaces instead of the 23 required by the off-street parking ordinance.

Opera 'Visitation' Contains Brillance, Exciting Jazz

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

"The Visitation," American composer Gunther Schuller's much heralded great American opera, was produced by the San Francisco Opera Saturday night in a stark, surreal version that was a gripping dramatic experience.

It was sung in English and conducted by the dynamic composer himself.

Inspired by Kafka's novel "The Trial," its theme of a young Negro persecuted for reasons he never understands by white ruffians could be interpreted literally as a comment on present racial strife in the United States. But its broader conception indicated in the composer's dedication seemed more relevant: "To all men who through hate, injustice and oppression are denied freedom in their pursuit of happiness." The word "corruption" should be included too.

Even though it is dull prose, anyone planning to attend is advised to read the libretto, since only a few of the singers have excellent diction.

Don't expect to hear beautiful music, if your idea of beautiful is bel canto. It is a 12-tone blend of atonal or polytonal themes, including spirituals or gospel songs, with mordant, excitingly used jazz. It is raucous, strident and cacophonous but the only kind of music that could fully express and heighten the drama. It is brilliant writing for the purpose.

Also heightening the impact of the abstract production was stage design based on a network of metal pipes that permitted simultaneous action on several levels.

Outstanding scenes were those of the drug store where the young Negro Carter Jones works, the warehouse where he is brought before a kangaroo court and the quarry, where he is murdered. The latter was a good example of how action was often symbolic.

Heading the huge cast as Carter Jones was the young bass-baritone Simon Estes, whose voice was powerful and moving and whose convincing acting had lithe grace.

Of the women the most impressive were mezzo soprano Sona Cervena who was great in both acting and singing as the wife of the corrupt legal aid official, and soprano Felicia Weathers as the seductive maid Teena. Also good was Jeanette Scovotti as Jones' provocative neighbor Miss Hampton.

Men who had excellent diction and dramatic power in addition to Estes were the 300-some pound Alan Crofoot as the night club manager Pulisi and Delme Bryn-Jones as the legal aid official.

Other outstanding performances were those of Ragnar Ulfung as one oft he murderers, Eugene Holmes as Uncle Albert, Ingar Wixell as a lawyer, the Rev. Allan R. Wentt as a deacon, Chester Ludgin as the presiding officer of the kangaroo court and Ara Berberian as the inspector.

The John C. Handy Quintet provided the jazz elements including a jazz combo on stage.

Speeding Car Kills Officer

SUNNYVALE (AP)—A speeding car hit and killed a highway patrol officer yesterday as he stood on a Bayshore Freeway shoulder writing a traffic citation.

The victim was officer Charles R. Lilly, 30, of San Jose, the father of three children.

L. D. Hollingsworth, Lilly's patrol partner, pursued the speeding car for two miles and finally halted the driver at the San Tomas expressway offramp, the patrol reported.

Officers said Robert Spohn, 27, Sunnyvale, was booked at the Santa Clara County jail for investigation of manslaughter, felony drunk driving, and felony hit-run driving.

Guest Slain At Halloween Costume Party

VAN NUYS (UPI) — A mysterious stranger at a Halloween party shot and killed one of the guests yesterday. Othey party-goers at first thought the action was a humorous skit.

Kenneth A. Lindstrand, 32, lay on the floor in the recreation room of an apartment complex for five minutes before the guests noticed blood coming from his mouth. A girl inquired if anything was wrong. It was then the guests realized he had been shot.

NO LEADS

Detectives said they had no definite leads. The case was complicated because many of the 50 guests at the party had been drinking and gave varied descriptions of the gunman and the killing.

The victim lived at an apartment house across the street and had come to the party at the swank Valley Country Club apartments about 1 a.m.

Witnesses said he danced for a minutes then went outside. Seconds later, he ran back inside, chased by a husky, uncostumed man. The pursuer, had what looked like a cap pistol to the guests. It was a revolver, police said.

TWO SHOTS

Two shots were fired. One hit a wall and the other struck Lindstrand in the side.

"It looked to everyone like a skit," said one guest who asked to remain anonymous. "We all thought, 'Gee, this guy is really putting it on.'"

Jackie In Rome, Secret Outings

The widow of President Kennedy avoided public appearances prior to her departure tomorrow for a two-week visit to Thailand and Cambodia.

A SUNNY DAY FOR JAZZ AT McNEAR'S BEACH

A young crowd yesterday soaked up the music of jazz pianist Vince Guaraldi at a rock and jazz "happening" that netted more than $500 for Marin City youth groups. The two-day event drew more than 4,000 persons, and was sponsored by the New Establishment, a corporation formed recently to sponsor events for youth groups. Independent-Journal photographer Jim Kean shot this picture from underneath the band stand.

SHOOTS AT CAN, HAND AS FATHER COMMANDS

The way William Tell did it, it was an apple on his son's head. The way Robert Charles Parr wanted it Saturday, it was a soft drink can he insisted his son shoot out of his left hand.

Parr, 39, and his 15-year-old son, Robert M. Parr were target shooting with a rifle at their home at 226 Southern Heights, San Rafael, when the father had the idea, according to San Rafael police.

He picked up the can, held it at arms length and ordered his son to shoot at it.

Young Parr refused but the father insisted. He said he was confident of his son's shooting ability.

The son took aim and fired. The bullet hit the can but also his father's thumb. Parr was taken to Marin General Hospital for treatment.

Police patrolman J. Craddock reported: "Young Parr was visibly shaken up by the incident as he and his father are quite close." The father conceded to police he was guilty of an error in judgment.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, MONDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1967 19

Ladders To Rescue Of Dog, Friend

Sausalito firemen plucked an abashed good samaritan — and the dog he was rescuing —from a 70-foot cliff above Highway 101 at 3:15 a.m. today.

It started when Lynn Deane Orsino of Burlingame lost her dog, a mixed Afghan-doberman, at the East Rodeo Avenue exit from the freeway. Peter D. Bowen of 303 Madrone Avenue, Larkspur, a friend of Miss Orsino, volunteered to help find the dog.

While Miss Orsino cruised up and down the highway searching, Bowen, 24, started walking along the freeway from Golden Gate Bridge toward Sausalito. When he reached a cliff south of the Rodeo Avenue Exit, he heard the dog howling from somewhere above the road.

Bowen clambered up the cliff in the darkness and found the dog, and found out what he was howling about — in the dark, he could not move up or down from his perch.

Bowen was eventually sighted by a patroling Sausalito policeman, who called in the fire department.

Firemen used ladders to bring Bowen and the dog back to safety.

Windows Broken

Windows on the east side of an electrical storage shed in the Forest Meadows amphi-theater of the Dominican College were broken over the weekend, police reported today. Entry was gained but nothing reported missing. Vandals also dumped two park benches in the nearby creek.

Home Is Looted

Nelson H. Hall of 36 Gloria Drive, San Rafael, told police he returned from vacation yesterday and found $40 in cash and an $80 watch stolen from his home. Entry was made through a rear bedroom window.

Freeway Argument, Then Two Arrests

An argument that started between drivers on Highway 101 early yesterday morning in Novato, resulted in a fight leading to the arrest of the driver and passenger of one of the cars on suspicion of assault with deadly weapon.

Out on $1,100 bail today was Larry Allen Klementson, 18, of 1008 Machin Avenue, Novato. Still in the Marin County jail in lieu of $1,100 bail was James Everett Smith, 30, of 754 Plaza Hermosa, Novato. Both are to appear in Marin Municipal Court at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow.

The incident started when Marion Hershel Perkins, 35, and his wife, Kathleen, 43, of 1771 Grant Avenue, apt. 13, Novato, northbound on Highway 101 near the Ignacio overpass about 12:30 a.m., were forced off the highway by another car, they told Novato police.

Both cars stopped in front of the Shell Service Station at Highway 101 and De Long Avenue, according to police reports, where an argument developed among the three men and a fight ensued.

Smith hit Perkins about the face with a tire iron and Klementson hit him over the head with a flashlight, knocking him down, police reported. The two then left, according to police reports, but were later arrested at Klementson's address and identified by Mr. and Mrs. Perkins.

San Rafael Home Looted Of $15,000 In Cash, Jewels

More than $5,000 in bills and coin and $10,000 in jewelry was stolen yesterday from the San Rafael home of Lew Shee Wong, owner of the Wing Sing Laundry at 914 Lootens Place.

Police said the money, accumulated by Mrs. Wong during more than 40 years business in the city, was kept in bank bags in the bedroom. The jewelry, in boxes, had been brought by the victim from China.

The burglary occurred while the occupants were out at a family gathering between 2:30 p.m. and 6:42 p.m., said police.

There were no signs of forced entry to the house but the door of the bedroom had been pried open.

The missing money included $3,000 in $100 bills and an unknown quantity of Kennedy half-dollars. Among the jewelry were watches, bracelets, necklaces and rings.

5-Year-Old Is Hurt In Wreck

A 5-year-old San Francisco boy was injured yesterday in a head-on collision on Shoreline Highway 2.5 miles south of Tomales, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The boy, Ethan Berkowitz, was treated at Petaluma General Hospital for a bump on his head. He was riding with his father, Nathaniel C. Berkowitz, 35, at the time of the accident.

The driver of the other car was George C. Neff, 21, of Eaton, Colo., a sailor aboard the U.S.S. Enterprise. Neff crossed the center line and hit the Berkowitz vehicle, the Highway Patrol said.

School Boards Association To Meet Wednesday

Directors of the Marin County School Boards Association will meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the county school offices, Corte Madera.

Two new directors, John W. Boyd, representing Larkspur School District, and Dorothy Brown, representing Dixie School District, were elected last week. Re-elected to the board were Alyce Farkas, Reed, and Lawrence Kramer Jr., San Rafael.

Named as representatives to the Marin County Committee on School District Organization were Mrs. Watson Connor, Second Supervisorial District; Mrs. Sally Rakow, Third district; Mrs. Rulon Brown, First district.

Novato Home Looted Of Furs, Jewelry

Someone took $1,810 worth of jewelry, furs and money from his home while the family was gone on Saturday, John Peter Omizzolo of 43 Eagle Drive, Novato, reported yesterday to police.

The family was gone Saturday and Saturday night, Omizzolo told police. The house was entered in their absence by prying open a window, according to police. Furs and jewelry valued at $1,800 were missing and $10 in cash, according to police reports.

Joint Bolinas, Stinson Water District Urged

Along with the proposed merger of Bolinas Fire Protection District and the Bolinas Community Public Utilities District, why not add the Stinson Beach County Water District to form a single large district for the entire watershed?

This question will be posed at a meeting of the Local Agency Formation Commission Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the board of supervisors chambers at Civic Center.

In recommending a single district for the entire watershed, assistant administrator John F. Barrows is looking ahead to water and sewerage needs of the area.

Last March, Brown and Caldwell, consulting engineers from San Francisco, recommended a unified sewerage and collection and disposal system for both Bolinas and Stinson Beach. The Stinson Beach district indicated its willingness to join with Bolinas for a unified sewerage system, but Bolinas Community Public Utilities District officials were not receptive because they believe the cost would be excessive.

'This failure of the two districts to work together on a unified sewerage plan for the Bolinas Lagoon will result in a higher cost of sewerage service in the long run to the present and future residents of the entire watershed," Barrows said.

The proposed merger of the Bolinas Fire District and the Bolinas PUD involves an overlap area north of Bolinas Lagoon and east of Shoreline Highway. This area is in the Bolinas Fire District and also in the Stinson Beach County Water District. The overlap involves primarily water and sewer services and not fire services.

The assistant administrator suggests that this type of overlap and double taxation should be eliminated at every opportunity.

Barrows recommends that the Stinson Beach County Water District be invited to apply for inclusion in a single district for the entire Bolinas watershed.

The pumpkins had been taken from the Short Stop Market at South Novato and Rowland boulevards where they were kept outside, according to police.

A SUNNY DAY FOR JAZZ AT McNEAR'S BEACH

A young crowd yesterday soaked up the music of jazz pianist Vince Guaraldi at a rock and jazz "happening" that netted more than $500 for Marin City youth groups. The two-day event drew more than 4,000 persons, and was sponsored by the New Establishment, a corporation formed recently to sponsor events for youth groups. Independent-Journal photographer Jim Kean shot this picture from underneath the band stand.

SHOOTS AT CAN, HAND AS FATHER COMMANDS

The way William Tell did it, it was an apple on his son's head. The way Robert Charles Parr wanted it Saturday, it was a soft drink can he insisted his son shoot out of his left hand.

Parr, 39, and his 15-year-old son, Robert M. Parr were target shooting with a rifle at their home at 226 Southern Heights, San Rafael, when the father had the idea, according to San Rafael police.

He picked up the can, held it at arms length and ordered his son to shoot at it.

Young Parr refused but the father insisted. He said he was confident of his son's shooting ability.

The son took aim and fired. The bullet hit the can but also his father's thumb. Parr was taken to Marin General Hospital for treatment.

Police patrolman J. Craddock reported: "Young Parr was visibly shaken up by the incident as he and his father are quite close." The father conceded to police he was guilty of an error in judgment.

Ladders To Rescue Of Dog, Friend

Sausalito firemen plucked an abashed good samaritan — and the dog he was rescuing —from a 70-foot cliff above Highway 101 at 3:15 a.m. today.

It started when Lynn Deane Orsino of Burlingame lost her dog, a mixed Afghan-doberman, at the East Rodeo Avenue exit from the freeway. Peter D. Bowen of 303 Madrone Avenue, Larkspur, a friend of Miss Orsino, volunteered to help find the dog.

While Miss Orsino cruised up and down the highway searching, Bowen, 24, started walking along the freeway from Golden Gate Bridge toward Sausalito. When he reached a cliff south of the Rodeo Avenue Exit, he heard the dog howling from somewhere above the road.

Bowen clambered up the cliff in the darkness and found the dog, and found out what he was howling about — in the dark, he could not move up or down from his perch.

Bowen was eventually sighted by a patroling Sausalito policeman, who called in the fire department.

Firemen used ladders to bring Bowen and the dog back to safety.

Windows Broken

Windows on the east side of an electrical storage shed in the Forest Meadows amphi-theater of the Dominican College were broken over the weekend, police reported today. Entry was gained but nothing reported missing. Vandals also dumped two park benches in the nearby creek.

Home Is Looted

Nelson H. Hall of 36 Gloria Drive, San Rafael, told police he returned from vacation yesterday and found $40 in cash and an $80 watch stolen from his home. Entry was made through a rear bedroom window.

Freeway Argument, Then Two Arrests

An argument that started between drivers on Highway 101 early yesterday morning in Novato, resulted in a fight leading to the arrest of the driver and passenger of one of the cars on suspicion of assault with deadly weapon.

Out on $1,100 bail today was Larry Allen Klementson, 18, of 1008 Machin Avenue, Novato. Still in the Marin County jail in lieu of $1,100 bail was James Everett Smith, 30, of 754 Plaza Hermosa, Novato. Both are to appear in Marin Municipal Court at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow.

The incident started when Marion Hershel Perkins, 35, and his wife, Kathleen, 43, of 1771 Grant Avenue, apt. 13, Novato, northbound on Highway 101 near the Ignacio overpass about 12:30 a.m., were forced off the highway by another car, they told Novato police.

Both cars stopped in front of the Shell Service Station at Highway 101 and De Long Avenue, according to police reports, where an argument developed among the three men and a fight ensued.

Smith hit Perkins about the face with a tire iron and Klementson hit him over the head with a flashlight, knocking him down, police reported. The two then left, according to police reports, but were later arrested at Klementson's address and identified by Mr. and Mrs. Perkins.

San Rafael Home Looted Of $15,000 In Cash, Jewels

More than $5,000 in bills and coin and $10,000 in jewelry was stolen yesterday from the San Rafael home of Lew Shee Wong, owner of the Wing Sing Laundry at 914 Lootens Place.

Police said the money, accumulated by Mrs. Wong during more than 40 years business in the city, was kept in bank bags in the bedroom. The jewelry, in boxes, had been brought by the victim from China.

The burglary occurred while the occupants were out at a family gathering between 2:30 p.m. and 6:42 p.m., said police.

There were no signs of forced entry to the house but the door of the bedroom had been pried open.

The missing money included $3,000 in $100 bills and an unknown quantity of Kennedy half-dollars. Among the jewelry were watches, bracelets, necklaces and rings.

5-Year-Old Is Hurt In Wreck

A 5-year-old San Francisco boy was injured yesterday in a head-on collision on Shoreline Highway 2.5 miles south of Tomales, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The boy, Ethan Berkowitz, was treated at Petaluma General Hospital for a bump on his head. He was riding with his father, Nathaniel C. Berkowitz, 35, at the time of the accident.

The driver of the other car was George C. Neff, 21, of Eaton, Colo., a sailor aboard the U.S.S. Enterprise. Neff crossed the center line and hit the Berkowitz vehicle, the Highway Patrol said.

School Boards Association To Meet Wednesday

Directors of the Marin County School Boards Association will meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the county school offices, Corte Madera.

Two new directors, John W. Boyd, representing Larkspur School District, and Dorothy Brown, representing Dixie School District, were elected last week. Re-elected to the board were Alyce Farkas, Reed, and Lawrence Kramer Jr., San Rafael.

Named as representatives to the Marin County Committee on School District Organization were Mrs. Watson Connor, Second Supervisorial District; Mrs. Sally Rakow, Third district; Mrs. Rulon Brown, First district.

Novato Home Looted Of Furs, Jewelry

Someone took $1,810 worth of jewelry, furs and money from his home while the family was gone on Saturday, John Peter Omizzolo of 43 Eagle Drive, Novato, reported yesterday to police.

The family was gone Saturday and Saturday night, Omizzolo told police. The house was entered in their absence by prying open a window, according to police. Furs and jewelry valued at $1,800 were missing and $10 in cash, according to police reports.

Joint Bolinas, Stinson Water District Urged

Along with the proposed merger of Bolinas Fire Protection District and the Bolinas Community Public Utilities District, why not add the Stinson Beach County Water District to form a single large district for the entire watershed?

This question will be posed at a meeting of the Local Agency Formation Commission Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the board of supervisors chambers at Civic Center.

In recommending a single district for the entire watershed, assistant administrator John F. Barrows is looking ahead to water and sewerage needs of the area.

Last March, Brown and Caldwell, consulting engineers from San Francisco, recommended a unified sewerage and collection and disposal system for both Bolinas and Stinson Beach. The Stinson Beach district indicated its willingness to join with Bolinas for a unified sewerage system, but Bolinas Community Public Utilities District officials were not receptive because they believe the cost would be excessive.

"This failure of the two districts to work together on a unified sewerage plan for the Bolinas Lagoon will result in a higher cost of sewerage service in the long run to the present and future residents of the entire watershed," Barrows said.

The proposed merger of the Bolinas Fire District and the Bolinas PUD involves an overlap area north of Bolinas Lagoon and east of Shoreline Highway. This area is in the Bolinas Fire District and also in the Stinson Beach County Water District. The overlap involves primarily water and sewer services and not fire services.

The assistant administrator suggests that this type of overlap and double taxation should be eliminated at every opportunity.

Barrows recommends that the Stinson Beach County Water District be invited to apply for inclusion in a single district for the entire Bolinas watershed.

EXECUTIVE CAR
'67 BUICK SPECIAL
$2695

Here's a little Special Deluxe 4-Dr. that we've used here at our company during the past eight months. It was used almost exclusively as a personal car by our used car sales manager.

Just over 6,000 miles but you'd never know it had any miles at all when you look at it. Light green mist with matching full vinyl interior. Fully equipped including automatic, V-8 engine, radio, heater, power steering, etc.

Never licensed so you would be the first and only owner of record. This car carries the full 5-year or 50,000-mile General Motors new-car guarantee even though it has 6,000 miles.

Sticker price on the window is $3209. Kelly Blue Book shows a used vehicle of like model and equipment should sell for $2810 without any guarantee. We'll sell this car for only $2695 with the full new-car guarantee.

EXECUTIVE CAR
'67 BUICK SPECIAL
$2695

Here's a little Special Deluxe 4-Dr. that we've used here at our company during the past eight months. It was used almost exclusively as a personal car by our used car sales manager.

Just over 6,000 miles but you'd never know it had any miles at all when you look at it. Light green mist with matching full vinyl interior. Fully equipped including automatic, V-8 engine, radio, heater, power steering, etc.

Never licensed so you would be the first and only owner of record. This car carries the full 5-year or 50,000-mile General Motors new-car guarantee even though it has 6,000 miles.

Sticker price on the window is $3209. Kelly Blue Book shows a used vehicle of like model and equipment should sell for $2810 without any guarantee. We'll sell this car for only $2695 with the full new-car guarantee.

TV REVIEW

A Big Bust For Revival Of Westerns

By RICK DUBROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The revival of Western series on television this season has been a big bust, and it could be that the pioneer epics on video are heading for the last roundup.

It's not that the perennial cowboy stories have lost interest for all their past fans. It's just that when they're up against a slicker, that budgeted piece of film like a television movie, only an occasional Western series such as "Bonanza" or "Gunsmoke" can stand the competition. Video's Western movies remain very popular, of course.

BLEAK FUTURE

There was all the usual talk that television's Western series would go on forever when a new spate of these shows were scheduled for this season after being played down for some years. But the results don't indicate this, and there is little reason to predict success for them in the future.

On Monday nights, ABC-TV's new Chuck Connors series, "Cowboy in Africa," has been a flop in the ratings. And the same network's holdover Western, "The Big Valley," with Barbara Stanwyck, has been far from the top of the popularity list also. The only Western, in fact, that is doing well on Mondays is CBS-TV's granite-like "Gunsmoke," which, after all, can't go on too much longer unless the makeup man is preparing a beard for Marshall Dillon.

OTHER FAILURES

On Wednesdays, ABC-TV's "Custer" has been a complete failure, and is considered a fairly good prospect for quick replacement — which should please the American Indians who protested the incredible glamorization of the frontier officer.

On Thursdays, CBS-TV's new 90-minute Western, "Cimmaron Strip," has failed to make anyone stand up and cheer, and isn't getting the ratings either.

On Fridays, ABC-TV's "Hondo" has gone nowhere. And the same network's "The Guns of Will Sonnett," with Walter Brennan, is a question mark so far as popularity is concerned—up and down in the ratings. CBS-TV's "The Wild, Wild West" outran its welcome on the premiere show and has been taking up valuable network space ever since.

On Saturdays, ABC-TV's "Iron Horse" has fallen off sharply in the rarings since being switched to a time slot opposite the NBC-TV movies.

As for Sundays, NBC-TV's "Bonanza" has shown remarkable lasting power, coming back strong. But even some persons connected with the series feel that the long-running epic may have only a few more years of real popularity.

BEST SHOWS FOR TONIGHT

Best bets on television tonight:

KRON (4), 7 p.m. — Preparations for the "shikar," the round-up of wild elephants in India, will be shown on "Wide Wonderful World."

KRON (4), KCRA (3), 9 p.m. — "Fame Is a Four Letter Word" is the drama to be presented on the "Danny Thomas Hour" starring Caolyn Jones, Barry Sullivan, Richard Conte, Aldo Ray and Geraldine Brooks.

KRIX (5), KXTV (10), 9:30 p.m. — A National Football League game from St. Louis will show the Green Bay Packers clashing with the St. Louis Cardinals.

KQED (9), 10 p.m. — "NET Journal" presents a documentary filmed in Cuba last July and August by a special KQED film crew in "Report from Cuba."

Gifts Of Grain Win Applause

BOMBAY, India (AP)—A gift of 11 tons of grain from Sacramento Valley farmers and a California housewife to famine victims is winning headlines in India.

The gift received more newspaper publicity in Bombay than did the hundreds of thousands of tons of wheat donated by the U.S. government, Canada and Russia.

Mrs. Louis Evans of Santa Barbara collected the 10 tons of rice and a ton of wheat.

Mrs. Evans was publicly thanked yesterday at a dockside ceremony when the grain was turned over to the Committee for the Relief of Famine Victims in Bihar State.

Still At Large

Norman D. Fennell, 26, a minimum security inmate at San Quentin Prison, was still at large today, prison officals reported. Fennell, doing five years to life on a Los Angeles robbery conviction, walked away from an outside-the-wall dormitory Saturday.

Red China Has Own Version Of Hippies—Militant Ones

HONG KONG (AP) — Militant Communist China has its own hippies, but with a difference.

Many of the Red Guards, Chinese arrivals from Red China report, have lost their revolutionary zeal after more than a year of drifting around the country. They can be seen in various parts of the country—with young boys hugging scantily dressed girls a trailway stations, in parks and other public places.

One Chinese seaman who stayed in China for more than two months said: "All Chinese hippie-lands are strictly off limits to foreign visitors."

While the American hippies advocate love and nonviolence, the Chinese ones are known for their militancy. And they steal food and loot, according to the travelers.

Recently the Communist Authorities ordered all Red Guards to return to their schools, which were closed in the summer of 1966. But, the arrivals say, in many schools neither teachers nor students turned up.

"The teachers are afraid of vengeful action from students, while the students, after more than a year of free traveling and comparatively easy life, are reluctant to go back to schools where some kind of discipline must be kept," one source said.

He said many Chinese hippies have no homes to go back to because "many parents were liquidated during the current power struggle in China."

Channel Chuckles

"Boy! Has the educational channel been real cool during the teachers' strike!"

A mature skunk is capable of four to six successive discharges of its "gas gun" and is accurate up to 15 feet.

One Pollution Cure Advanced

DRESHER, Pa. (UPI)—Bacteria that act like cannibals may be one answer to the problem of stream and water pollution in and around the nation's major population centers. A sewage treatment installation serving the main plant and home office of Selas Corporation of America here uses cannibalistic bacteria to convert sewage into clear, clean water.

Stimulated by fresh air forced through the sewage, the proliferating bacteria devour their own excess population. In the process, they also attack and destroy disease-breeding solids.

The Bird Was Just Too Much

SEVENOAKS, England (UPI)—Every time Steven Hale, 18, called on his girl friend, Marion Wright, Marion's pet parakeet would chirp "Nice boy, David." David happens to be the name of Marion's ex-boy friend.

It got to be too much for Steven. "One of us has to go—either the bird or me," he told Marion. She gave the bird to an aunt.

"Now that he is gone we can discuss our wedding plans without interruption," said Marion.

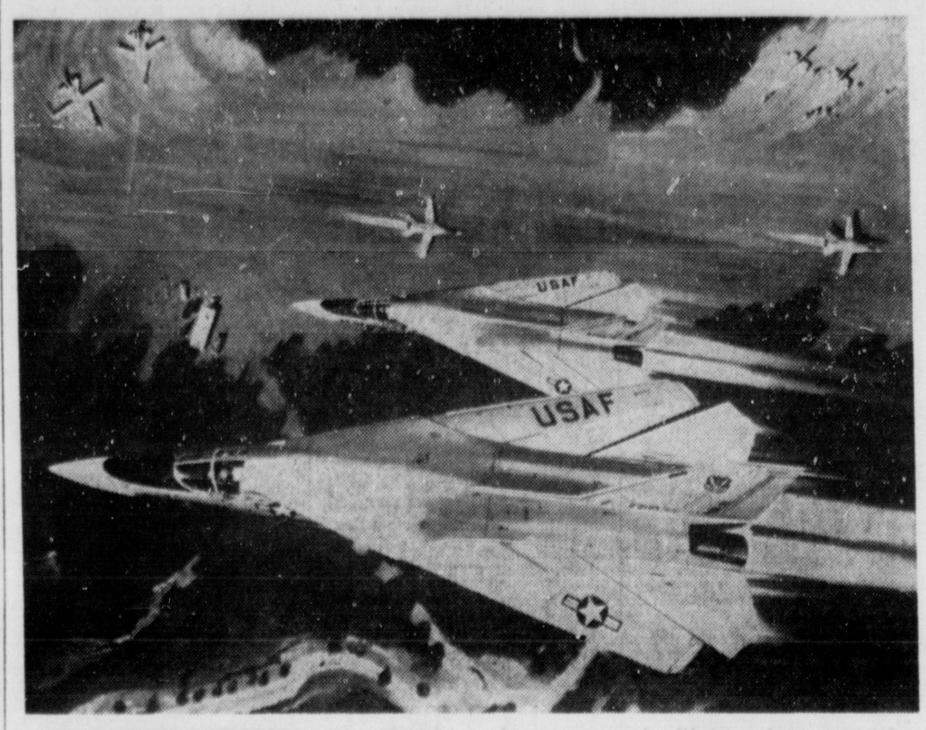
Superplane Decision Still Being Questioned



AIR FORCE VERSION—The F-111 displays its chief design asset, wings that sweep back into a thin triangle for supersonic flight, then stretch out to provide more lift for take-offs and landings.

By JONATHAN EBERHART
Science Service Writer

Five years ago, Defense Secy. Robert S. McNamara overruled a selection board and picked General Dynamics over Boeing to build the TFX, a jet superfighter now famous — or notorious — as the F-111. McNamara's decision is still be questioned and investigated in Washington.

The plane's big advantage was supposed to be that both the Air Force and the Navy could use it, the two versions differing in only 20 per cent of their parts. This, said the secretary, would save at least $1 billion over the cost of developing a separate aircraft for each service.

It hasn't worked out that way. Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corp., which is responsible for testing the Navy version, the F-111B, as well as being a major parts subcontractor to General Dynamics, has said as plainly as it can that "commonality" simply was no substitute for two separate aircraft designs.

Faced with a grievous weight problem in the F-111B, Grumman wrote that "the weigh savings achievable . . . are directly proportional to the permissable reduction in airframe commonality." In English, that means "this airplane is to heavy and it's going to stay that way as long as the Navy has to worry about the Air Force's design limitations."

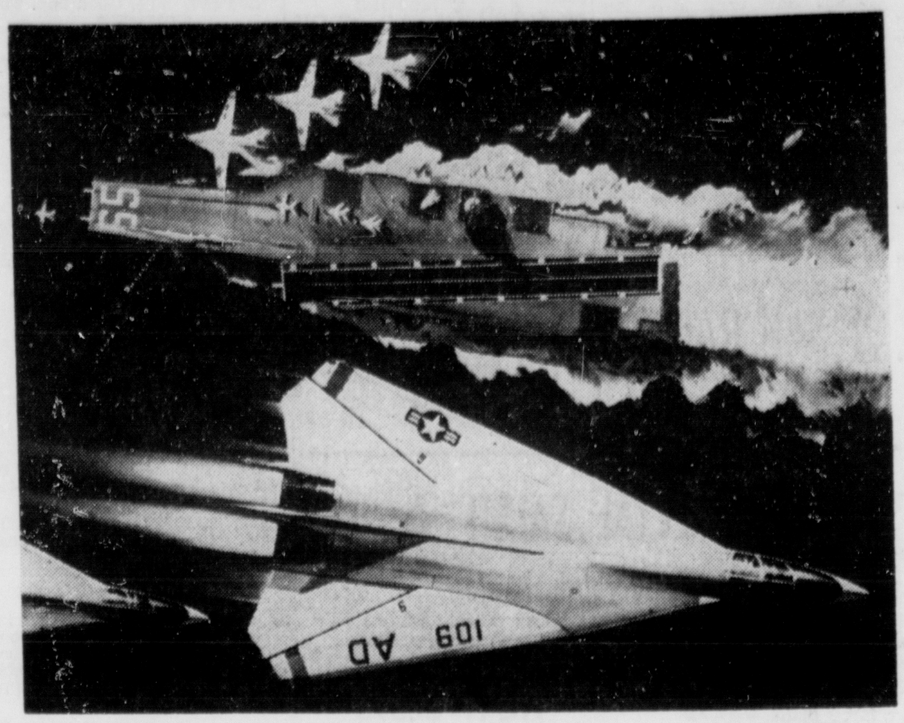
The Defense Department was irretrievably committed to commonality, however, so in order to solve the F-111B's difficulty a weight-improvement program was instituted, but the plane is still more than eight tons overweight.

The F-111's ranking enemy is Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.), from whom a typical mild criticism is that "there are still some very major problems some very major problem associated with this plane — the development of it, the refinement of it — which must be solved before it becomes a reliable weapon."

Even a vested-interest F-111 proponent such as Adm. David L. McDonald, naval chief of operations, has conceded that "there is a possibility that it won't work."

Despite the troubles, however, Air Force Secy. Harold Brown insists that commonality "reflects the broad overlap in the flying qualities required for the Air Force and Navy missions." This overlap is presumably in spite of the fact that the F-111A and B differ in length, wingspan, weight, range armament, and take-off and landing distance.

Excess fat is only one of the plane's worries, unfortunately. When pilots began test-flying the F-111B in May of 1965, other shortcomings began turning up. Its combat ceiling, although top secret, is admittedly two miles lower than it was supposed to be.



NAVY MODEL—The F-111 scrambles from a carrier in an artist's conception of the scene. The painting can't come true until mid-1971, at the earliest, because of design difficulties.

Loiter time — the length of time the plane can stay over its target — is half an hour too short, which could limit the amount of fuel available for maneuvering during the return to base, and might necessitate mid-air refueling in or near combat areas.

The aircraft's speed brake, a panel that lowers into the airstream from the fuselage, needs strengthening and redesign because it vibrates like a loose shutter, and a device called the adverse yaw compensator does such a poor job of controlling the plane's side-to-side motion that it adds to the already considerable hazards of night landings on an aircraft carrier, from which the F-111Bs will operate.

Engine stall problems have held top speeds to about 1,450 miles per hour, some 200 mph slower than the manufacturer's original figure, although Navy officials have said that an improvement is expected on upcoming test aircraft.

One of the most severe of the plane's shortcomings lies in its inability to take off in adverse winds. Ideally, carrier-based planes, because of the short available runway, take off into the wind so that it is blowing across the wing to provide extra lift.

The F-111B was originally supposed to be able to take off with an eight-knot tailwind, a considerable asset. Instead, the ones built so far need at least a 19-knot headwind, which can mean that the carrier has to steam upwind to make up some of that speed, thus limiting the ship's combat maneuverability.

Still more problems have been the fault oft he F111B's main weapon, the Phoenix missile. Designed and built by Hughes Aircraft Co., the Phoenix system is capable of tracking as many as 18 approaching targets, then selecting and firing missiles at the six most dangerous ones.

The missiles will reportedly be capable of speeds up to 4,000 miles per hour and will have twice the range of any existing air-to-air missile.

Chief headache has come from the Phoenix's fiendishly complicated guidance system, now estimated by the Navy to cost more than $2 million per plane, not including the missiles.

Though the F-111B has been coming in for most of the fire, the Air Force's F-111A has recently been revealed to have troubles of its own. Its gross (fully loaded) take-off weight is more than 12,000 pounds over the contractor guarantee of 69,122 pounds, an excess of about 17 per cent.

Improper location of the air Force version's center of gravity has caused enough instability during landing to pose a control problem for pilots, and to get engineers thinking about a number of possible remedies including lead weights in the plane's nose.

With all the difficulties surrounding both planes, production schedules have gone completely to pot. The Air Force is in the better shape, and hopes to send its first operational F-111A to Vietnam late this year or early in 1968. The F-111B is three years behind schedule, and even if no other troubles crop up, can not go on active duty until mid-1971.

To add to the Navy's unhappy state, Congress cut from a dozen down to eight the number of additional test F-111Bs that it will be allowed to build.

Almost the only remaining characteristic of the original F-111 besides the paint color is the cost, and there's trouble there too. Originally A's and B's were to have sold for about $2.9 million apiece.

The Air Force's 1965 order for 431 production F-111As totalled $1.5 billion, or about $3.5 million per plane, and the F-111B, with its additional setbacks, is now estimated at $8 million per aircraft.

Congress wants to know if the contractors can't be threatened with fines or other penalties; the contractors are anxiously trimming off weight, realizing that every hundred pounds saved may mean another aircraft sold in the long run.

The Navy is wondering if four Phoenix missiles instead of six wouldn't do the job as well (and save an entire ton); the Air Force is split into warring camps over whether or not the F-111 can be made to double)or triple) as the next long-range super-bomber.

The F-111 itself is in the middle — is it the most versatile military aircraft ever made, or is it just the Flying Tucker?

Paper Rack Looted

Theft of an unknown amount of cash from an Independent-Journal newspaper rack at United Market, San Anselmo, was reported to police there yesterday. A bolt cutter had apparently been used to cut open the lock, police said, and the coin box had been taken. Coins totaling $1.70 were lying on the ground near the rack.

Diagnosis Difficult For Retarded

SAN FRANCISCO — A toothache is a toothache — to everyone except the retarded child.

According to Merle Morris, chairman of the children's dentistry section at the University of California Medical Center's School of Dentistry, many retarded children are not able to identify the source of their pain.

An aching tooth or inflamed gum may make such children miserable for months and even years if not discovered and treated.

Dr. John J. Tocchini, dean of the University of the Pacific's School of Dentistry, advised that parents of retarded children should start their search for dental treatment at their local health department.

"Many of these children are so young and have so many dental problems that hospitalization with use of a general anesthetic is sometimes the only course," Dr. Tocchini said.

Cancer-Virus Link Suggested

WASHINGTON (SS) — Viruses found in almost all children before they are five years old have been found to cause cancer in rats.

Previously thought to be relatively harmless, the adenoviruses infect 90 per cent of city children. Type two has now been found to cause tumors in rats, and types one and five are under suspicion.

All three types have been recovered from tonsils and adenoids of infected persons as well as from normal persons, showing the viruses may be latent in large numbers of individuals where they persist for an undetermined number of years. As yet no studies correlate the viruses' cancer-causing activity in rats with cancer in humans.

He Maintains His Size Record

SCOTT AFB, Ill. (UPI)—Senior Master Sgt. John R. Kirkland took both his first and last enlistment oaths in the U.S. Air Force in the largest state in the union—the first in Texas, the last in Alaska.

Kirkland, a flight engineer on the Air Force Communications Service's command aircraft here, first enlisted in 1942 in Dallas, Tex., when Alaska was a U.S. territory.

After 26 years of service, Kirkland reenlisted for the last time in an airplane flying 11,000 feet up between Fairbanks and Anchorage, Alaska. He plans to retire in 1969.

Black Power Historical Struggle

Special to the I-J

SAN FRANCISCO — " 'Black Power' is simply an historical struggle toward self-identity by American Negroes," believes a psychiatrist at the University of California's San Francisco Medical Center.

Dr. Price M. Cobbs says the idea of "black power" began before the turn of the century when former slaves realized that "freedom" really meant subjugation.

"The image of the shiftless, stupid, 'Yassa, boss' Negro projected by white society finally convinced the Negroes they were that way," says Dr. Cobbs.

Many Negroes realized the only way to overcome the self-hatred induced by this negative image was to resist the white man's version of society. "However, the Negroes at that time thought the way to overcome the negative image they held of themselves was to become as much like whites as possible" he explains.

This led to the deep-seated belief that everything black was bad — but everything white was good. "The modern concept of black power began with Malcolm X, the Black Muslim, who was the first national figure to develop positive concepts around blackness," Dr. Cobbs contends.

The "insurrections" taking place in American cities are one manifestation of this new consciousness, the psychiatrist asserts, as Negroes turn their feelings of "hate, envy and fear" away from themselves and onto white society.

"When that Negro walks out of a looted store with a television set," says Dr. Cobbs, "he knows that, however fleetingly, he is enjoying a measure of power and identity and white society has to deal with him as a man."

Civic Courses Not Effective To Pupils

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)—High school civics courses as presently taught have little positive impact on most students, according to a two-year study conducted by the University of Michigan's Survey Research Center.

In a survey involving 1,669 students in 97 high schools across the nation, the university unit found that students who had not been exposed to civics courses received almost identical scores on government knowledge tests as students who had taken the courses.

Influenza Virus Expected Again In U.S., Health Service Warns

VAN DELLEN

Common influenza is a virus disease that strikes in our country every year. The public health service warns us that a substantial number of cases will occur during the 1967-68 season. The culprit is expected to be A2 influenza virus and the vaccine will be prepared with this in mind. A2 is suspected because this strain is beginning its cycle. In addition, a new drug (amantadine HCL) is available for A2-type infection.

B-TYPE viruses were more prevalent during the preceding two years, but the new vaccine will also immunize against this strain in order to protect the individual from any remaining stragglers.

Those not vaccinated previously should be immunized in October and again in December. Those vaccinated annually since July, 1963 need only a booster dose in early December.

Not everyone needs the vaccine. But it is advisable for persons known to suffer most from influenza.

THIS INCLUDES oldsters and the chronically ill, especially those with cardiac, pulmonary, kidney, or metabolic disorders. Residents of institutions should also receive the vaccine and the same can be said of physicians, nurses, and other personnel in daily contact with the sick.

Pandemic is the term applied to a disease that spreads throughout the world killing or incapacitating its victims. There have been 31 influenza pandemics since 1510.

The flu vaccine was discovered in 1941 when the causative viruses were isolated. Although it is not perfect, it will make its mark in history if it protects us against another pandemic.

WHEN the last pandemic occurred in 1957, the vaccine was of little value because the causative (Asian) virus was a newcomer and had not yet been incorporated into the product.

ACTIVE AGE

Mrs. H. writes: Why would a healthy, bright boy of 7 fall and stumble often?

REPLY

This is an active age and falls are common until the child becomes well coordinated. On the other hand, if you have reason to believe that something is wrong with the boy's muscular or nervous system, the family physician should be consulted.

THRUSH DEFINED

Mrs. E. V. writes: What is thrush?

REPLY

A fungus infection of the mouth, usually of the tongue and inner cheeks. The characteristic lesions are small white plaques resembling deposits of coagulated milk. Several remedies, including Nystian mouth washes and the oldie gentian violet, are available.

MEDICAL CARE

Mrs. R. N. writes: Is it necessary for a woman to be under a physician's care during the menopause?

REPLY

Not unless she is one of the 10 per cent with incapacitating symptoms. On the other hand, it is advisable to get regular checkups after 40.

DISCOLORED URINE

P. B. A. writes: What causes discolored urine?

REPLY

Urine assumes a darker color when it is highly concentrated or contains blood or chemicals. A simple test will solve the mystery.

VEINS AND WEIGHT

E. L. writes: Do varicose veins favor the overweight?

REPLY

No, but there is a strong hereditary tendency.

Science Papers In Russian

CHICAGO (SS) — In chemistry, mathemetics and some other areas of scientific research, every fifth paper appears in Russian, yet less than 5 per cent of U.S. scientists have a reading knowledge of the language.

Valuable Soviet research findings may be lost to U.S. scientists because of this inability, J. G. Tolpin of Northwestern University warns. Even with the development of electronic translating machines, he notes, translated versions often appear six to 18 months later than the original, and many reports never appear in English.

On the other side of the Iron Curtain, however, probably half of the Soviet scientists can read English-language research reports in their fields.

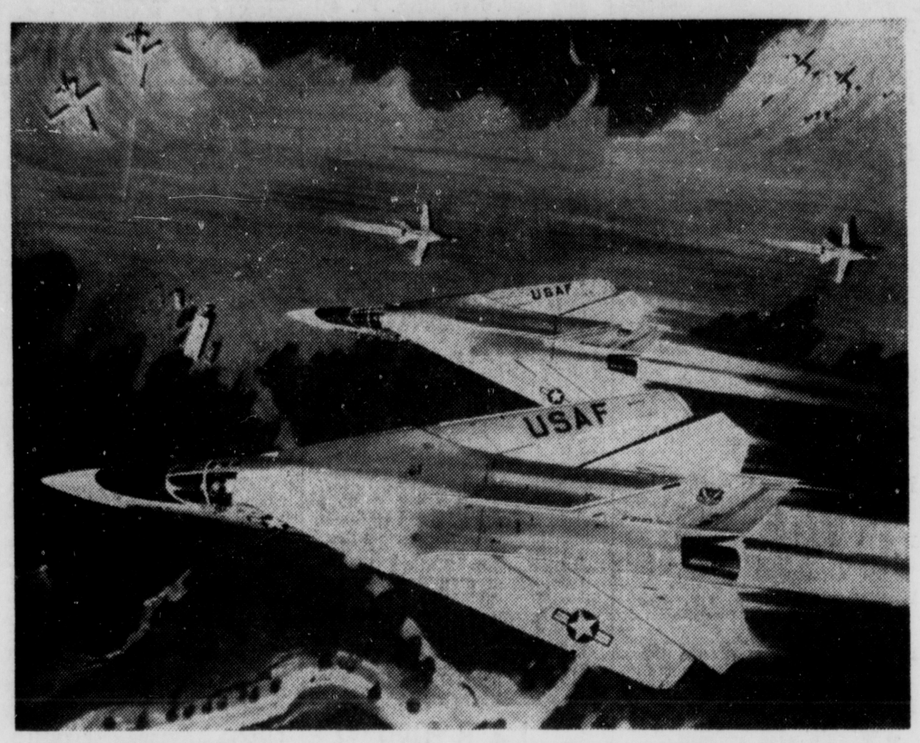
Superplane Decision Still Being Questioned



AIR FORCE VERSION—The F-111 displays its chief design asset, wings that sweep back into a thin triangle for supersonic flight, then stretch out to provide more lift for take-offs and landings.

By JONATHAN EBERHART
Science Service Writer

Five years ago, Defense Secy. Robert S. McNamara overruled a selection board and picked General Dynamics over Boeing to build the TFX, a jet superfighter now famous — or notorious — as the F-111. McNamara's decision is still be questioned and investigated in Washington.

The plane's big advantage was supposed to be that both the Air Force and the Navy could use it, the two versions differing in only 20 per cent of their parts. This, said the secretary, would save at least $1 billion over the cost of developing a separate aircraft for each service.

It hasn't worked out that way. Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corp., which is responsible for testing the Navy version, the F-111B, as well as being a major parts subcontractor to General Dynamics, has said as plainly as it can that "commonality" simply was no substitute for two separate aircraft designs.

Faced with a grievous weight problem in the F-111B, Grumman wrote that "the weigh savings achievable . . . are directly proportional to the permissable reduction in airframe commonality." In English, that means "this airplane is to heavy and it's going to stay that way as long as the Navy has to worry about the Air Force's design limitations."

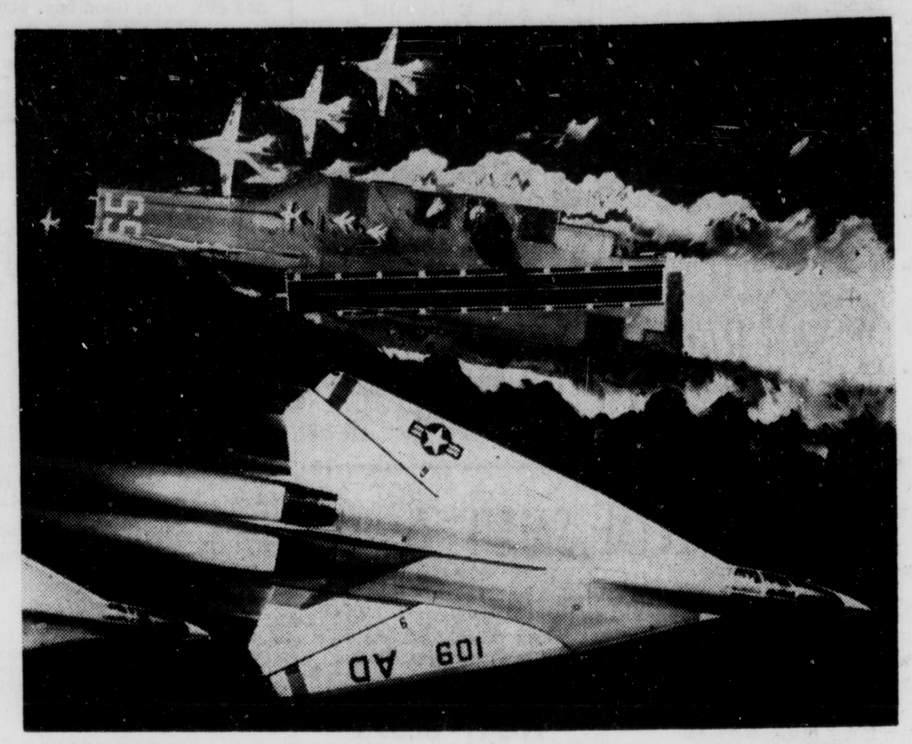
The Defense Department was irretrievably committed to commonality, however, so in order to solve the F-111B's difficulty a weight-improvement program was instituted, but the plane is still more than eight tons overweight.

The F-111's ranking enemy is Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.), from whom a typical mild criticism is that "there are still some very major problems some very major problem associated with this plane — the development of it, the refinement of it — which must be solved before it becomes a reliable weapon."

Even a vested-interest F-111 proponent such as Adm. David L. McDonald, naval chief of operations, has conceded that "there is a possibility that it won't work."

Despite the troubles, however, Air Force Secy. Harold Brown insists that commonality "reflects the broad overlap in the flying qualities required for the Air Force and Navy missions." This overlap is presumably in spite of the fact that the F-111A and B differ in length, wingspan, weight, range armament, and take-off and landing distance.

Excess fat is only one of the plane's worries, unfortunately. When pilots began test-flying the F-111B in May of 1965, other shortcomings began turning up. Its combat ceiling, although top secret, is admittedly two miles lower than it was supposed to be.



NAVY MODEL—The F-111 scrambles from a carrier in an artist's conception of the scene. The painting can't come true until mid-1971, at the earliest, because of design difficulties.

Loiter time — the length of time the plane can stay over its target — is half an hour too short, which could limit the amount of fuel available for maneuvering during the return to base, and might necessitate mid-air refueling in or near combat areas.

The aircraft's speed brake, a panel that lowers into the airstream from the fuselage, needs strengthening and redesign because it vibrates like a loose shutter, and a device called the adverse yaw compensator does such a poor job of controlling the plane's side-to-side motion that it adds to the already considerable hazards of night landings on an aircraft carrier, from which the F-111Bs will operate.

Engine stall problems have held top speeds to about 1,450 miles per hour, some 200 mph slower than the manufacturer's original figure, although Navy officials have said that an improvement is expected on upcoming test aircraft.

One of the most severe of the plane's shortcomings lies in its inability to take off in adverse winds. Ideally, carrier-based planes, because of the short available runway, take off into the wind so that it is blowing across the wing to provide extra lift.

The F-111B was originally supposed to be able to take off with an eight-knot tailwind, a considerable asset. Instead, the ones built so far need at least a 19-knot headwind, which can mean that the carrier has to steam upwind to make up some of that speed, thus limiting the ship's combat maneuverability.

Still more problems have been the fault oft he F111B's main weapon, the Phoenix missile. Designed and built by Hughes Aircraft Co., the Phoenix system is capable of tracking as many as 18 approaching targets, then selecting and firing missiles at the six most dangerous ones.

The missiles will reportedly be capable of speeds up to 4,000 miles per hour and will have twice the range of any existing air-to-air missile.

Chief headache has come from the Phoenix's fiendishly complicated guidance system, now estimated by the Navy to cost more than $2 million per plane, not including the missiles.

Though the F-111B has been coming in for most of the fire, the Air Force's F-111A has recently been revealed to have troubles of its own. Its gross (fully loaded) take-off weight is more than 12,000 pounds over the contractor guarantee of 69,122 pounds, an excess of about 17 per cent.

Improper location of the air Force version's center of gravity has caused enough instability during landing to pose a control problem for pilots, and to get engineers thinking about a number of possible remedies including lead weights in the plane's nose.

With all the difficulties surrounding both planes, production schedules have gone completely to pot. The Air Force is in the better shape, and hopes to send its first operational F-111A to Vietnam late this year or early in 1968. The F-111B is three years behind schedule, and even if no other troubles crop up, can not go on active duty until mid-1971.

To add to the Navy's unhappy state, Congress cut from a dozen down to eight the number of additional test F-111Bs that it will be allowed to build.

Almost the only remaining characteristic of the original F-111 besides the paint color is the cost, and there's trouble there too. Originally A's and B's were to have sold for about $2.9 million apiece.

The Air Force's 1965 order for 431 production F-111As totalled $1.5 billion, or about $3.5 million per plane, and the F-111B, with its additional setbacks, is now estimated at $8 million per aircraft.

Congress wants to know if the contractors can't be threatened with fines or other penalties; the contractors are anxiously trimming off weight, realizing that every hundred pounds saved may mean another aircraft sold in the long run.

The Navy is wondering if four Phoenix missiles instead of six wouldn't do the job as well (and save an entire ton); the Air Force is split into warring camps over whether or not the F-111 can be made to double)or triple) as the next long-range super-bomber.

The F-111 itself is in the middle — is it the most versatile military aircraft ever made, or is it just the Flying Tucker?

Diagnosis Difficult For Retarded

SAN FRANCISCO — A toothache is a toothache — to everyone except the retarded child.

According to Merle Morris, chairman of the children's dentistry section at the University of California Medical Center's School of Dentistry, many retarded children are not able to identify the source of their pain.

An aching tooth or inflamed gum may make such children miserable for months and even years if not discovered and treated.

Dr. John J. Tocchini, dean of the University of the Pacific's School of Dentistry, advised that parents of retarded children should start their search for dental treatment at their local health department.

"Many of these children are so young and have so many dental problems that hospitalization with use of a general anesthetic is sometimes the only course," Dr. Tocchini said.

Cancer-Virus Link Suggested

WASHINGTON (SS) — Viruses found in almost all children before they are five years old have been found to cause cancer in rats.

Previously thought to be relatively harmless, the adenoviruses infect 90 per cent of city children. Type two has now been found to cause tumors in rats, and types one and five are under suspicion.

All three types have been recovered from tonsils and adenoids of infected persons as well as from normal persons, showing the viruses may be latent in large numbers of individuals where they persist for an undetermined number of years. As yet no studies correlate the viruses' cancer-causing activity in rats with cancer in humans.

He Maintains His Size Record

SCOTT AFB, Ill. (UPI)— Senior Master Sgt. John R. Kirkland took both his first and last enlistment oaths in the U.S. Air Force in the largest state in the union—the first in Texas, the last in Alaska.

Kirkland, a flight engineer on the Air Force Communications Service's command aircraft here, first enlisted in 1942 in Dallas, Tex., when Alaska was a U.S. territory.

After 26 years of service, Kirkland reenlisted for the last time in an airplane flying 11,000 feet up between Fairbanks and Anchorage, Alaska. He plans to retire in 1969.

Car Recovered

A car stolen in San Francisco on Oct. 18 was found yesterday by San Anselmo police in a parking lot at Drake Market, 820 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. Owner of the 1965 Mustang is Elwyn Raffetto of El Cerrito.

Civic Courses Not Effective To Pupils

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)— High school civics courses as presently taught have little positive impact on most students, according to a two-year study conducted by the University of Michigan's Survey Research Center.

In a survey involving 1,669 students in 97 high schools across the nation, the university unit found that students who had not been exposed to civics courses received almost identical scores on government knowledge tests as students who had taken the courses.

Black Power Historical Struggle

Special to the I-J

SAN FRANCISCO — " 'Black Power' is simply an historical struggle toward self-identity by American Negroes," believes a psychiatrist at the University of California's San Francisco Medical Center.

Dr. Price M. Cobbs says the idea of "black power" began before the turn of the century when former slaves realized that "freedom" really meant subjugation.

"The image of the shiftless, stupid, 'Yassa, boss' Negro projected by white society finally convinced the Negroes they were that way," says Dr. Cobbs.

Many Negroes realized the only way to overcome the self-hatred induced by this negative image was to resist the white man's version of society. "However, the Negroes at that time thought the way to overcome the negative image they held of themselves was to become as much like whites as possible" he explains.

This led to the deep-seated belief that everything black was bad — but everything white was good. "The modern concept of black power began with Malcolm X, the Black Muslim, who was the first national figure to develop positive concepts around blackness," Dr. Cobbs contends.

The "insurrections" taking place in American cities are one manifestation of this new consciousness, the psychiatrist asserts, as Negroes turn their feelings of "hate, envy and fear" away from themselves and onto white society.

"When that Negro walks out of a looted store with a television set," says Dr. Cobbs, "he knows that, however fleetingly, he is enjoying a measure of power and identity and white society has to deal with him as a man."

Influenza Virus Expected Again In U.S., Health Service Warns

VAN DELLEN

Common influenza is a virus disease that strikes in our country every year. The public health service warns us that a substantial number of cases will occur during the 1967-68 season. The culprit is expected to be A2 influenza virus and the vaccine will be prepared with this in mind. A2 is suspected because this strain is beginning its cycle. In addition, a new drug (amantadine HCL) is available for A2-type infection.

B-TYPE viruses were more prevalent during the preceding two years, but the new vaccine will also immunize against this strain in order to protect the individual from any remaining stragglers.

Those not vaccinated previously should be immunized in October and again in December. Those vaccinated annually since July, 1963 need only a booster dose in early December.

Not everyone needs the vaccine. But it is advisable for persons known to suffer most from influenza.

THIS INCLUDES oldsters and the chronically ill, especially those with cardiac, pulmonary, kidney, or metabolic disorders. Residents of institutions should also receive the vaccine and the same can be said of physicians, nurses, and other personnel in daily contact with the sick.

Pandemic is the term applied to a disease that spreads throughout the world killing or incapacitating its victims. There have been 31 influenza pandemics since 1510.

The flu vaccine was discovered in 1941 when the causative viruses were isolated. Although it is not perfect, it will make its mark in history if it protects us against another pandemic.

WHEN the last pandemic occurred in 1957, the vaccine was of little value because the causative (Asian) virus was a newcomer and had not yet been incorporated into the product.

ACTIVE AGE

Mrs. H. writes: Why would a healthy, bright boy of 7 fall and stumble often?

REPLY

This is an active age and falls are common until the child becomes well coordinated. On the other hand, if you have reason to believe that something is wrong with the boy's muscular or nervous system, the family physician should be consulted.

THRUSH DEFINED

Mrs. E. V. writes: What is thrush?

REPLY

A fungus infection of the mouth, usually of the tongue and inner cheeks. The characteristic lesions are small white plaques resembling deposits of coagulated milk. Several remedies, including Nystian mouth washes and the oldie gentian violet, are available.

MEDICAL CARE

Mrs. R. N. writes: Is it necessary for a woman to be under a physician's care during the menopause?

REPLY

Not unless she is one of the 10 per cent with incapacitating symptoms. On the other hand, it is advisable to get regular checkups after 40.

DISCOLORED URINE

P. B. A. writes: What causes discolored urine?

REPLY

Urine assumes a darker color when it is highly concentrated or contains blood or chemicals. A simple test will solve the mystery.

VEINS AND WEIGHT

E. L. writes: Do varicose veins favor the overweight?

REPLY

No, but there is a strong hereditary tendency.

Science Papers In Russian

CHICAGO (SS) — In chemistry, mathemetics and some other areas of scientific research, every fifth paper appears in Russian, yet less than 5 per cent of U.S. scientists have a reading knowledge of the language.

Valuable Soviet research findings may be lost to U.S. scientists because of this inability, J. G. Tolpin of Northwestern University warns. Even with the development of electronic translating machines, he notes, translated versions often appear six to 18 months later than the original, and many reports never appear in English.

On the other side of the Iron Curtain, however, probably half of the Soviet scientists can read English-language research reports in their fields.

TV REVIEW

A Big Bust For Revival Of Westerns

By RICK DUBROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The revival of Western series on television this season has been a big bust, and it could be that the pioneer epics on video are heading for the last roundup.

It's not that the perennial cowboy stories have lost interest for all their past fans. It's just that when they're up against a slicker, that budgeted piece of film like a television movie, only an occasional Western series such as "Bonanza" or "Gunsmoke" can stand the competition. Video's Western movies remain very popular, of course.

BLEAK FUTURE

There was all the usual talk that television's Western series would go on forever when a new spate of these shows were scheduled for this season after being played down for some years. But the results don't indicate this, and there is little reason to predict success for them in the future.

On Monday nights, ABC-TV's new Chuck Connors series, "Cowboy in Africa," has been a flop in the ratings. And the same network's holdover Western, "The Big Valley," with Barbara Stanwyck, has been far from the top of the popularity list also. The only Western, in fact, that is doing well on Mondays is CBS-TV's granite-like "Gunsmoke," which, after all, can't go on too much longer unless the makeup man is preparing a beard for Marshall Dillon.

OTHER FAILURES

On Wednesdays, ABC-TV's "Custer" has been a complete failure, and is considered a fairly good prospect for quick replacement — which should please the American Indians who protested the incredible glamorization of the frontier officer.

On Thursdays, CBS-TV's new 90-minute Western, "Cimmaron Strip," has failed to make anyone stand up and cheer, and isn't getting the ratings either.

On Fridays, ABC-TV's "Hondo" has gone nowhere. And the same network's "The Guns of Will Sonnett," with Walter Brennan, is a question mark so far as popularity is concerned—up and down in the ratings. CBS-TV's "The Wild, Wild West" outran its welcome on the premiere show and has been taking up valuable network space ever since.

On Saturdays, ABC-TV's "Iron Horse" has fallen off sharply in the rarings since being switched to a time slot opposite the NBC-TV movies.

As for Sundays, NBC-TV's "Bonanza" has shown remarkable lasting power, coming back strong. But even some persons connected with the series feel that the long-running epic may have only a few more years of real popularity.

BEST SHOWS FOR TONIGHT

Best bets on television tonight:

KRON (4), 7 p.m. — Preparations for the "shikar," the round-up of wild elephants in India, will be shown on "Wide Wonderful World."

KRON (4), KCRA (3), 9 p.m. — "Fame Is a Four Letter Word" is the drama to be presented on the "Danny Thomas Hour" starring Caolyn Jones, Barry Sullivan, Richard Conte, Aldo Ray and Geraldine Brooks.

KPIX (5), KXTV (10), 9:30 p.m. — A National Football League game from St. Louis will show the Green Bay Packers clashing with the St. Louis Cardinals.

KQED (9), 10 p.m. — "NET Journal" presents a documentary filmed in Cuba last July and August by a special KQED film crew in "Report from Cuba."

Gifts Of Grain Win Applause

BOMBAY, India (AP)—A gift of 11 tons of grain from Sacrament Valley farmers and a California housewife to famine victims is winning headlines in India.

The gift received more newspaper publicity in Bombay than did the hundreds of thousands of tons of wheat donated by the U.S. government, Canada and Russia.

Mrs. Louis Evans of Santa Barbara collected the 10 tons of rice and a ton of wheat.

Mrs. Evans was publicly thanked yesterday at a dockside ceremony when the grain was turned over to the Committee for the Relief of Famine Victims in Bihar State.

Still At Large

Norman D. Fennell, 26, a minimum security inmate at San Quentin Prison, was still at large today, prison officals reported. Fennell, doing five years to life on a Los Angeles robbery conviction, walked away from an outside-the-wall dormitory Saturday.

Red China Has Own Version Of Hippies—Militant Ones

HONG KONG (AP) — Militant Communist China has its own hippies, but with a difference.

Many of the Red Guards, Chinese arrivals from Red China report, have lost their revolutionary zeal after more than a year of drifting around the country. They can be seen in various parts of the country—with young boys hugging scantily dressed girls a trailway stations, in parks and other public places.

One Chinese seaman who stayed in China for more than two months said: "All Chinese hippie-lands are strictly off limits to foreign visitors."

While the American hippies advocate love and nonviolence, the Chinese ones are known for their militancy. And they steal food and loot, according to the travelers.

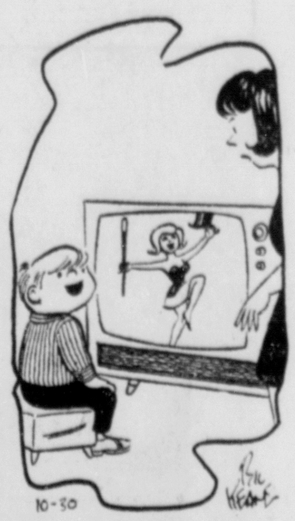
Recently the Communist Authorities ordered all Red Guards to return to their schools, which were closed in the summer of 1966. But, the arrivals say, in many schools neither teachers nor students turned up.

"The teachers are afraid of vengeful action from students, while the students, after more than a year of free traveling and comparatively easy life, are reluctant to go back to schools where some kind of discipline must be kept," one source said.

He said many Chinese hippies have no homes to go back to because "many parents were liquidated during the current power struggle in China."

Channel Chuckles

By BIL KEANE



"Boy! Has the educational channel been real cool during the teachers' strike!"

A mature skunk is capable of four to six successive discharges of its "gas gun" and is accurate up to 15 feet.

One Poilution Cure Advanced

DRESHER, Pa. (UPI)—Bacteria that act like cannibals may be one answer to the problem of stream and water pollution in and around the nation's major population centers. A sewage treatment installation serving the main plant and home office of Selas Corporation of America here uses cannibalistic bacteria to convert sewage into clear, clean water.

Stimulated by fresh air forced through the sewage, the proliferating bacteria devour their own excess population. In the process, they also attack and destroy disease-breeding solids.

The Bird Was Just Too Much

SEVENOAKS, England (UPI)—Every time Steven Hale, 18, called on his girl friend, Marion Wright, Marion's pet parakeet would chirp "Nice boy, David." David happens to be the name of Marion's ex-boy friend.

It got to be too much for Steven. "One of us has to go—either the bird or me," he told Marion. She gave the bird to an aunt.

"Now that he is gone we can discuss our wedding plans without interruption," said Marion.

Kennedy Backers Set Mock Primary Vote

I-J SPecial Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The Kennedy for President in 1968 Committee today announced plans for a mock primary election in the Bay Area Friday through Sunday.

The election also will be held in communities across the nation where the committee has organized, said William M. Taylor of San Anselmo, a northern California leader of the pro-Kennedy drive.

In Marin, booths will be manned in front of the county courthouse and at San Francisco Theological Seminary from 1 to 5 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, and in downtown Sausalito all day Sunday, Taylor said in a press conference at the Saint Francis Hotel. About a dozen booths will be spotted around Bay Area communities, he said.

The mock election will pit Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-New York, against President Johnson, but space will be provided for write-in candidates. All persons, regardless of party registration, can vote in the election, Taylor said.

The committee "is strictly grass roots, and has no Kennedy money," he emphasized. It claims 6,000 members in 50 chapters throughout the country.

The Marin chapter has about a dozen active members, Taylor said.

Appearing at the press conference with Taylor was Marin Supervisor Thomas T. Storer. In an advance statement to the Independent-Journal, Storer said he gave his "whole-hearted support" to Kennedy.

Storer, who is not a member of the committee, said the president "obviously has fallen under the spell of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the military lobby."

The Marin chapter's headquarters, Taylor said, will move Wednesday from Mill Valley to 500 Red Hill Avenue, San Anselmo.

CYA Director To Step Down

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Herman G. Stark, director of the California Youth Authority for 15 years, has announced he will retire in January, to be replaced by Allen F. Breed, superintendent of the Northern California Youth Center in Stockton.

Stark first went into law enforcement work in 1931, with the Los Angeles County probation department. The director is one of only several directorships in the state which carries a term appointment. Stark's four-year term, his fourth, is due to expire next March 15.

Breed has been superintendent of the major institutions of the CYA, including the Fricot Ranch School for Boys in Calaveras County and the Preston school of Industry in Ione. A resident of Lodi, Breed is a graduate of the University of the Pacific in Stockton.

Murder Count Will Be Filed

OAKLAND (UPI) — Police said murder charges will be filed today against a militant Black Panther party leader accused of killing one patrolman and wounding another when stopped for a traffic violation.

Officer John Frey, 23, was killed by four bullets from a 9-mm pistol. A second patrolman, Herbert Heanes, 24, was critcally wounded by three slugs when he drove up to provide "cover" protection.

Huey Newton, 25, was arrested less than an hour after the Saturday shooting at a hospital where he sought treatment for a stomach wound. He was shot by Heanes after a struggle at the death scene.

Sierra Club Backs Trading For National Redwood Park

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A spokesman for the Sierra Club, a San Francisco-based conservationist organization, today defended a proposal to trade government-owned timberlands for private lands to be included in a redwood national park.

The proposal, attacked last week by eight other organizations, was defended by Michael McCloskey, Sierra Club conservation director.

McCloskey said the land exchange was needed to reduce the cash outlay for the proposed 64,000-acre California park expected to cost about $100 million.

"The simple truth is that no one really believes that Congress will provide the total financing for the $100 million park solely out of appropriations," McCloskey said in a statement.

A park proposal backed by Chairman Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., of the Senate Interior Committee, and Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., would open the 14,567-acre northern redwood purchase unit administered by the Forest Service for private lands owned by four large companies.

The proposal was attacked by other conservationist and outdoor organizations on grounds it would set a bad precedent and endanger game refuges and other federal areas in the future. They called for outright purchase of the private lands.

In urging approval of the Jackson-Kuchel plan, the Sierra Club spokesman said the senators had "worked too long putting together a redwood park plan to have it undermined now." He urged the other organizations "to face realities too and lend a helping hand."

The Sierra Club originally sought a 90,000-acre park, a proposal advanced in Congress by Rep. Jeffrey Cohelan, D-Calif., and Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont.

McCloskey disputed the argument the swap would set a bad precedent. He said the Forest Service made such exchanges with private owners "all the time."

Raiders Climb Over Chargers To Grab AFL Lead

OAKLAND (AP) — Clem Daniels raced 52 yards on a play that wasn't designed for long yardage and took over the American Football League's career hushing record yesterday as his Oakland Raiders climbed over San Diego with a crushing defeat, 51-10, into the Western Division's lead.

Daniels gained 94 yards on the ground to become the league's only 5,000 yard man with a 5,008 total. He passed San Diego's Paul Lowe, who netted only 29 and now has 4,947.

NOW 6-1

Oakland's 6-1 record is the best of any team in the league and tops San Diego's 5-1-1 to lead the west.

Daniels said his long gainer was achieved through good breaks and good blocking. It set up the Raiders' sixth of seven touchdowns.

Daniels remarked that he was much more pleased with the victory than the record, and predicted "some youngster will come along and break it."

Daniels also caught four passes for 101 yards and explained, "I was able to get out quickly on their safety man because their linebackers didn't hold me up."

Oakland Coach John Rauch called the score "astonishing against a team like San Diego" and warned it merely means "now everybody will be shooting at us." The Raiders play Denver there Sunday.

CAN'T LET UP

The game was largely an aerial duel. Hadl and Lance Alworth combined for a 71-yard San Diego touchdown. Lamonica threw 40 yards to Daniels for one and 70 to Fred Biletnikoff

Blitz Is Key To Detroit's Romp Over 49ers

JIM GILMARTIN

49ers Ruined Lovely Day In San Francisco

OUCH—Yesterday was such a lovely day. Golden Gate Park was jammed with picnickers and hippies soaking up the warmth under skies of absolute purity.

It's too bad the 49ers had to go and ruin it all by playing football against the Detroit Lions. It would have been much more fun and less embarrassing if we all just had a picnic on the turf at Kezar Stadium.

The 49ers are like a little girl: When they're good they're very, very good; but when they're bad—tsk-tsk. Yesterday was one of their worst days and Detroit's ridiculously 45-3 victory knocked San Francisco's championship dreams for a jolt. It got to be so brutal and embarrassing that many fans started leaving late in the third quarter.

IT WAS AS IF Coach Jack Christiansen handed a football to quarterback John Brodie and told him to go out and play catch with the Lions. Brodie 12 passes, 4 to the Lions and 8 to his own guys, which is not really the idea. A fifth interception was nullified by a penalty.

Had To Feel Sorry For Brodie

But even Brodie's severest critics had to feel sorry for him yesterday. He would have been safer playing hopscotch in the middle of U.S. Highway 101 at rush hour. The Lions, whose defensive unit is coached by ex-49er aide Jim David, blitzed the bejabbers out of Brodie so that he was either running for his life, throwing the ball away out of sheer panic or eating dirt with seemingly a dozen Lions crawling all over him. In the locker room after the game Brodie peeled off one jersey and four Lions.

The 49ers just weren't ready for this game and most of the trouble can be blamed on the offensive line. It leaked. Hell, it flooded. The game movies will look like the Charge of the Light Brigade. Even the water boy got stampeded.

Weakened By Some Injuries

In all fairness, it should be noted the 49ers were weakened by injuries to some key players. Otherwise it probably would have been only 44-3.

THE BRIGHTEST SPOT of the day, as far as I was concerned, was one particular tackle made by 49er rookie Elmer Collett of Mill Valley on a second quarter punt. The rugged ex-Tam High and College of Marin star hit Tommy Watkins so hard that he knocked the Detroit punt return specialist about five yards backwards, drawing a tremendous ooohh from the crowd.

Elmer has great speed for his 6-4, 244-pound frame and is particularly noticeable on punts, often being the first player downfield. His summer-long conditioning program at Stinson Beach obviously has helped Elmer.

Some Glitter Rubbed Off

The severity of yesterday's loss will rub some of the glitter off next Sunday's long-awaited 49er-Los Angeles Rams rematch at Kezar. It was announced that tickets for that game were on sale at Kezar yesterday, but I didn't notice anyone beating a path to the ticket booth.

Anyway, the 49ers are now the Bay Area's second most popular pro football team. While they and the Lions played to 37,990, the Oakland Raiders and San Diego Chargers drew 53,474 at Oakland.

Being second best may make the 49ers try harder, but a loss like yesterday's really hurts.

KICKER COLLETT — Detroit's Bobby Thompson (27) had the ball picked out of his grasp by 49er Elmer Collett (66) of Mill Valley during the second quarter punt return action yesterday at Kezar Stadium. Joe Cerne recovered for the 49ers. Other identifiable players are 49ers Mel Phillips (32) and Detroit's Bruce Maher (21). (UPI Telephoto)

Lions Rough Up Poor Mr. Brodie

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—After mangling the San Francisco 49ers 45-3 yesterday, the Detroit Lions presented the game ball to defensive coach Jim David—and that tells the story of an upset victory in the National Football League.

For David was defensive coach of the 49ers for the past three seasons and he drafted the Lions' game plan. The name of the plan was BLITZ.

Poor Brodie was thrown four times for losses of 39 yards while trying to pass. He threw four interceptions. One gave the Lions an immediate touchdown. A fifth was nullified when Brodie was roughed.

LOST BALL

He lost the ball once on a fumble when smashed to earth and was penalized once for one of the many times he had to throw the ball away.

He became painfully acquainted with such people as Mike Lucci, Alex Karras, Larry Hand and Wayne Walker.

His completion record was a paltry 8 for 29 for only 89 yards.

The loss dropped the 49ers into third place in the Coastal Division even though their record is still a highly respectable 5-2. Baltimore leads with 5-0-2 and the Los Angeles Rams moved into second with 4-1-2 since ties don't count.

RAMS NEXT

Of the loss to the Lions he said, philosophically, "It was just a case of we played bad and they played good. We could not handle them. Our offensive line didn't block. Detroit blitzed more than usual. We just didn't protect our quarterback.

"Detroit normally blitzes 30 or 40 per cent of the time. This time I'd say it was closer to 50 per cent.

Lions Coach Joe Schmidt, a former teammate with Christiansen, exulted, "It was about time we got some breaks. When you're blitzing a lot you can make a very good offensive team look bad."

FIRST BLOOD

That's what the Lions did to San Francisco. Their defensive unit drew first blood when linebacker Lucci ran a Brodie pass back 31 yards to a touchdown.

Five minutes later they put together a 64 yard drive for another score. Quarterback Karl Sweetan passed twice for 45 and executed a nifty bootleg for 16 before Mel Farr went from the one.

The 49ers came briefly to life when Brodie hit Dave Parks for 43 yards but had to settle for Tommy Davis' 13 yard field goal — and that was all for the day.

Drake Retains Co-Lead

By GARY TISCHLER

After the weekend of the big blank, comes the day of the deluge.

A whole season of defensive tradition exploded on a windy, sun-filled afternoon in Kentfield Saturday as Drake remained tied for the Marin County Athletic League football lead by rolling past Redwood, 26-20, in an offensive, yardage-bulging struggle.

The victory gave the Pirates a 3-11 league record, same as the Terra Linda Trojans. The loss all but dropped the ambitious and game Giants out of the running with a 3-2 mark, barring a miracle of Red Sea proportions.

The offensive fireworks well all the more amazing because they happened only a week after two MCAL games produced only two points in eight quarters of frustrating football.

OUT OF SLUMP

It was, in some ways, Drake's best offensive work of the season, and helped pull the Pirates out of a scoring slump that had spanned four weekends of football.

If you want to point the finger at anybody, it would have to be Pirate quarterback Don Stone and halfback Don Alvarado.

Stone wrecked Redwood's groud defensive ends by running them silly on simple runouts all afternoon, finally coming up with 112 net yards rusing and a pair of touchdowns. Nobody even bothered to ask about his throwing arm. His rambling, long-legged jaunts did all the talking.

DID EVERYTHING

Alvarado, Drake's all-around man, did everything again, although he only gained 29 yards rushing. However, he threw one pass for a 13-yard gainer, knocked down four Jim Peters passes, threw a tremndous block to set teammate Andy Stitch loose on a 23-yard run, intercepted a Jeters pass in the fading seconds of the game to end Redwood's last desperate try, scored twice, once on a tremendous bulling, flip-flip run and again on a three-yard flip from Stone.

The Giants started out by showing flat disdain for Drake's hightly-touted defense, scoring on their first possession in seven quick plays off an 80-yard drive. The TV clincher was a 30-yard toss from Peters to Rob Dorinson 9:03 into the quarter.

STRIKES BACK

Drake struck back on a 62-yard drive, beginning with Alvarado's pass to Stitch. In between, little John Brown churned loose on a 19-yard sideliner and Alvarado cut loose on a 13-yeard gainer that set the Pirates up on the three-yard line. But a penalty and three tries at the line failed to produce anything until Alvarado made his guts run after failing to find a receiver on fourth down.

The Pirates scored again on a 16-yard rollout jaunt by Stone in the second period to gain a 12-6 halftime lead.

Two third-period touchdowns by the Pirates gave them a 25-6 lead and seemed to have made it easy.

And the Giants, lulled and shocked all afternoon, woke up desperately and, as it turned out, too late.

They cut the gap to 26-13 with 11 seconds left in the third quarter on a blasting, tackle shaking run by halfback Pete Richter, who carried four Pirates with him into the end zone.

282 YARDS

Peters, who finished with a tremendous total of 282 yards passing, found Richter for a screen pass late in the fourth quarter and the junior halfback rambled dow nthe sidelines 57 yards before being stopped on the six. Another screen from Peters to Richter produced a six-yard TD with less than four

Raiders Climb Over Chargers To Grab AFL Lead

OAKLAND (AP) — Clem Daniels raced 52 yards on a play that wasn't designed for long yardage and took over the American Football League's career hushing record yesterday as his Oakland Raiders climbed over San Diego with a crushing defeat, 51-10, into the Western Division's lead.

Daniels gained 94 yards on the ground to become the league's only 5,000 yard man with a 5,008 total. He passed San Diego's Paul Lowe, who netted only 29 and now has 4,947.

NOW 6-1

Oakland's 6-1 record is the best of any team in the league and tops San Diego's 5-1-1 to lead the west.

Daniels said his long gainer was achieved through good breaks and good blocking. It set up the Raiders' sixth of seven touchdowns.

Daniels remarked that he was much more pleased with the victory than the record, and predicted "some youngster will come along and break it."

Daniels also caught four passes for 101 yards and explained, "I was able to get out quickly on their safety man because their linebackers didn't hold me up."

Oakland Coach John Rauch called the score "astonishing against a team like San Diego" and warned it merely means "now everybody will be shooting at us." The Raiders play Denver there Sunday.

CAN'T LET UP

The game was largely an aerial duel. Hadl and Lance Alworth combined for a 71-yard San Diego touchdown. Lamonica threw 40 yards to Daniels for one and 70 to Fred Biletnikoff for another.

Blitz Is Key To Detroit's Romp Over 49ers

JIM GILMARTIN

49ers Ruined Lovely Day In San Francisco

OUCH—Yesterday was such a lovely day. Golden Gate Park was jammed with picnickers and hippies soaking up the warmth under skies of absolute purity.

It's too bad the 49ers had to go and ruin it all by playing football against the Detroit Lions. It would have been much more fun and less embarrassing if we all just had a picnic on the turf at Kezar Stadium.

The 49ers are like a little girl: When they're good they're very, very good; but when they're bad—tsk-tsk. Yesterday was one of their worst days and Detroit's ridiculously 45-3 victory knocked San Francisco's championship dreams for a jolt. It got to be so brutal and embarrassing that many fans started leaving late in the third quarter.

IT WAS AS IF Coach Jack Christiansen handed a football to quarterback John Brodie and told him to go out and play catch with the Lions. Brodie 12 passes, 4 to the Lions and 8 to his own guys, which is not really the idea. A fifth interception was nullified by a penalty.

Had To Feel Sorry For Brodie

But even Brodie's severest critics had to feel sorry for him yesterday. He would have been safer playing hopscotch in the middle of U.S. Highway 101 at rush hour. The Lions, whose defensive unit is coached by ex-49er aide Jim David, blitzed the bejabbers out of Brodie so that he was either running for his life, throwing the ball away out of sheer panic or eating dirt with seemingly a dozen Lions crawling all over him. In the locker room after the game Brodie peeled off one jersey and four Lions.

The 49ers just weren't ready for this game and most of the trouble can be blamed on the offensive line. It leaked. Hell, it flooded. The game movies will look like the Charge of the Light Brigade. Even the water boy got stampeded.

Weakened By Some Injuries

In all fairness, it should be noted the 49ers were weakened by injuries to some key players. Otherwise it probably would have been only 44-3.

THE BRIGHTEST SPOT of the day, as far as I was concerned, was one particular tackle made by 49er rookie Elmer Collett of Mill Valley on a second quarter punt. The rugged ex-Tam High and College of Marin star hit Tommy Watkins so hard that he knocked the Detroit punt return specialist about five yards backwards, drawing a tremendous ooohh from the crowd.

Elmer has great speed for his 6-4, 244-pound frame and is particularly noticeable on punts, often being the first player downfield. His summer-long conditioning program at Stinson Beach obviously has helped Elmer.

Some Glitter Rubbed Off

The severity of yesterday's loss will rub some of the glitter off next Sunday's long-awaited 49er-Los Angeles Rams rematch at Kezar. It was announced that tickets for that game were on sale at Kezar yesterday, but I didn't notice anyone beating a path to the ticket booth.

Anyway, the 49ers are now the Bay Area's second most popular pro football team. While they and the Lions played to 37,990, the Oakland Raiders and San Diego Chargers drew 53,474 at Oakland.

Being second best may make the 49ers try harder, but a loss like yesterday's really hurts.

KICKER COLLETT — Detroit's Bobby Thompson (27) had the ball picked out of his grasp by 49er Elmer Collett (66) of Mill Valley during the second quarter punt return action yesterday at Kezar Stadium. Joe Cerne recovered for the 49ers. Other identifiable players are 49ers Mel Phillips (32) and Detroit's Bruce Maher (21). (UPI Telephoto)

Lions Rough Up Poor Mr. Brodie

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—After mangling the San Francisco 49ers 45-3 yesterday, the Detroit Lions presented the game ball to defensive coach Jim David —and that tells the story of an upset victory in the National Football League.

For David was defensive coach of the 49ers for the past three seasons and he drafted the Lions' game plan. The name of the plan was BLITZ.

Poor Brodie was thrown four times for losses of 39 yards while trying to pass. He threw four interceptions. One gave the Lions an immediate touchdown. A fifth was nullified when Brodie was roughed.

LOST BALL

He lost the ball once on a fumble when smashed to earth and was penalized once for one of the many times he had to throw the ball away.

He became painfully acquainted with such people as Mike Lucci, Alex Karras, Larry Hand and Wayne Walker.

His completion record was a paltry 8 for 29 for only 89 yards.

The loss dropped the 49ers into third place in the Coastal Division even though their record is still a highly respectable 5-2. Baltimore leads with 5-0-2 and the Los Angeles Rams moved into second with 4-1-2 since ties don't count.

RAMS NEXT

Of the loss to the Lions he said, philosophically, "It was just a case of we played bad and they played good. We could not handle them. Our offensive line didn't block. Detroit blitzed more than usual. We just didn't protect our quarterback.

"Detroit normally blitzes 30 or 40 per cent of the time. This time I'd say it was closer to 50 per cent.

Lions Coach Joe Schmidt, a former teammate with Christiansen, exulted, "It was about time we got some breaks. When you're blitzing a lot you can make a very good offensive team look bad."

FIRST BLOOD

That's what the Lions did to San Francisco. Their defensive unit drew first blood when linebacker Lucci ran a Brodie pass back 31 yards to a touchdown.

Five minutes later they put together a 64 yard drive for another score. Quarterback Karl Sweetan passed twice for 45 and executed a nifty bootleg for 16 before Mel Farr went from the one.

The 49ers came briefly to life when Brodie hit Dave Parks for 43 yards but had to settle for Tommy Davis' 13 yard field goal — and that was all for the day.

Dellepere was the leading rusher of the game with 99 yards on 19 carries as the Braves rolled up 318 yards to Calistoga's 81. Calistoga's deepest penetration was the Tomales 30-yard-line.

They're Calling Nicklaus 'Shiek'

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Cut a golf ball in half and see who will give you $8,000 for it.

And what would you say if that little hemisphere would make you the leading money-winner for all of 1967 among the professional golfers

Since a ball is ruled out of bounds only when all of it is beyond the boundary, the tee shot which Jack Nicklaus hit on the 18th hole in Saturday's final round of the Sahara Invitational tournament was ruled playable.

Only half of it, precisely, .840 of an inch, was beyond the boundary so Nicklaus played it for his 71-270 and the $20,000 first prize.

Steve Spray, in his best PGA finish ever, carded a 271 for $12,000, his best purse ever but still less by $8,000 than the check Nicklaus received. That boosted Jack to $188,998.08 for the campaign and shoved him past Arnold Palmer in the money chase.

THE SHEIK

United States Open champion Nicklaus now is referred to in some circles as "The Sheik," king of the desert. For of the 27-year old golfer's 25 tournament victories, five have come at Las Vegas—three times in the Sahara and twice in the Tournament of Champions.

Now he heads for golfing in Australia while the other tournament pros, including Palmer, play in the Hawaiian Open starting Thursday. Should Arnie score well and go ahead again in the money battle, Nicklaus will play in the Cajun Classic at Lafayette, La. Otherwise, he'll restrict his tournament play to the World Cup in Mexico City where he teams with Palmer in two weeks.

RECORD

Although Nicklaus wound up with a bogie five on that troublesome final hole, where he also hit into a trap, he finished the 72-hole Sahara 14 under par thanks mostly to his course record-tying 62 on Friday.

Palmer finished at even par 284 with a final 72 over the Paradise Valley Country Club course for a $521. He has earned $182,915 this year in official tournament money.

Hugh Royer from Columbus, Ga. took third place with a 68-276, six strokes behind the winner of a tournament which developed strictly into a two-man race. Frank Beard, 68, Rives McBee, 69, and Terry Dill, 72, each had 277 to deadlock for fourth place.

The Nicklaus bogey on the 18th cost him his chance to tie Bill Casper's tournament record of 269.

Russ Win Lion's Share Of Medals

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—The Pre-Olympic games trickled to a close yesterday, the Soviet Union going home with the lion's share of the medals and the United States placing a distant second, virtually by default.

A last-ditch try by the U.S. swimmers—which pulled the Yanks out of the deficit in the previous two "little Olympics"—failed to succeed this time.

The Russians grabbed 88 medals to 64 for the United States, and outpaced the U.S. in gold medals 43-21.

The outcome was almost inevitable.

The Russians entered 161 athletes in 14 sports, to 110 in eight sports for the U.S.

And the Russians took the games—meant to be a dress rehearsal for the 19th Olympics in Mexico City next October—pretty seriously, while the United States mounted only a lackadaisacal effort.

U.S. officials and coaches warned that it was no rehearsal for them, and things will be different next year. Many of the top U.S. stars, choosing the class room over rehearsal games, stayed home. Others flew in, entered their event, and caught the next plane back. Champion shot-putter Randy Matson, the Texas strong boy, won his specialty, but spent only 13 hours in Mexico City.

U.S. distance runner Van Nelson of Minneapolis tried the same thing, arriving at midnight to run the 10,000 meters the next day, and wound up seventh, about 415 yards back.

Russia, by contrast, sent its squad five weeks early to acclimatize them to the oxgen-thin air at Mexico City's 7,349 feet above sea level. They sowed heavily in time and effort and reaped the medals harvest.

Host Mexico, smothering the entry list with more than 500 competitors—and more than one team in many events—ranked third with 44 medals, Hungary was fourth, (38), East Germany fifth (37) and Japan sixth (32).

Warriors Win Again In Oakland

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The San Francisco Warriors would be shoo-ins to repeat as Western Division champions in the National Basketball Association if they played all their games at Oakland Arena.

They won 9 of 10 at the Arena since last fall, including four this season. Latest victim was the Chicago Bulls who fell to a balanced Warrior attack 125-105 last night.

It was the Warriors' fourth win in a row and left them with a 6-4 record and in third place in the Western Division behind St. Louis and Los Angeles.

HOT HALF

After the opening moments, the closest the winless Bulls (0-8) got was 76-70 in the third quarter. A hot second half by Warrior Jim King helped pull San Francisco ahead by 22 points. Eighteen of King's 26 points came in the final two periods.

Rudy LaRusso of San Francisco bucketed 24 and towering teammate Nate Thurmond chipped in with 22 in addition to clearing both boards consistently.

Quarry Now Waits For Semi-Finals

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Jerry Quarry, the hard-hitting younster from Bellflower, Calif., was in the semifinals of the World Boxing Association heavyweight elimination tournament today but beyond that the picture was unclear.

Officials met here yesterday and were scheduled to sit down again today in an effort to determine the semifinal pairings for the tourney to pick a successor to deposed champion Cassius Clay.

SPLIT DECISION

Promoter Aileen Eaton said the 22-year-old local heavyweight probably would meet Spencer in the semifinals.

The Olympic Auditorium promoter said Quarry had a contract to fight Bonavena but "it is more likely" that he would face Spencer, of San Francisco, at Los Angeles or Oakland in late February.

Bonavena and Ellis are scheduled to meet but the Argentine boxer has been bothered by a bad back.

RESULTS

Quarry, who began his pro career in 1965, had the 32-year-old Patterson on the canvas twice in the opening four rounds. He knocked down the aging ex-champion in the second and fourth rounds with right hands to the head for mandatory eight counts.

It was Quarry's 24th win against one loss and four draws but a large number of the fans at the Olympic disagreed with the officials' decision.

Oakland Oaks Spoil Opening For Amigos

COMBINED AP & UPI

RIVERSIDE, Calif. — The team of England's Bruce McLaren and Denis Hulme is only one victory away from a sweep of the six-race Canadian-American Challenge Cup Series today. And it appears only Jim Hall of Texas can stop the pair.

McLaren won a stirring duel with the Chaparral-Chevy driver yesterday to capture the fifth race of the series — the rich Times Grand Prix for sports cars before an estimated 82,000 fans at the Riverside International Raceway course.

It was the former New Zealander's second straight Can-Am victory. Hulme, the world grand prix champion and the winner of the first three races of the series, went out after suffering body damage on the second lap to his team McLaren-Chevy.

The victory gave McLaren nine points in the international competition to move in front of his teammate in the individual scoring. The winner, either McLaren or Hulme, will get $31,500.

USC Super-Star O. J. Simpson May Be Out For Rest Of Season

LOS ANGELES — O. J. Simpson, top-ranked Southern California's brilliant junior halfback, may be on the shelf for the rest of the regular season with a sprained right instep, Coach John McKay said today.

"I doubt if he'll play much more football for us—if any—this season," the veteran Trojan mentor declared.

"The doctors tell me he is out indefinitely," McKay continued. "He is on crutches." Southern Cal, now 7-0, is at California next Saturday. The Trojans end their regular campaign at Oregon State and at home against archrival UCLA, the No. 2 team in the nation.

Simpson, who has gained 1,050 yards in seven games, was injured in the second half.

While the Bruins (6-0-0 so far) are hosting the ambitious Beavers, other scheduled Pacific Eight action will find Stanford at Washington and Oregon at Washington State. Outside the conference, there are such interesting clashes as eighth-ranked Wyoming at San Jose State and Colorado State at University of the Pacific. San Diego State, top-ranked among the nation's small schools, is idle until Nov. 11. The Aztecs squeezed out a 28-21 win over Fresno State Saturday night.

Oregon State banged Washington State, 35-7 that afternoon while Washington dropped California, 23-6 and Stanford lost in the final two minutes to Army, 24-20. UCLA had a bye.

Novato Hornet Gridders Have To Settle For A Tie

The Novato High School's struggling offense finally let loose last Saturday against Montgomery High School at Santa Rosa, but you couldn't tell by the score.

The end result was a frustrating 6-6 tie for the Hornets, although they pushed Montgomery around every which way but out.

The Hornets amassed 250 yards total offense, 12 of which went for a touchdown on a pass from clutch sub quarterback Greg Davenport to Pete Weekley in the third quarter.

But that was all the Hornets could punch over, as they saw opportunities die out on the two- and eight-yard lines.

Montgomery scored on the opening play, on a 54-yard getaway by Joe Stender and that was all. The losers got 57 yards rushing.

Davenport, filling for junior Russ Dillon, completed 10 of 18 passes for 119 yards. Halfback Larry Bresnan, doing most of the running damage, piled up 101 yards rushing.

FOUR WAYS TO GET CHEAP TIRES!

1. Buy a no-name brand that nobody ever heard of. You can usually get a discount on them.
2. Get tires at a place where the service is not up to snuff. This might knock off a buck or two.
3. Be satisfied with poor quality, 2nd and 3rd line tires — 2-ply seconds — recaps. These are all cheaper.
4. Buy them where safety is not the paramount concern. Where they throw 'em on and move you out.

NOW! IF YOU'RE A GAMBLER . . . and your luck is good, you might "save" 10 or 15 per cent — to start with. But if you are the kind of person who likes to buy with confidence knowing you will get the very finest service and quality, please see me. All my men are experts . . . safety experts.

And the Russians took the games—meant to be a dress rehearsal for the 19th Olympics in Mexico City next October—pretty seriously, while the United States mounted only a lackadaisacal effort.

U.S. officials and coaches warned that it was no rehearsal for them, and things will be different next year. Many of the top U.S. stars, choosing the class room over rehearsal games, stayed home. Others flew in, entered their event, and caught the next plane back. Champion shot-putter Randy Matson, the Texas strong boy, won his specialty, but spent only 13 hours in Mexico City.

U.S. distance runner Van Nelson of Minneapolis tried the same thing, arriving at midnight to run the 10,000 meters the next day, and wound up seventh, about 415 yards back.

Russia, by contrast, sent its squad five weeks early to acclimatize them to the oxgen-thin air at Mexico City's 7,349 feet above sea level. They sowed heavily in time and effort and reaped the medals harvest.

Host Mexico, smothering the entry list with more than 500 competitors—and more than one team in many events—ranked third with 44 medals, Hungary was fourth, (38), East Germany fifth (37) and Japan sixth (32).

Warriors Win Again In Oakland

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The San Francisco Warriors would be shoo-ins to repeat as Western Division champions in the National Basketball Association if they played all their games at Oakland Arena.

They won 9 of 10 at the Arena since last fall, including four this season. Latest victim was the Chicago Bulls who fell to a balanced Warrior attack 125-105 last night.

It was the Warriors' fourth win in a row and left them with a 6-4 record and in third place in the Western Division behind St. Louis and Los Angeles.

HOT HALF

After the opening moments, the closest the winless Bulls (0-8) got was 76-70 in the third quarter. A hot second half by Warrior Jim King helped pull San Francisco ahead by 22 points. Eighteen of King's 26 points came in the final two periods.

Rudy LaRusso of San Francisco bucketed 24 and towering teammate Nate Thurmond chipped in with 22 in addition to clearing both boards consistently.

Quarry Now Waits For Semi-Finals

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Jerry Quarry, the hard-hitting younster from Bellflower, Calif., was in the semifinals of the World Boxing Association heavyweight elimination tournament today but beyond that the picture was unclear.

Officials met here yesterday and were scheduled to sit down again today in an effort to determine the semifinal pairings for the tourney to pick a successor to deposed champion Cassius Clay.

SPLIT DECISION

Promoter Aileen Eaton said the 22-year-old local heavyweight probably would meet Spencer in the semifinals.

The Olympic Auditorium promoter said Quarry had a contract to fight Bonavena but "it is more likely" that he would face Spencer, of San Francisco, at Los Angeles or Oakland in late February.

Bonavena and Ellis are scheduled to meet but the Argentine boxer has been bothered by a bad back.

RESULTS

Quarry, who began his pro career in 1965, had the 32-year-old Patterson on the canvas twice in the opening four rounds. He knocked down the aging ex-champion in the second and fourth rounds with right hands to the head for mandatory eight counts.

It was Quarry's 24th win against one loss and four draws but a large number of the fans at the Olympic disagreed with the officials' decision.

Oakland Oaks Spoil Opening For Amigos

ANAHEIM (AP) — The Anaheim Amigos of the American Basketball Association will have a chance tomorrow night to show the home town crowd that they're not always the most gracious of hosts.

COMBINED AP & UPI

RIVERSIDE, Calif. — The team of England's Bruce McLaren and Denis Hulme is only one victory away from a sweep of the six-race Canadian-American Challenge Cup Series today. And it appears only Jim Hall of Texas can stop the pair.

McLaren won a stirring duel with the Chaparral-Chevy driver yesterday to capture the fifth race of the series — the rich Times Grand Prix for sports cars before an estimated 82,000 fans at the Riverside International Raceway course.

It was the former New Zealander's second straight Can-Am victory. Hulme, the world grand prix champion and the winner of the first three races of the series, went out after suffering body damage on the second lap to his team McLaren-Chevy.

The victory gave McLaren nine points in the international competition to move in front of his teammate in the individual scoring. The winner, either McLaren or Hulme, will get $31,500.

USC Super-Star O. J. Simpson May Be Out For Rest Of Season

LOS ANGELES — O. J. Simpson, top-ranked Southern California's brilliant junior halfback, may be on the shelf for the rest of the regular season with a sprained right instep, Coach John McKay said today.

"I doubt if he'll play much more football for us—if any—this season," the veteran Trojan mentor declared.

"The doctors tell me he is out indefinitely," McKay continued, "He is on crutches." Southern Cal, now 7-0, is at California next Saturday. The Trojans end their regular campaign at Oregon State and at home against archrival UCLA, the No. 2 team in the nation.

Simpson, who has gained 1,050 yards in seven games, was injured in the second half.

Oregon State, which achieved one of the season's great upsets two weeks ago by stunning Purdue, tries for another Saturday at the expense of second-ranked and undefeated UCLA.

While the Bruins (6-0-0 so far) are hosting the ambitious Beavers, other scheduled Pacific Eight action will find Stanford at Washington and Oregon at Washington State. Outside the conference, there are such interesting clashes as eighth-ranked Wyoming at San Jose State and Colorado State at University of the Pacific. San Diego State, top-ranked among the nation's small schools, is idle until Nov. 11. The Aztecs squeezed out a 28-21 win over Fresno State Saturday night.

Oregon State banged Washington State, 35-7 that afternoon while Washington dropped California, 23-6 and Stanford lost in the final two minutes to Army, 24-20. UCLA had a bye.

Novato Hornet Gridders Have To Settle For A Tie

The Novato High School's struggling offense finally let loose last Saturday against Montgomery High School at Santa Rosa, but you couldn't tell by the score.

The end result was a frustrating 6-6 tie for the Hornets, although they pushed Montgomery around every which way but out.

The Hornets amassed 250 yards total offense, 12 of which went for a touchdown on a pass from clutch sub quarterback Greg Davenport to Pete Weekley in the third quarter.

But that was all the Hornets could punch over, as they saw opportunities die out on the two- and eight-yard lines.

Montgomery scored on the opening play, on a 54-yard getaway by Joe Stender and that was all. The losers got 57 yards rushing.

Davenport, filling for junior Russ Dillon, completed 10 of 18 passes for 119 yards. Halfback Larry Bresnan, doing most of the running damage, piled up 101 yards rushing.

FOUR WAYS TO GET CHEAP TIRES!

1. Buy a no-name brand that nobody ever heard of. You can usually get a discount on them.
2. Get tires at a place where the service is not up to snuff. This might knock off a buck or two.
3. Be satisfied with poor quality, 2nd and 3rd line tires — 2-ply seconds — recaps. These are all cheaper.
4. Buy them where safety is not the paramount concern. Where they throw 'em on and move you out.

NOW! IF YOU'RE A GAMBLER . . . and your luck is good, you might "save" 10 or 15 per cent — to start with. But if you are the kind of person who likes to buy with confidence knowing you will get the very finest service and quality, please see me. All my men are experts . . . safety experts.

WILDCATS ROMP

Marin Catholic Has Easy Win

By KIMO CAMPBELL

The football team at St. Vincent's High of Vallejo is known as the Hilltoppers, but after being ground into the turf of College of Marin Stadium by Marin Catholic's gleeful Wildcats Saturday night, the name may be changed to Groundhogs.

The hapless visitors were never in the game as Marin Catholic powered its way to touchdowns the first two times it got the ball, the coasted for a 27-7 win before about 500 fans.

Halfback Jim O'Brien was the big gun, reeling off an 80-yard TD sprint and leading the night's rushing tables with 112 yards on a mere six rushes. Old reliable Jim Finnegan chipped in 54 yards and a pair of TD's.

DEMORALIZING

Probably even more demoralizing to the outclassed Hilltoppers was the play of Marin's defensive line, notably Steve Collins, Mike Davilan, Barry Lando, Paul McCathy, and linebacker Nick Ferrua — who held them to a measly 49 yards net on the ground and rushing the Vallejan's quarterbacks into 17 incomplete passes in 24 attempts.

The 'Cats marched 52 yards for their first score, with O'Brien picking up 29 yards on three runs and quarterback Jim Nelson tossing a pass to Collins for 14 to pace the drive. Nelson scored on a sneak from a yard out on fourth down. John Crawford's kick made it 7-0 with 5:28 to go in the first period.

Three plays later, St. Vincent's fumbled and Davilan fell on the muff at the SV 31. Two Nelson-to-Ray Giacomini passes ate up 23 yards, and Finnegan barreled around right end for the score. The PAT was blocked.

80-YARDER

After a St. Vincent's punt, the Wildcats had first and ten at their own twenty with about 5 minutes left in the half. O'Brien slipped through the line on a quick opener, picked his way around tacklers for the first 15 yards, then simply outran the opposition for an 80-yard touchdown burst. The kick was good.

The 'Cats came right back when S.V. had to punt after the kickoff, with O'Brien hauling the punt back 50 yards. A pass to Giacomini and two runs by fullback Greg King picked up a first down at the Hilltoppers' two, but Nelson's pass was intercepted at the goal line, and St. Vincent's escaped with a 20-0 deficit at the half.

Marin got its last TD 10 minutes into the third quarter after Rick Rutte picked off a Hilltopper pass and lugged it back 27 yards to the visitors' 11. After an offsides penalty against St. Vincent's, Finnegan swept around left end for eight and the TD. Crawford's kick was again good, and Marin enjoyed-make that gloried-in a 27-0 lead.

TOUCHDOWN

The fourth period's only activity of note was St. Vincent's lame-duck touchdown, set up by an interception, and a 36-yard run by Finnegan.

Marin Coach Joel Kiff was understandably happy with his team's performance after a disappointing showing against Cardinal Newman in Santa Rosa last week. "It was a good one to win," he said. "Our tackles, Lando and McCarthy, played well — Collins, of course O'Brien and Finn, but it was actually a team victory — everybody played well."

The 'Cats, now 3-4 on the year, have a bye next week before ending the season against MCAL power Terra Lind on November 11. Kiff said "we've got two weeks to prepare for them. They're real tough, but we'll do our best."

Seals Glad To Get Back Home

OAKLAND (UPI) — Home ice will look mighty nice to the California Seals who have lost five of their six games on a lengthy eastern road trip.

The road-weary Seals (2-5-2) averted a sixth consecutive loss at Philadelphia last night when defenseman Aut Erickson fired a 15-footer past Flyer goalie Doug Favell with 1:38 remaining. The screened shot, Erickson's first goal of the season, gave California a 2-2 tie with the Flyers in a game between two Western Division expansion teams of the National Hockey League.

NO PICNIC

The Seals' homecoming will be no immediate picnic because they will square off against the fast-skating New York Rangers at the Oakland Arena Wednesday night. New York and Boston are tied for third place in the NHL's Eastern Division.

Philadelphia and California each scored once in the first period with George Swarbrick of the Seals slamming the puck in the nets after assists from Erickson and Joe Szura. Philadelphia went ahead 2-1 in the second period when Ed Hoekstra banged in his fourth goal of the season from five feet out on a power play.

Stone and the Pirates got nothing but losses from the Redwood defense in the fourth quarter but another bid by the Giants flopped as Alvarado nailed the game-ending interception.

Interceptions killed the Redwood offense all day. Despite a 396-yard offensive total, the Giants' saw five drives killed by interceptions.

Falcon Linebacker Nobis Even Surprising Himself

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The freckle-faced middle linebacker from Texas, who astonished National Football League observers last season by earning a starting berth in the Pro Bowl game, is even surprising himself this year.

He did just that yesterday when he intercepted a pass while reclining on the ground late in the fourth quarter, got up and ran 41 yards for the winning touchdown as the Atlanta Falcons won their first game of the season, 21-20 over the Minnesota Vikings.

"I was lying on the ground, on my back," said the thick-necked 235-pounder. "I saw the ball lying on somebody's chest. I grabbed it, rolled over and jumped to my feat."

EMERGES FROM SCRAMBLE

For the record, Minnesota, trailing 14-13, was in possession on its own 35 when Ron VanderKelen threw a pass over the middle. The ball was tipped by tackle Karl Rubke and a wild scramble ensued as it fell toward the ground.

Nobis somehow came up with the ball and slipped out of the pack as players from both teams stood transfixed. After hesitating a split second to see if he really were free, Nobis rumbled toward the Minnesota goal and carried a Viking defender on his back for the last five yards.

"The ball never touched the ground," he said. "There was an official right there. I'm glad I didn't have to run another five yards. That's the first TD I've scored, or at least I can remember scoring, since high school."

It proved to be the winning touchdown when VanderKelen and Bob Grim connected for a seven-yard touchdown pass 31 seconds before the end of the game.

Nobis also set up the Falcons' second touchdown—a 10-yard pass from Randy Johnson to Tommy McDonald—with a second-quarter interception of a Joe Kapp pass and a return to the Vikings' 23. Johnson and McDonald teamed for a 41-yard score in the first quarter.

LIONS ROUTE

Another linebacker, Mike Lucci, started the Detroit Lions to a shocking 45-3 rout of San Francisco, Baltimore edged Washington 17-13, Los Angeles pinned Chicago 28-17, New York outlasted Cleveland 38-34, Philadelphia stung Dallas 21-14 and Pittsburgh upened New Orleans 14-10 in other NFL games.

MONDAY CONTEST

The Rams remained a game behind the Colts in the Coastal Division as Roman Gabriel passed for two touchdowns and scored one himself in a rain-soaked battle at Wrigley Field. Tommy Mason passed 51 yards to Bernie Casey on the halfback option play for the other Los Angeles tally. Gale Sayers managed only 13 yards rushing in the mud.

WILDCATS ROMP

Marin Catholic Has Easy Win

By KIMO CAMPBELL

The football team at St. Vincent's High of Vallejo is known as the Hilltoppers, but after being ground into the turf of College of Marin Stadium by Marin Catholic's gleeful Wildcats Saturday night, the name may be changed to Groundhogs.

The hapless visitors were never in the game as Marin Catholic powered its way to touchdowns the first two times it got the ball, the coasted for a 27-7 win before about 500 fans.

Halfback Jim O'Brien was the big gun, reeling off an 80-yard TD sprint and leading the night's rushing tables with 112 yards on a mere six rushes. Old reliable Jim Finnegan chipped in 54 yards and a pair of TD's.

DEMORALIZING

Probably even more demoralizing to the outclassed Hilltoppers was the play of Marin's defensive line, notably Steve Collins, Mike Davilan, Barry Lando, Paul McCathy, and linebacker Nick Ferrua — who held them to a measly 49 yards net on the ground and rushing the Vallejan's quarterbacks into 17 incomplete passes in 24 attempts.

The 'Cats marched 52 yards for their first score, with O'Brien picking up 29 yards on three runs and quarterback Jim Nelson tossing a pass to Collins for 14 to pace the drive. Nelson scored on a sneak from a yard out on fourth down. John Crawford's kick made it 7-0 with 5:28 to go in the first period.

80-YARDER

After a St. Vincent's punt, the Wildcats had first and ten at their own twenty with about 5 minutes left in the half. O'Brien slipped through the line on a quick opener, picked his way around tacklers for the first 15 yards, then simply outran the opposition for an 80-yard touchdown burst. The kick was good.

The 'Cats came right back when S.V. had to punt after the kickoff, with O'Brien hauling the punt back 50 yards. A pass to Giacomini and two runs by fullback Greg King picked up a first down at the Hilltoppers' two, but Nelson's pass was intercepted at the goal line, and St. Vincent's escaped with a 20-0 deficit at the half.

Marin got its last TD 10 minutes into the third quarter after Rick Rutte picked off a Hilltopper pass and lugged it back 27 yards to the visitors' 11. After an offsides penalty against St. Vincent's, Finnegan swept around left end for eight and the TD. Crawford's kick was again good, and Marin enjoyed-make that gloried-in a 27-0 lead.

TOUCHDOWN

The fourth period's only activity of note was St. Vincent's lame-duck touchdown, set up by an interception, and a 36-yard run by Finnegan.

Marin Coach Joel Kiff was understandably happy with his team's performance after a disappointing showing against Cardinal Newman in Santa Rosa last week. "It was a good one to win," he said. "Our tackles, Lando and McCarthy, played well — Collins, of course O'Brien and Finn, but it was actually a team victory — everybody played well."

The 'Cats, now 3-4 on the year, have a bye next week before ending the season against MCAL power Terra Lind on November 11. Kiff said "we've got two weeks to prepare for them. They're real tough, but we'll do our best."

Seals Glad To Get Back Home

OAKLAND (UPI) — Home ice will look mighty nice to the California Seals who have lost five of their six games on a lengthy eastern road trip.

The road-weary Seals (2-5-2) averted a sixth consecutive loss at Philadelphia last night when defenseman Aut Erickson fired a 15-footer past Flyer goalie Doug Favell with 1:38 remaining. The screened shot, Erickson's first goal of the season, gave California a 2-2 tie with the Flyers in a game between two Western Division expansion teams of the National Hockey League.

NO PICNIC

The Seals' homecoming will be no immediate picnic because they will square off against the fast-skating New York Rangers at the Oakland Arena Wednesday night. New York and Boston are tied for third place in the NHL's Eastern Division.

Philadelphia and California each scored once in the first period with George Swarbrick of the Seals slamming the puck in the nets after assists from Erickson and Joe Szura. Philadelphia went ahead 2-1 in the second period when Ed Hoekstra banged in his fourth goal of the season from five feet out on a power play.

Falcon Linebacker Nobis Even Surprising Himself

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The freckle-faced middle linebacker from Texas, who astonished National Football League observers last season by earning a starting berth in the Pro Bowl game, is even surprising himself this year.

He did just that yesterday when he intercepted a pass while reclining on the ground late in the fourth quarter, got up and ran 41 yards for the winning touchdown as the Atlanta Falcons won their first game of the season, 21-20 over the Minnesota Vikings.

"I was lying on the ground, on my back," said the thick-necked 235-pounder. "I saw the ball lying on somebody's chest. I grabbed it, rolled over and jumped to my feat."

EMERGES FROM SCRAMBLE

For the record, Minnesota, trailing 14-13, was in possession on its own 35 when Ron VanderKelen threw a pass over the middle. The ball was tipped by tackle Karl Rubke and a wild scramble ensued as it fell toward the ground.

Nobis somehow came up with the ball and slipped out of the pack as players from both teams stood transfixed. After hesitating a split second to see if he really were free, Nobis rumbled toward the Minnesota goal and carried a Viking defender on his back for the last five yards.

"The ball never touched the ground," he said. "There was an official right there. I'm glad I didn't have to run another five yards. That's the first TD I've scored, or at least I can remember scoring, since high school."

It proved to be the winning touchdown when VanderKelen and Bob Grim connected for a seven-yard touchdown pass 31 seconds before the end of the game.

Nobis also set up the Falcons' second touchdown—a 10-yard pass from Randy Johnson to Tommy McDonald—with a second-quarter interception of a Joe Kapp pass and a return to the Vikings' 23. Johnson and McDonald teamed for a 41-yard score in the first quarter.

LIONS ROUTE

Another linebacker, Mike Lucci, started the Detroit Lions to a shocking 45-3 rout of San Francisco, Baltimore edged Washington 17-13, Los Angeles pinned Chicago 28-17, New York outlasted Cleveland 38-34, Philadelphia stung Dallas 21-14 and Pittsburgh upened New Orleans 14-10 in other NFL games.

MONDAY CONTEST

The Rams remained a game behind the Colts in the Coastal Division as Roman Gabriel passed for two touchdowns and scored one himself in a rain-soaked battle at Wrigley Field. Tommy Mason passed 51 yards to Bernie Casey on the halfback option play for the other Los Angeles tally. Gale Sayers managed only 13 yards rushing in the mud.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER

Do you feel tense before you bowl? Well, for one thing, remember that this is a game . . . so enjoy it. Relax. A physical way of doing this is to take a deep breath and let it out slowly before you start your approach.

Today is Monday, Oct. 30, the 303rd day of 1967 with 62 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Venus and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1941, a German submarine torpedoed and sank an American Naval destroyer, even though the United States was not at war.

In 1949, an Army transport arrived in New York City from Germany with the first refugees entering the United States under the Displaced Persons Act.

A thought for the day — American playwright George Michael Cohan once said: "No matter what may happen, whatever may befall, I only know that I'm mighty glad I'm living, that is all."

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey, Western District headquarters. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

The depths are always additive to the chart depths unless preceded by a minus sign (-), when the numbers are subtracted from the depth given in the chart. Three pairs of bridge experts were selected a few weeks ago to represent the United States in the 1968 Bridge Olympics.

Today's hand, in which two of those pairs played against each other, shows how an expert bases his reasoning not only on what has happened but also on what has not happened.

NO TRUMP

Edgar Kaplan's opening bid of two no trump was lighter than standard American requirements. He and his partner, Norman Kay, usually have 21 or 22 points for this opening bid, but will often stretch a 20-point hand.

Kay's response of three clubs was the Stayman Convention, asking the opener to show a major suit of four or more cards. Kaplan obediently bid his spades, and Kay raised to game in spades.

CLUB OPENER

Bill Root opened the five of clubs from the west hand, trying to avoid a lead that would cost a trick. Al Roth refused the first club trick, and Kaplan won with the queen.

When South returned the king of clubs, Roth took the ace and led a third club to dummy's jack.

IMPORTANT CLUE

By this time Kaplan felt sure that West had the queen of trumps. West was obviously making neautral leads, yet he had never led the most neutral of all leads — a trump. Kaplan therefore led the ten of spades and let it ride for a finesse.

When this held, Kaplan repeated the finesse with the nine of spades, cashed the top diamonds, ruffed a diamond in dummy, ruffed the last heart with the ace of spades and then took the last trick in dummy with the king of spades.

ANSWER: In standard bidding, open with one diamond. You intend to bid three no trump at your next turn, but if partner responds in spades you will jump to game in spades instead.

Wrong Trees Are Cut Down

SALEM, Ore. (UPI)—Motorists complained about a vision problem at an intersection here and the City Council quickly responded with an order to cut down 28 trees. Park crews cut down the trees on the north side of the corner.

But the complaint had been about the trees on the south side. The trees that had been cut down belonged to Robert Cannon, a city councilman.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Fluctuations Are Common Experience

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am a widow, age 52, with about $50,000 in assets. I bought Flying Tiger at 35; Continental Air Lines at 29; American Telephone at 53; Tenneco at 32. As soon as I bought these stocks they began to fall and I have been sick at heart. Should I sell and take my loss or hold until they come back and then run to the safety of a bank? I need advice and hope you can help.— S.F.

A. I am very much pleased to help someone in your rather lonely situation. You bought generally good stocks and if market fluctuations, which are commonplace, make you heartsick, perhaps you shouldn't hold stocks at all. I believe, though, that after you have lived with the stock market for awhile, you will become accustomed to its vagaries and that you will find the ownership of stocks a rewarding experience over a period of time. There is only one issue, Flying Tiger, which a person in your circumstances should probably not have bought at all. This stock represents a leading cargo carrier and has, I believe, good management and potential. However, it is heavily dependent on business from the Military Airlift Command, which lowered rates earlier this year. This is a reasonable holding for a businessman with a diversified portfolio. Variations in MAC business make it, in my opinion, unsuitable for a person like yourself. I would switch this one stock into Chesebrough-Pond's, which I believe has a more assured growth outlook. I would hold your other stocks, all of which have satisfactory long-term potential.

Q. Why was Mack Trucks taken off the market? — J.R.

A. Mack Trucks was merged into Signal Oil and Gas Sept. 1 and subsequently was suspended from trading. Each share of Mack common was exchangeable for 1 share of Signal Oil convertible $2.20 pfd., now quoted on the American Exchange.

About 600 persons were slain Aug. 20, 1813, in an Indian massacre at Ft. Sims, near Mobile, Ala.

Stocks Take A Setback At The Close

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed lower today despite considerable strength shown by special issues. Trading was fairly active.

As a group the oils were strongest.

Volume for the first four hours was 7.17 million shares, about the same as Friday.

Rheem Manufacturing leaped more than 8 points and paced the list on volume as it responded to news of a $60-a-share tender offer from City Investing.

Among other oils, Standard of New Jersey advanced 1½ and Texaco about 2 points on higher earnings.

M-G-M was a 2-point gainer on expectations of higher earnings.

Softness in blue chips dampened the averages. Down a point or so were such key stocks as Du Pont, Eastman Kodak, General Electric, Lorillard and Uniroyal.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

By HARRY CRAFT

Margarita Plaza At Northgate Industrial Center Is Expanding

Last April, Waldron and Co., San Francisco investment securities firm, moved its headquarters from the city to the first building constructed in the Margarita Plaza at Northgate Industrial Park to get out of the high rental area.

At that time 2,200 square feet was taken and an option was taken to add half as much space by the first of next year. That date can now be advanced. The second Margarita Plaza building should be ready in another 10 days. Sales and lease agent for the park, Dohemann and Co., will move its offices there from building number one, leaving Waldron its extra 1,100 square feet — which it needs badly. Building number one is now completely occupied by five tenants.

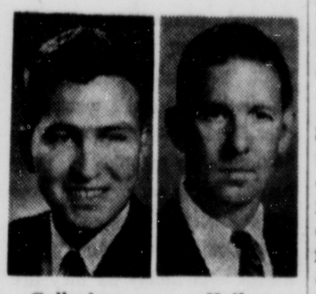
This is a first store venture for James Ballantine of Santa Cruz, formerly with Longs Drug Stores. Inventories are Hallmark cards, party supplies and box stationery. Ballantine's next store will probably be in San Francisco and he plans others in Marin. Kathy Harris of Corte Madera is in charge of the local store.

Hours are from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., with Wednesdays and Fridays extended to 9 p.m. Until Christmas the store will open on Sundays from 1 to 5 p.m.



Gallagher Hall

MICHAEL GALLAGHER of Fairfax has joined the staff of First American Title Co. of Marin as an escrow officer. He has been involved in the real estate industry for over five years and was formerly associated with Waterfront Land Associates, a Corte Madera real estate development firm.

Other new additions to First American's staff are Carlo Rode of San Rafael and Maria Steen-Larsen of Woodacre as locators, and Sandy Fedorchak of San Rafael as a poster in the plant.

WILLARD N. HALL of Los Ranchitos has been elected assistant vice president, investments, for Industrial Indemnity Co. Prior to joining the multiple-line insurance carrier in 1960 he was a senior investment analyst with Wells Fargo Bank.

DISCUSSIONS. James C. Nelson Jr. of San Rafael, executive vice president and creative director of Hoefer, Dietrich and Brown, Inc., is a panel member discussing television commercial production at the regional conference of the American Association of Advertising Agencies at Pebble Beach this week . . . San Anselmo business consultant Jack Feller was a principal speaker at the Oregon Association of Hospitals at Eugene last week. In November he'll address Western Hospitals Administrators Institute in Hawaii.

KENNETH A. BLACK of San Rafael has been promoted to assistant manager of Wells Fargo Bank's Fillmore-O'Farrell office in San Francisco. Formerly assistant cashier at the Matson Building office, he began his career with Wells Fargo in 1959 and has served in various other offices.

KETCHAM'S SCHOOL OF SAILING in Sausalito is introducing a new course in celestial navigation for serious mariners. Capt. Bruce Martens of Sausalito, recently returned from the Caribbean, will conduct classes which begin tomorrow at 7 p.m. at Ketcham headquarters at 666 Bridgeway. Call the school registrar for details.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Fluctuations Are Common Experience

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am a widow, age 52, with about $50,000 in assets. I bought Flying Tiger at 35; Continental Air Lines at 29; American Telephone at 53; Tenneco at 32. As soon as I bought these stocks they began to fall and I have been sick at heart. Should I sell and take my loss or hold until they come back and then run to the safety of a bank? I need advice and hope you can help.— S.F.

A. I am very much pleased to help someone in your rather lonely situation. You bought generally good stocks and if market fluctuations, which are commonplace, make you heartsick, perhaps you shouldn't hold stocks at all. I believe, though, that after you have lived with the stock market for awhile, you will become accustomed to its vagaries and that you will find the ownership of stocks a rewarding experience over a period of time. There is only one issue, Flying Tiger, which a person in your circumstances should probably not have bought at all. This stock represents a leading cargo carrier and has, I believe, good management and potential. However, it is heavily dependent on business from the Military Airlift Command, which lowered rates earlier this year. This is a reasonable holding for a businessman with a diversified portfolio. Variations in MAC business make it, in my opinion, unsuitable for a person like yourself. I would switch this one stock into Chesebrough-Pond's, which I believe has a more assured growth outlook. I would hold your other stocks, all of which have satisfactory long-term potential.

Q. Why was Mack Trucks taken off the market? — J.R.

A. Mack Trucks was merged into Signal Oil and Gas Sept. 1 and subsequently was suspended from trading. Each share of Mack common was exchangeable for 1 share of Signal Oil convertible $2.20 pfd., now quoted on the American Exchange.

Stocks Take A Setback At The Close

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed lower today despite considerable strength shown by special issues. Trading was fairly active.

As a group the oils were strongest.

Volume for the first four hours was 7.17 million shares, about the same as Friday.

Rheem Manufacturing leaped more than 8 points and paced the list on volume as it responded to news of a $60-a-share tender offer from City Investing.

Occidental Petroleum ran up 7 or more points following news of another new oilfield discovery in Libya.

Among other oils, Standard of New Jersey advanced 1½ and Texaco about 2 points on higher earnings.

M-G-M was a 2-point gainer on expectations of higher earnings.

Softness in blue chips dampened the averages. Down a point or so were such key stocks as Du Pont, Eastman Kodak, General Electric, Lorillard and Uniroyal.

Margarita Plaza At Northgate Industrial Center Is Expanding

Last April, Waldron and Co., San Francisco investment securities firm, moved its headquarters from the city to the first building constructed in the Margarita Plaza at Northgate Industrial Park to get out of the high rental area.

At that time 2,200 square feet was taken and an option was taken to add half as much space by the first of next year. That date can now be advanced. The second Margarita Plaza building should be ready in another 10 days. Sales and lease agent for the park, Dohemann and Co., will move its offices there from building number one, leaving Waldron its extra 1,100 square feet — which it needs badly. Building number one is now completely occupied by five tenants.

This is a first store venture for James Ballantine of Santa Cruz, formerly with Longs Drug Stores. Inventories are Hallmark cards, party supplies and box stationery. Ballantine's next store will probably be in San Francisco and he plans others in Marin. Kathy Harris of Corte Madera is in charge of the local store.

Hours are from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., with Wednesdays and Fridays extended to 9 p.m. Until Christmas the store will open on Sundays from 1 to 5 p.m.

'Cleaner Air Week' More Pretense Than Real

This is "National Cleaner Air Week," according to the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District.

The "national observance" of this among the special weeks in this country "is to increase public awareness of the problem of air pollution in our cities and encourage support of local programs," says the smog district's announcement. It is being sponsored nationally by the Air Pollution Control Association.

THE BAY AREA AIR Pollution Control District was the first in the nation extending beyond the boundaries of a single county. Since it was set up in 1955, it has banned open dump burning, policed industrial smoke emissions and evaporation of reactive organic compounds.

Having moved on dumps and industry, the district is about to move on agriculture. It is getting ready to impose a long-discussed ban on agricultural burning.

WE WOULD NOT for a moment denigrate the work of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District. At minimal cost to the taxpayers, it has done a great deal of work on the subject. Its data accumulation alone is of great value in attacking the problem of smog.

However, there are some days when we wonder about that 3,300 tons of pollutants eliminated from the atmosphere. We don't know how many tons the stuff weighs that smells bad, irritates nose, throat and eyes. But we know it's there. And we believe the scientists who tell us it is extremely dangerous.

The smog district's attack on industrial burning has yielded some observable results. Its ban on open burning of rubbish has taken some smoke out of the air. But the dump burning ban has contributed to another problem — rats.

THE MAIN OFFENDER, according to every California smog study, is the automobile. The Bay Area district does not deal with this. It is dealt with on a state basis by the California Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board.

California has laws requiring exhaust and crankcase devices on all new cars and exhaust devices on all post-1955 used cars to reduce the emission of dangerous irritants.

Even these, however, have not made much of a dent in the problem. About the best we can say for National Cleaner Air Week is that, were it not for the efforts so far, the smog doubtless would be worse than it is.

We hope that more effective controls, such as automobiles with turbine engines or some other form of power may make national cleaner air a reality in some future year—not just a week, but all the time.

If it doesn't, the hydrogen bomb won't be needed. Man will have signed his own death warrant with his own pollution.

Treat—No Trick

As has happened each Halloween since 1950, some children tomorrow night will ring doorbells, not for "trick or treat" but for donations for the United Nations Children's Fund.

This channeling of Halloween fun to serve a good cause has become almost as traditional as "trick or treat" itself. The nickels, dimes and quarters the youngsters collect go to UNICEF to pay for food, medicine and education for suffering children in many parts of the world.

Last year, according to UNICEF's New York headquarters, children collected $2.7 million for this cause on Halloween.

If a child who rings your doorbell tomorrow night has a UNICEF box, the treat he's asking is not for himself but for some child who really needs it. That's worth remembering.

Congress Off Base In Considering Law Against Pay Television

WASHINGTON — It seems utterly fantastic that Congress should be giving the slightest thought to preventing pay-TV from coming into being.

Why should Congress presume to tell any segment of the American people that private enterprise mustn't offer subscription television to families who are willing to pay for it?

Where is there any right or reason for Congress to make it impossible for families to see programs they pay for — if they prefer them — than programs they can see for nothing.

RECENTLY a referendum in California won a majority approval to the effect that pay-as-you-see television mustn't be put on the market. There must be pretty good judges in California because the courts found that such a law, however enacted, was unconstitutional.

And now Congress is toying with the idea. Zenith Radio Corp. has a proposal before the Federal Communications Commission to set up a subscription TV system on a permanent, nationwide basis. Approval appeared imminent but, before it could be announced, the communications subcommittee of the House Commerce Committee suddenly started hearings to see if it shouldn't veto it.

Why should it even want to consider vetoing it? Why not let the public decide?

ONE BAD REASON is that present competitors in the entertainment world just don't want new competition. The movie houses don't want current, high-grade films available to people in their homes on a paid basis. And neither does advertising television. They just want things kept nicely as they are and the best way to do it is to persuade Congress that it ought to keep pay-television off the market.

Well, if that is a sound way to run a free society, there wouldn't be any movie industry in the first place. The legitimate theaters would have persuaded Congress that it ought to prevent the production of movies because they would cut the theater trade. And television would never have been allowed in the first place because it upset the movie industry.

"We believe we can meet the competition (of free television) and get underway and put this new service to the test of the free market — as we do with other new products every day of our business life — and risk acceptance or rejection by the public we are trying to serve.

"This has always been the ultimate test in our free market system. We believe that the viewing public cna be that the viewing public can be

I don't know whether pay-television would be a good thing or not. But why not find out by the best way of finding out — by letting the public decide?

Another Budget Deficit, New Bond Issues Loom

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Those who think the 1968 Legislature will have easy sledding in financing a new budget, because of the huge tax increase enacted this year, must do some more thinking.

And those who believe the economies in government effected by the administration of Gov. Ronald Reagan will eliminate the need for another series of bond issues on the election ballot in 1968 also are in for a shock.

For it appears that next year will produce just as many financial problems. And the 1968 election ballot should carry from $600 million to $1.2 billion more in bond issues.

CONSIDERING the budget first, one prominent Republican legislator, who was instrumental in drafting and pushing the tax increase bill through the legislature in 1967, said "we just didn't put enough money into the bill." His guess was that the state may be short up to $200 million in financing the 1968-69 budget.

Sen. George Miller Jr., D-Martinez, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said recently that underestimation of 1968-69 expenditures by the Reagan Administration would produce a gap between income and outgo of at least $200 million.

Already the University of California and the state college system have been proposing budgets for the next year far in excess of the present level of expenditures. The state college budget, for instance, is at about $298 million, an increase of 23 per cent.

Of course, no one takes the first budget proposals of either the university or state colleges too seriously. Even under the more liberal administration of Gov. Edmund G. Brown, a substantial reduction was made from the original budget requests of these agencies, and they expect it.

ON THE MATTER of bond issues, its' true, of course, that everyone has agreed that the bond issue barrel is about dry. The state soon will be paying out more in interest and bond redemption costs than it realizes each year from selling new bonds.

Despite these pronouncements, it appears the bond issues may be on nearly a "business as usual" basis in 1968. Already the Legislature has approved a $200 million bond issue to continue the program of low-interest loans for veterans' farm and home purchases. And it approved a $65 million bond issue for the ballot to finance junior college construction.

It would be a surprise if at least $200 million more in bonds is not needed for school building aid loans.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

One evening in Miami Beach, Steve Allen was strolling on Collins Avenue with a clothier when a young lady ankled by who was wearing very, very tight slacks. "I can see now," sighed the clothier, "I should have added Capri pants to my line this season." "Hindsight," pointed out Allen.

"Back in Mark Twain's day," Mr. Brower points out, "Square' was one of the finest words in our language, among the top 10 in an lexicographer's hit parade. You gave a man a square deal if you were honest. You gave him a square meal when he was hungry. You stood foursquare for the right, and square against anything else. When you got out of debt, you were square with the world. And that was when you could look your fellow man square in the eye.

"Then a lot of strange characters got hold of this honest, wholesome word and bent it all out of shape.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Oct. 30, 1947

Plans for development of a 512-acre Ignacio tract to include a motel and business district, estimated to cost $1 million, were presented to the Marin County Planning Commission.

The state filed its first condemnation suit in preparation for construction of the $1.5 million Greenbrae interchange on Highway 101.

20 YEARS AGO

Oct. 30, 1957

Marin voters turned down two ballot propositions which would have authorized $2,625,000 in bonds for expansion of Marin General Hospital.

Ward H. Austin, president of the College of Marin, topped the list of 15 Marin residents elected to a board of freeholders to draft a county charter.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Potential Reader Dislikes Ryskind

Editor, Independent-Journal:

This past week, your newspaper has been left with me as an introductory free sampling. I would like you to know thaat I cannot subscribe to any paper that offers Morrie Ryskind to its readers.

For years, now —after a sudden end to his career on Broadway — this reactionary has been appealing to the know-nothings of our time; his life has been devoted to snarling at and trying to impede every form of social progress.

"Liberal" and "intellectual" are the key hate-words of his columns — and I cannot admire the newspaper that disseminates his prejudices.

Some Of Reasons Why Youth Rebels

Editor, Independent-Journal:

In your editorial of Oct. 25 you mention a sickness among our youth. I have never seen a reasonable explanation for the rebellious (unpatriotic) acts and attitudes of our generation, and I hope this letter is a start.

All through elementary and high schools we were "instilled with a love for our country," as you put it. We were taught that whatever America did was right (with the exception of slavery); our massacre of the Indians was justified because the Indians were cruel and heartless (General Custer was selfless and kind). Our intervention in Latin America is justified by the Monroe Doctrine (a unilateral declaration). The Spanish-American war liberated the Cubans and the Filipinos from Spain so that we could protect them from gaining independence too soon.

As we got older, we started to learn the whole truth about the gray areas in our history. We saw the Indian massacre for what it was — genocide. The U.S. operates with quite a bit of freedom in its "sphere of influence": the western hemisphere, yet we send 500,000 troops to prevent China from influencing its neighbors.

We learn that Spain had yielded to all our demands concerning Cuba, and we declared war anyway.

Learning that our country has made, and is still making such bloody mistakes, and that our American society is not as perfect as we were brought up to believe, shatters our image of our country and destroys our respect for it.

Ever since we were able to read the newspaper and understand what we had read, we have heard of atomic bombs, guided missiles, and bomb shelters. We surround Russia with a ring of missile sites and scream "foul" when she does the same. We are surrounded by violence in the entertainment and in the very core of our society.

It should not be surprising or mysterious that many of us rebel at the insanity in our world and do not have a deep love for any powerful government.

Would You Call It A Police State?

Editor, Independent-Journal:

During the year that I lived in Mexico, the daily paper in Guadalajara printed a picture every single day of American police brutality — against students or strikers or Negroes or poor people.

The last few weeks have been horrendous. A little old lady kept in jail all night because she remonstrated with policemen, the ministers' refuge for runaways raided, the police sweeps in Haight-Ashbury, the Oakland attacks on newsmen, Reagan applauding their savagery toward demonstrators and even a priest, and San Rafael's attempt to provide special treatment to police arrested in San Rafael. The kindly big man in blue who was our servant and protector has vanished.

There is another Fairfax case which is quite amusing, or dreadful, in view of Chief Orr's problems. Last year an eighth grade girl was very rude to the wives of two Fairfax policemen. These ladies drove at once around the block to the station and within minutes the girl and her companions were under arrest. Their names were a matter of police record, their criminal careers initiated by their rudeness. Their problem was that they were rude to the wrong people. It was a clear case of lese majeste — for police are now the inviolate arbiters of American life.

Would you call it a police state?

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Someone In Washington Really Cottons To Nasser

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — Someone high in the Johnson Administration is making it his business to be mighty nice to President Gamal Nasser.

Despite the bombastic UAR ruler's long record of virulent hostility toward the U.S., his curt severing of diplomatic relations on the slanderously false ground that U.S. planes aided the Israeli in their blitz destruction of his Soviet-provided air force, and his default on a $2 million installment on a $56.5 million loan, the mysterious administration benefactor has —

1. In the four months since the break in official ties, permitted the importation of more than 12,000 bales of Egyptian extra-long staple cotton — thus handing Nasser some $3 million in desperately needed foreign currency.

2. Allowed shipment into the U.S. of millions of square yards of Egyptian cotton textiles. Commerce Department records show that one million yards of Egyptian textiles entered the U.S. in July, and that this total soared to 3.5 million yards in August — a gain of 350 per cent in one month. This enormous increase further enriched Nasser's empty coffers by upwards of $300,000.

3. Also despite the breach between the two countries, the State Department late last month extended until January an expiring trade treaty under which Egypt can unload in the U.S. up to 51 million square yards of cotton textiles annually. Last year Egyptian textile imports totaled $2.9 million, up from $1.2 million the year before.

THIS VERY profitable and timely UAR trade has been strictly one-way. Since the break in relations, U.S. exports to Egypt have been virtually nil.

When Nasser, several months ago, was compelled to buy wheat, he turned to France — probably paying for it with dollars he got from his undistrurbed sales of extra-long staple cotton and textiles to the U.S.

Since 1961 the U.S. has given and "sold" the UAR (for its currency which remains in that country) more than $800 million in surplus grain and other food.

THERE ARE THREE remarkable facets of the Johnson Administration's convert solicitude for Nasser, as follows:

1. These dealings have been highly hush-hush. There has been no hint either from the White House or the State Department about the continuing UAR cotton shipments and extension of the trade treaty. Nothing has been said about either, publicly or privately. Even members of Congresss with direct interest in these matters were not told.

2. The US. is wholly self-sufficient in extra-long staple cotton. It grows this type of cotton equal in quality to any in the world. It is grown in four states — Arizona, California New Mexico and Texas. The government has a stockpile of 232,000 bales of this cotton. Domestic consumption is approximately 150,000 bales annually.

3. Until last week Speaker John McCormack, D-Mass., at the secret behest of the administration, barred the House from considering a widely supported bipartisan bill to prohibit the importation of Eyptian extra-long staple cotton. Although approved 22 to 2 by the Agriculture Committee and unanimously by the Rules Committee, this measure was kept pigeonholed by McCormack until last week — when growing threats of an open revolt forced him to allow it to be brought up for a vote.

The smog district's attack on industrial burning has yielded some observable results. Its ban on open burning of rubbish has taken some smoke out of the air. But the dump burning ban has contributed to another problem — rats.

THE MAIN OFFENDER, according to every California smog study, is the automobile. The Bay Area district does not deal with this. It is dealt with on a state basis by the California Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board.

California has laws requiring exhaust and crankcase devices on all new cars and exhaust devices on all post-1955 used cars to reduce the emission of dangerous irritants.

Even these, however, have not made much of a dent in the problem. About the best we can say for National Cleaner Air Week is that, were it not for the efforts so far, the smog doubtless would be worse than it is.

We hope that more effective controls, such as automobiles with turbine engines or some other form of power may make national cleaner air a reality in some future year—not just a week, but all the time.

If it doesn't, the hydrogen bomb won't be needed. Man will have signed his own death warrant with his own pollution.

Treat–No Trick

As has happened each Halloween since 1950, some children tomorrow night will ring doorbells, not for "trick or treat" but for donations for the United Nations Children's Fund.

This channeling of Halloween fun to serve a good cause has become almost as traditional as "trick or treat" itself. The nickels, dimes and quarters the youngsters collect go to UNICEF to pay for food, medicine and education for suffering children in many parts of the world.

Last year, according to UNICEF's New York headquarters, children collected $2.7 million for this cause on Halloween.

If a child who rings your doorbell tomorrow night has a UNICEF box, the treat he's asking is not for himself but for some child who really needs it. That's worth remembering.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Congress Off Base In Considering Law Against Pay Television

WASHINGTON — It seems utterly fantastic that Congress should be giving the slightest thought to preventing pay-TV from coming into being.

Why should Congress presume to tell any segment of the American people that private enterprise mustn't offer subscription television to families who are willing to pay for it?

Where is there any right or reason for Congress to make it impossible for families to see programs they pay for — if they prefer them — than programs they can see for nothing.

What are these Congressmen thinking about? It just doesn't make sense.

RECENTLY a referendum in California won a majority approval to the effect that pay-as-you-see television mustn't be put on the market. There must be pretty good judges in California because the courts found that such a law, however enacted, was unconstitutional.

And now Congress is toying with the idea. Zenith Radio Corp. has a proposal before the Federal Communications Commission to set up a subscription TV system on a permanent, nationwide basis. Approval appeared imminent but, before it could be announced, the communications subcommittee of the House Commerce Committee suddenly started hearings to see if it shouldn't veto it.

Why should it even want to consider vetoing it? Why not let the public decide?

ONE BAD REASON is that present competitors in the entertainment world just don't want new competition. The movie houses don't want current, high-grade films available to people in their homes on a paid basis. And neither does advertising television. They just want things kept nicely as they are and the best way to do it is to persuade Congress that it ought to keep pay-television off the market.

Well, if that is a sound way to run a free society, there wouldn't be any movie industry in the first place. The legitimate theaters would have persuaded Congress that it ought to prevent the production of movies because they would cut the theater trade. And television would never have been allowed in the first place because it upset the movie industry.

"We believe we can meet the competition (of free television) and get underway and put this new service to the test of the free market — as we do with other new products every day of our business life — and risk acceptance or rejection by the public we are trying to serve.

"This has always been the ultimate test in our free market system. We believe that the viewing public cna be that the viewing public can be

I don't know whether pay-television would be a good thing or not. But why not find out by the best way of finding out — by letting the public decide?

Another Budget Deficit, New Bond Issues Loom

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Those who think the 1968 Legislature will have easy sledding in financing a new budget, because of the huge tax increase enacted this year, must do some more thinking.

And those who believe the economies in government effected by the administration of Gov. Ronald Reagan will eliminate the need for another series of bond issues on the election ballot in 1968 also are in for a shock.

For it appears that next year will produce just as many financial problems. And the 1968 election ballot should carry from $600 million to $1.2 billion more in bond issues.

CONSIDERING the budget first, one prominent Republican legislator, who was instrumental in drafting and pushing the tax increase bill through the legislature in 1967, said "we just didn't put enough money into the bill." His guess was that the state may be short up to $200 million in financing the 1968-69 budget.

Sen. George Miller Jr., D-Martinez, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said recently that underestimation of 1968-69 expenditures by the Reagan Administration would produce a gap between income and outgo of at least $200 million.

Already the University of California and the state college system have been proposing budgets for the next year far in excess of the present level of expenditures. The state college budget, for instance, is at about $298 million, an increase of 23 per cent.

Of course, no one takes the first budget proposals of either the university or state colleges too seriously. Even under the more liberal administration of Gov. Edmund G. Brown, a substantial reduction was made from the original budget requests of these agencies, and they expect it.

ON THE MATTER of bond issues, its' true, of course, that everyone has agreed that the bond issue barrel is about dry. The state soon will be paying out more in interest and bond redemption costs than it realizes each year from selling new bonds.

Despite these pronouncements, it appears the bond issues may be on nearly a "business as usual" basis in 1968. Already the Legislature has approved a $200 million bond issue to continue the program of low-interest loans for veterans' farm and home purchases. And it approved a $65 million bond issue for the ballot to finance junior college construction.

It would be a surprise if at least $200 million more in bonds is not needed for school building aid loans.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

One evening in Miami Beach, Steve Allen was strolling on Collins Avenue with a clothier when a young lady ankled by who was wearing very, very tight slacks. "I can see now," sighed the clothier, "I should have added Capri pants to my line this season." "Hindsight," pointed out Allen.

"Back in Mark Twain's day," Mr. Brower points out, "Square' was one of the finest words in our language, among the top 10 in an lexicographer's hit parade. You gave a man a square deal if you were honest. You gave him a square meal when he was hungry. You stood foursquare for the right, and square against anything else. When you got out of debt, you were square with the world. And that was when you could look your fellow man square in the eye.

"Then a lot of strange characters got hold of this honest, wholesome word and bent it all out of shape.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Potential Reader Dislikes Ryskind

Editor, Independent-Journal:

This past week, your newspaper has been left with me as an introductory free sampling. I would like you to know thaat I cannot subscribe to any paper that offers Morrie Ryskind to its readers.

For years, now —after a sudden end to his career on Broadway — this reactionary has been appealing to the know-nothings of our time; his life has been devoted to snarling at and trying to impede every form of social progress.

"Liberal" and "intellectual" are the key hate-words of his columns — and I cannot admire the newspaper that disseminates his prejudices.

Editor, Independent-Journal:

In your editorial of Oct. 25 you mention a sickness among our youth. I have never seen a reasonable explanation for the rebellious (unpatriotic) acts and attitudes of our generation, and I hope this letter is a start.

All through elementary and high schools we were "instilled with a love for our country," as you put it. We were taught that whatever America did was right (with the exception of slavery); our massacre of the Indians was justified because the Indians were cruel and heartless (General Custer was selfless and kind). Our intervention in Latin America is justified by the Monroe Doctrine (a unilateral declaration). The Spanish-American war liberated the Cubans and the Filipinos from Spair so that we could protect them from gaining independence too soon.

As we got older, we started to learn the whole truth about the gray areas in our history. We saw the Indian massacre for what it was — genocide. The U.S. operates with quite a bit of freedom in its "sphere of influence": the western hemisphere, yet we send 500,000 troops to prevent China from influencing its neighbors.

We learn that Spain had yielded to all our demands concerning Cuba, and we declared war anyway.

Learning that our country has made, and is still making such bloody mistakes, and that our American society is not as perfect as we were brought up to believe, shatters our image of our country and destroys our respect for it.

Ever since we were able to read the newspaper and understand what we had read, we have heard of atomic bombs, guided missiles, and bomb shelters. We surround Russia with a ring of missile sites and scream "foul" when she does the same. We are surrounded by violence in the entertainment and in the very core of our society.

Our textbooks used to say (referring to communist governments) that "all power corrupts, and absolute power corrupts absolutely."

It should not be surprising or mysterious that many of us rebel at the insanity in our world and do not have a deep love for any powerful government.

Would You Call It A Police State?

Editor, Independent-Journal:

During the year that I lived in Mexico, the daily paper in Guadalajara printed a picture every single day of American police brutality — against students or strikers or Negroes or poor people.

The last few weeks have been horrendous. A little old lady kept in jail all night because she remonstrated with policemen, the ministers' refuge for runaways raided, the police sweeps in Haight-Ashbury, the Oakland attacks on newsmen, Reagan applauding their savagery toward demonstrators and even a priest, and San Rafael's attempt to provide special treatment to police arrested in San Rafael. The kindly big man in blue who was our servant and protector has vanished.

There is another Fairfax case which is quite amusing, or dreadful, in view of Chief Orr's problems. Last year an eighth grade girl was very rude to the wives of two Fairfax policemen. These ladies drove at once around the block to the station and within minutes the girl and her companions were under arrest. Their names were a matter of police record, their criminal careers initiated by their rudeness. Their problem was that they were rude to the wrong people. It was a clear case of lese majeste — for police are now the inviolate arbiters of American life.

Would you call it a police state?

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Someone In Washington Really Cottons To Nasser

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — Someone high in the Johnson Administration is making it his business to be mighty nice to President Gamal Nasser.

Despite the bombastic UAR ruler's long record of virulent hostility toward the U.S., his curt severing of diplomatic relations on the slanderously false ground that U.S. planes aided the Israeli in their blitz destruction of his Soviet-provided air force, and his default on a $2 million installment on a $56.5 million loan, the mysterious administration benefactor has —

1. In the four months since the break in official ties, permitted the importation of more than 12,000 bales of Egyptian extra-long staple cotton — thus handing Nasser some $3 million in desperately needed foreign currency.

2. Allowed shipment into the U.S. of millions of square yards of Egyptian cotton textiles. Commerce Department records show that one million yards of Egyptian textiles entered the U.S. in July, and that this total soared to 3.5 million yards in August — a gain of 350 per cent in one month. This enormous increase further enriched Nasser's empty coffers by upwards of $300,000.

3. Also despite the breach between the two countries, the State Department late last month extended until January an expiring trade treaty under which Egypt can unload in the U.S. up to 51 million square yards of cotton textiles annually. Last year Egyptian textile imports totaled $2.9 million, up from $1.2 million the year before.

THIS VERY profitable and timely UAR trade has been strictly one-way. Since the break in relations, U.S. exports to Egypt have been virtually nil.

When Nasser, several months ago, was compelled to buy wheat, he turned to France — probably paying for it with dollars he got from his undistrurbed sales of extra-long staple cotton and textiles to the U.S.

Since 1961 the U.S. has given and "sold" the UAR (for its currency which remains in that country) more than $800 million in surplus grain and other food.

THERE ARE THREE remarkable facets of the Johnson Administration's convert solicitude for Nasser, as follows:

1. These dealings have been highly hush-hush. There has been no hint either from the White House or the State Department about the continuing UAR cotton shipments and extension of the trade treaty. Nothing has been said about either, publicly or privately. Even members of Congresss with direct interest in these matters were not told.

2. The US. is wholly self-sufficient in extra-long staple cotton. It grows this type of cotton equal in quality to any in the world. It is grown in four states — Arizona, California New Mexico and Texas. The government has a stockpile of 232,000 bales of this cotton. Domestic consumption is approximately 150,000 bales annually.

Under the trade pact, Nasser has been able to unload his cotton in this country at a few cents under the government's support price.

3. Until last week Speaker John McCormack, D-Mass., at the secret behest of the administration, barred the House from considering a widely supported bipartisan bill to prohibit the importation of Egyptian extra-long staple cotton. Although approved 22 to 2 by the Agriculture Committee and unanimously by the Rules Committee, this measure was kept pigeonholed by McCormack until last week — when growing threats of an open revolt forced him to allow it to be brought up for a vote.

If Officers Don't Watch Road, Trees Get All The Patrolling

Officers on patrol who keep running off the road and hitting trees, ditches and telephone poles deserve a warning and a reprimand, as suggested by the Marin Safety Commission.

However, in the interests of fair play, we must put in a word on behalf of the erring patrolmen, because there are mitigating circumstances.

Patrolmen who keep getting into accidents are not necessarily the least efficient. To the contrary, they may be the most conscientious and most effective lawmen on the force.

Some of them, especially those on the graveyard shift, are so engrossed in "patrolling" — scanning buildings, windows, doors, and moving figures — that they completely ignore the road. To them, a patrol car is only a means of getting from here to there; patrolling and observing are of such primary concern that incidental matters such as staying on the road should not be allowed to interfere.

AND SO WE CAN'T be too harsh on those who sacrifice a bit of road safety to devote more attention to public protection.

Patrolmen, too, might give in a little, sacrificing a little of the observation and scanning aspects of patrolling in the interest of safer driving. After all, if a patrolman keeps ramming roadside trees and knocking himself out of action, the roadside trees will get all the attention, and the rest of the county will go unprotected.

KENTFIELD IS ALL AGOG over the Nov. 7 election, which offers voters the first really contested fire district election since 1915.

Scout leader and volunteer fireman George Rust Jr. is bucking two incumbents, and the in-fighting has been so intense that repercussions have reached the Civic Center.

First, they questioned the residential status of Rust, which prompted this clarification from the Marin County Counsel:

"Although some question has been raised as to the domicile of Mr. Rust, he is, at this time, a registered voter of the Kentfield fire district . . . he is eligible to file as a candidate."

Reports are also circulating that they put a private eye on Rust's trail in an effort to find a flaw in his eligibility. But apparently the private eye came up with a blank because Rust is still running at full speed, with backing from a host of distinguished citizens.

We're glad to see a little life injected into these "small" elections, which all too often go by default because the community lacks the interest or even the awareness that an election is in the offing.

There is a logical explanation, maintenance officials at the civic center point out. Turning lights on and off burns up more electricity and wears out the bulbs, and it's less expensive in the long run to leave the lights burning all day.

MARIN COUNTY'S finest, who were called out for emergency duty in Oakland during the sit-in demonstrations, fortunately were not needed.

Out of the corner bar stumbled a poor drunk, who peered bleary-eyed at the massed column of uniformed officers and decided he was hopelessly outnumbered and didn't have a chance for a getaway.

So he staggered bravely toward the column of officers, mustered all the dignity that his inebriated condition would allow, and zig-zagged defiantly down the row of officers until a long arm in blue reached out and plucked him off the street.

We can just see him boasting to fellow inmates in the drunk tank: "I'm no common drunk, no sir. They sent 300 men to bring me in."

Extra Pupil Load Is Board Topic

How to accomodate five kindergarten pupils from the Nicasio district will be discussed by the Lagunitas School District board at a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. today in Room 2 of the school, according to Glen E. Twitchell, president of the board.

The Lagunitas district previously agreed to accept the children. Lagunitas School now has 60 kindergarten pupils and the board will decide whether to increase the size of the classes or create a third class, Twitchell said.

The board will review the plans for a 10-classroom, $250,000 addition to the school prior to submitting them to the state for approval, according to Twitchell. It will also receive a soils report on the site from Harding and Associates of San Rafael, he said.

Pacification Drive Failing In U.S. As Campuses Ruled Off Limits

Peirre Bernheim
16 Avenue Hoche
Paris, France

My Dear Pierre,

Forgive me for not writing sooner, but as you know there is a war going on in the United States and I have been in my fallout shelter for several months.

The Pentagon is still in the hands of the government. An assault last weekend by members of the 51st Light Peace Brigade, known as the Fighting Doves, supported by the 33rd Flower Battalion, failed and was repulsed by members of the 82nd Airborne Division of the U.S. Army. There was heavy fighting in the north parking lot, and suicide units of the SDS (Students for a Democratic Society) managed to get to the steps of the building before they were turned back.

GEN. NORMAN MAILER of the 22nd Heavy Obscenity Corps was captured, as were 600 other Militant Peace Commandos.

The attack started with a barrage of curse words followed by an assault across the demilitarized zone with clubs, pop bottles and tomatoes.

In fierce hand-to-hand combat the loyal government troops held their ground, and by evening Army spokesmen were able to announce that the Pentagon was safe, at least for the moment.

But while it turned out to be a military victory for the government, neutral observers here believe that President Johnson's pacification program in the United States is failing.

IN ORDER TO WIN the war in the United States, Mr. Johnson has to win the hearts and minds of the American people. This he is failing to do, and there is considerable speculation that his regime may be overthrown by November, 1968.

While the President still has support in Washington, D.C. (his wife, Sen. Everett Dirksen and his future son-in-law), it's very hard to find it in the countryside. There has been fighting in Madison, Wis., Boston, Mass.; Oakland, Calif. and Brooklyn, N.Y.

The military is dissatisfied with the civilian control of the situation and would like to wipe out the peace resisters once and for all. They want to bomb Harvard, Yale, the University of Michigan, the University of Wisconsin and the University of California at Berkeley, but these targets, for political reasons, are still off limits.

The military men claim they can't win the war if the peace marchers continue to use the Dr. Benjamin Spock Trail.

SO YOU SEE, my dear Pierre, the situation in the United States is quite serious, and some experts predict it will go on for 20 years. I know you are worried for our safety, but please be assured we are taking all precautions.

We sleep in the fallout shelter, and Helene only goes out in the morning to buy bread and milk. I fly the French flag from my automobile to show everyone I am neutral, and, if worse comes to worse, the embassy has assured us a cruiser will be sent to evacuate us. Thank God I kept my French passport.

We sleep in the fallout shelter, and Helene only goes out in the morning to buy bread and milk. I fly the French flag from my automobile to show everyone I am neutral, and, if worse comes to worse, the embassy has assured us a cruiser will be sent to evacuate us. Thank God I kept my French passport.

LBJ Likely To Go Along With November Adjournment Plans

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—There were no signs at the Texas White House today of any concerted effort by President Johnson to discourage Congress from adjourning in November with important parts of his legislative program still hanging fire.

Indications that the House and Senate would shut up shop for 1967 by Thanksgiving have increased in recent days. Publicly the White House has been noncommital.

The President and his wife were spending a few days at their Johnson City ranch near here. No time has been announced for their return to Washington, but the President must be at the White House Wednesday to greet the visiting king of Nepal.

The Johnsons flew here late Saturday after a colorful, enthusiastic reception in El Paso, Tex., and her neighbor city in Mexico, Ciudad Juarez. The purpose of their visit was to join with Mexican President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz in ceremonially marking the end o f a century-old border dispute involving a section known as El Chamizal.

The First Family spent yesterday quietly. The President and Mrs. Johnson attended early morning Episcopal church services in Fredericksburg not far from the ranch.

Earlier this last summer and early fall, there was hopeful expectation by the administration that the House and Senate would continue plugging away well into December on key legislative items involving higher taxes, housing, urban development and funding of certain government operations.

For the record, the President as of today had not given up in his call for action at this session on an administration-proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge to finance the war in Vietnam and combat inflation.

This would be his chief reason for wanting to keep the lawmakers in session if he saw a reasonable chance for tax bill passage. From available external evidence, the tax plan is thoroughly bottled up in the House Ways and Means Committee and its chairman, Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., has shown no signs of changing his position that the administration should make extensive economies before the tax bill is brought up.

Thus the President in the relatively near future might be expected to restate his position on pending legislation wih no view to stopping the adjournment push in Congress, but more to remnid the public and political leaders once again of his recommendations and those responsible for their not being adopted this year.

Equal Pay Bargaining No. 1 Plan

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers, negotiating with their No. 2 strike target, Chrysler Corp., are expected to press for "the only major thing" they didn't win from their No. 1 target—equal pay for Canadian and American workers.

"Canadian wage parity is going to be a very crucial issue in these negotiations. It's a top priority item," Douglas Fraser, UAW Chrysler department director, said after the union decided to take the contract won from its No. 1 target, Ford Motor Co. to Chrysler before going to General Motors.

After the Ford agreement, Walter P. Reuther, union president, said Canadian wage parity was "the only major thing we didn't win."

UAW employees at Chrysler and General Motors have been working without contracts since Sept. 6, when Ford workers struck.

Smoking Device For The Bed

DALLAS (UPI)—James Gregory says he has an invention that will let people smoke in bed without burnnng themselves up when they go to sleep.

One of several inventions the bespectacled auto worker has come up with, the safe-smoking device is a tubelike metal holder into which the smoker inserts the lighted cigarette.

Norman Thomas Plans To Retire

NEW YORK (AP) —Norman Thomas, six-time Socialist candidate for president, says he expects "to shut down an active life" by the end of the year.

But Thomas, who will be 83 next month, told an international student-travel conference yesterday that speech was not his last public appearance.

He said demonstrators should be washing the American flag, not burning it. "I don't like the sight of young people burning the flag of my county, the country I love."

Early Virginia settlers were unsuccessful at growing native tobacco and only after seeds were brought in from Trinidad and Venezuela did they grow a satisfactory quality smoking tobacco, which led to the state becoming a world producer.

Freak Wind Blamed For Two Deaths

GULFPORT, Miss. (AP) — High winds from either a tornado or waterspout smashed viciously into this Gulf Coast city today, killing at least two persons and injuring scores of others.

The Mississippi Highway Patrol unit at Gulfport reported the two fatalities and said some other people were missing.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said the rain is continuing.

Witnesses said that one restaurant and a group of motels in a beach area were flattened. Many mobile homes were toppled, some with occupants still inside.

Damage was widespread. However, witnesses said most serious damage seemed to be confined to the Mississippi City-Handsboro areas, neighboring communities.

Half the women employed on jobs today are over 40 years old, the Department of Commerce reports. Almost two-fifths of these are 45 years, or more, of age.

Gibraltar was taken by England from Spain in 1704, and formally ceded to them by the Treaty of Utrecht in 1713.
